PUBLIC ENDORSEMENT

OF

JOHN T. LANGFORD

For Representative TO THE General Court

The following are the signers

The descent is certain from weak lungs, coughing, throat troubles or bronchial affections through bleeding lungs, to consumption, if the first stages are neglected. Thousands of people who are now in their graves would be alive and well today if they had heeded the first warnings of those troubles which lead to consumption and death.

The hacking cough, spitting of blood, weak lungs, and all similar troubles of the organs of breathing, will surely lead to consumption, if they are not the other indications of the approach of consumption, such as night sweats, emaciation, or wasting away of flesh from bad nutrition, which, if neglected, lead to certain death.

Ninety-eight per cent. of all the cases of weak lungs, bleeding lungs, coughing and obstinate coughs, and other bronchial and throat diseases, which have been treated with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, have been cured by it. Do not wait until your throat trouble becomes serious. All bronchial and throat troubles are serious. The time to take the "Golden Medical Discovery" is right at the start.

Even if your throat trouble has been neglected until it has become pronounced pulmonary disease or consumption, do not hesitate to use the "Golden Medical Discovery," for thousands of letters from the sufferers themselves, who are now well, bear evidence that the "Golden Medical Discovery" will cure, even after good physicians have pronounced the disease pulmonary consumption.

"I had been troubled with bronchitis for several years," writes Mrs. Orlin O'Hara, Box 114, Piquette Falls, Ontario, Can. "In the first place, I had sore throat. I doctored with different physicians and took various medicines, but got no relief. I raised from my throat a sticky substance like the white of an egg. Could not sleep, and had made up my mind that I would not live through the winter. I took Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and, in a few days, began to see that I was better. I took eight bottles. I have not felt as well in years, as since using these medicines."

Unfailing—Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets for constipation and biliousness.

S. N. UFFORD & SON, 12 WEST ST., BOSTON.

TWO DEMOCRATIC RALLIES.

BAKER SPEAKS ON REPUBLICAN SILENCE
ABOUT IMPERIALISM.

Despite the stormy weather, the Newton Democrats turned out in large numbers Saturday night at rallies under the auspices of the Jefferson Club. The principal rally was held in Odd Fellows' hall, West Newton. The speakers were William H. Baker of Newtonville, candidate for Congress; C. E. Farrington of Abundant, candidate for senator, 1st Middlesex district; James A. Flanker of Boston and H. J. Skellington of Revere.

Mr. Baker said in part: Who can tell what the Republican policy will do concerning imperialism? From their party platform it is impossible to determine. Yet its chief party leaders, like Mr. Lodge, declare in favor of our taking upon ourselves the duty of meddling with the affairs of every poor, naked wretch, wherever he may dwell on the earth's surface. It would be much more to Mr. Lodge's credit as a United States senator to devise some means whereby the North American Indian, whose ancestors lived on Massachusetts soil long years before the Mayflower landed, might become civilized and good citizens.

After having taken from the Indians their land, can it be true that the great arm of the United States is about to be used to wrest from the peaceful Malay the country of his fathers?

Where does this party stand on this great question, and why has it not expressed itself thereon? Is it because its leadership is entrusted with such men as Mark Hanna, who now sees in his dreams golden visions of the Orient, with the millions of naked Malays, whom he and his associates will employ at a few cents a day in the coal mines of the United States? What black cloud of destruction will visit this great country of ours should labor be put on a par with the labor of the yellow men there?

Where does Mr. Sprague stand on imperialism? Was he for bimetalism in 1896, is he for the gold standard now? Mr. Sprague, while you are living in luxury abroad during the conduct of your campaign, have consideration enough for your constituents at home for their benefit, your position on the issues of the campaign. It is their right to know this; do not forget your duty to them, or they will forget you on election day.

SENATOR HARWOOD REPLIES.

DENIES SOME OF THE CHARGES MADE BY
C. E. FARRINGTON, AND EXPLAINS HIS VOTES ON LEGISLATIVE MEASURES.

Senator Harwood made his first speech of the campaign before the voters of Watertown, Tuesday evening, and took occasion to answer in detail the charges recently made against him by C. E. Farrington, his Democratic opponent.

He said in part: "I have been accused of being a corporation man. I have never owned a share in the securities of any corporation. I have never been employed by any corporation, accepted a favor of any corporation, or received a dollar from any corporation."

"I voted against the investigation of the New Bedford strike because I believed it would serve no public purpose. There has been an investigation and it has had no result."

"I have been charged with voting against the bill to require corporations to pay weekly salaries. This is nonsense. That bill was passed a few years ago. The bill voted against was one requiring contractors and private individuals to pay wages weekly, which was opposed by the farming interests of the state. I voted against it, against all the Whitney gas schemes since 1895 up to the last session, and should have voted for the investigation then had I been present. Why I was not there I cannot now remember. I voted against the bill requiring railroads to carry bicycles as baggage, because I believed that it would entail too much care and expense on railroads, particularly in view of the heavy competition they are now obliged to meet."

"I voted for the substitute savings bank bill in the interests of smaller country towns, which under the original measure would have been deprived of banking facilities."

"In regard to the charge that I voted against the hospital ship and against a measure for providing for the relief of our soldiers I have some feeling. There never was a more misleading and vile misrepresentation than this. Ample means were provided by the special war appropriation of the legislature, which was passed in 25 minutes without a dissenting vote, to enable the governor and council to purchase the ship, and I with other members of the legislature felt and hoped that he would do this. The fact that there now remains a considerable part of this appropriation of $500,000 unexpended shows that this view was correct. The ways and means of the legislature reported that an additional appropriation for this purpose was not necessary, and I voted to accept this report."

NEWTON CLUB.

What will be the attraction at the first November members' entertainment, tomorrow evening.

At the special meeting of the club last Saturday evening the usual committee was appointed to report a list of officers to be voted for at the annual meeting of the club in January.

The changes in the by-laws in regard to annual dues and membership fees, which were voted last spring, went into effect the first of this month.

At the ladies' matinee entertainment next Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. Alice Kent Robinson will give a dramatic recital.

The first of the assemblies, which was held Wednesday evening, followed the precedent established last year inasmuch as it was entirely informal. It was none the less thoroughly enjoyed by the forty members of the dancing set among the club members who were present. The assembly hall was prettily decorated with palms and flowering plants, and the musical features were unusually good. Dancing was enjoyed from eight to ten, and supper followed the dance breaking up about 11.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Whitman, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Follett, Col. and Mrs. F. D. Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. George Sherman, Miss Conwell of Philadelphia, Miss Clarke, Mr. and Mrs. C. COMMITTEE.

In response to numerous inquiries, we would say the Newton really has a Republican ward and city committee, such as it is. No one ever hears of their doing anything in a campaign, except possibly making some sort of a secret deal, and we doubt if any one outside of the committee could give the name of the chairman. They seem to think their position is a purely ornamental
one, and they are either so ashamed of it, or something else, that they keep their connection with it as secret as possible.

In the present campaign, we believe they have held one meeting, and solemnly resolved that no one reads the Newton papers, and that their whole duty would be done if they sent out postal cards announce-ing the date of the election. Possibly they think that Newton people do not read any papers, and so do not know that any election is to be held, and hence the need of a postal card. A good many of the members, of course, besides the chairman, are busy Boston men, they sleep in Newton, and their interest in and knowledge of the city ends
with that.

At the one meeting held this year, it is said, most of the speeches consisted mainly of a glorification of themselves, telling each other what pure and upright Republicans
they were, and of how they despised any tricks in politics, or anything like independence among voters. This is useful,
of course, but what reference it had to the successful conduct of a campaign, ordinary citizens will find it difficult to discover.
But worldly minded people, after such
rhetoric, will find it difficult to discover.
But worldly minded people, after such
rhetoric, will find it difficult to discover.

The committee evidently thinks that the Republican party in Newton is a kind of close corporation, and that they are the trustees. They do not desire to have the general public attend their caucuses, as they never advertise them, possibly for the reason that a large caucus attendance might break their slates, and interfere with their management and the candidates
they wish elected.

Evidently the people understand the situation, for when it comes to a municipal campaign, in which the people are directly interested, this committee is unceremoniously shoved one side, and the people take the matter into their own hands, allowing the committee perhaps to select an alderman
or so, and their selections are generally
so unlit as to be defeated if there is any contest. It is surprising that the citizens have submitted so long to such ring management of political affairs, instead of replacing these "uncle noid" members with capable and up-to-date men in every ward,
who have some interest in Newton affairs
and know something about the city in which they sleep.

VOTE FOR ONE.

The friends of Mr. Langford, believing
the issues involved to be of so great importance in this campaign, the reform of caucus management in Newton, and the rebuke of the self-sufficient committee who manage Republican politics in Newton, are advising that all who believe in pure politics in the city should vote for Mr. Langford alone for representative, and let our
do-nothing ward and city committee elect their candidates, if they can.

Let it be understood that the wishes of the people can no longer be set at defiance
in Newton, by the men who manage our politics, and that some regard must be paid to public opinion. That it is no longer safe in Newton to dictate who shall be nominated, to satisfy private grudges, without any regard to the fitness of the candidates.

We have had some taste of the boss
system in Newton, where one or two men assume to decide questions in which the whole city is directly interested, and it is time that the public expressed their disapproval of such a system so emphatically
that it will not be considered safe to try it again. Mr. Langford was refused the regular nomination simply because the self-appointed directors of Newton politics did not like his sharp criticism of their high-handed acts, although he was better equipped for representative than almost any other man who could have been named.

A vote for Mr. Langford will help to bring about a better state of things political in Newton, and will show that the wishes of the majority can not be defied with safety.

THE ELECTION NEXT TUESDAY.

There seems an unusual lack of interest
among republicans as to the election to be held next Tuesday, as far as the general
ticket is concerned, and this is true not only in Newton, but throughout the state, and the same thing seems to be generally
true throughout the country.

The war and the circumstances attending it has not aroused any great amount of enthusiasm. There was no special honor in defeating a broken-down and bankrupt
country such as Spain, and most people felt regret that if we were to fight, we did not tackle some nation of our size. The revelations of Algerism and the starvation and worse of our own soldiers, with
the records of incompetency and corruption and favoritism, has disgusted the voters, so that the war has been a source of weakness to the administration, instead of a help.

The disclosure, during the past few days,
of the purpose of the administration to seize the whole of the Philippines, to pay a large sum for them, and to involve the country in a mass of international complications, besides rendering necessary a great increase in the army and navy, calling for a continuance and probably an increase of the war taxes, is all so repugnant to New England sentiment, that probably many Republicans will stay away from the polls, to show their disapproval of such a policy, even if they shrink from voting the opposition ticket.

Consequently there will probably be a light vote next Tuesday, except where there are some unusual contests to call the people out, and possibly the result will be so adverse as to call a halt on this so-called policy of imperialism.

THE STATE TICKET.

There is no doubt of the election of the Republican state ticket, but probably by a reduced majority. Mr. Wolcott has made a good governor, although, of course,
has made mistakes, but he is entitled to a re-election on his record, especially out of gratitude to what he has done for the soldiers from this state, who were sufferers
from Algerism. No one could have done more than Governor Wolcott has done to care for the sick and furnish food and other necessaries to the victims of the war department.

In regard to the fight in this congressional district, the Democrats alone have made any contest, but the district was made so safely Republican that Congressman
Sprague is probably sure of re-election.
He feels so certain of it that he has spent
the weeks preceding election in Europe.
He has of course not been able to do much
in his first term, a new member unless unusually gifted seldom is. Popular dissatisfaction with the war scandals and the administration's announced purpose to spend millions for the Philippines, will probably cut down Mr. Sprague's vote somewhat.

In regard to the Senator from this district, Mr. Farrington is making a very warm fight against Senator Harwood, and his public letter has aroused a good deal of discussion in regard to Senator Harwood's record in the Senate, and his votes for the corporations. But the other Republican senators voted the same way, and the corporation influence in that body is so strong
that it is probably useless to resist it.
Senator Harwood in an address before the Congregational Club at West Newton, last winter, declared that he had never seen a lobbyist during his term of office, and never been approached by one, so that his votes were probably given conscientiously.
The general impression is, however, that few senators could say the same. Mr. Farrington does not hope to be elected, but such a vigorous contest as he is making will have a good effect, as it will cause the senators to exercise more care in their votes, realizing that they will be called to a strict account for them. Where there is too large a majority in a district the holder of the office is apt to get careless.

Of the other candidates on the state and county tickets, there seems to be no special interest felt either way.

The sentiment in regard to the mayoralty
seems to be crystallizing in one direction,
and that is that the present crisis in city
affairs requires just such a man as ex-Mayor Bothfield to take the helm. While in office before he showed that he had the courage to grapple with problems that had long been avoided. His courage was equal to any emergencies. When there was anything to be done he did it without regard for the effect it might have on his popularity, and there was a universal feeling of relief that we had such a man at the head of affairs. Now that city expenses are mounting up to a total that is frightening the taxpayers, some radical steps should be taken,
and it would be the height of folly to put up a man who does not know the ground thoroughly, one who would need a year or more to find out what ought to be done. It is therefore gratifying to hear that an effort is to be made by prominent citizens from all the wards, to put the case before Mr.
Bothfield in such a way that it is believed
he cannot refuse to accept the office.

The November Atlantic throws a strong and valuable sidelight upon many of the questions involved in the recent acquisition of new dependencies by the nation in the opening paper by David Starr Jordan
on our past and present management of Alaska. Professor Jordan writes from experience, as a scientist and a government
commissioner, and shows how the vast resources of that country are squandered and wasted by reckless mismanagement, which will be equally destructive to our new possessions if similar methods are allowed to prevail in them.

ALDERMAN DANA's letter, published in another column, is interesting reading, but it is mainly a plea for party loyalty in the representative contest. Within reasonable limits party loyalty is all right, but it is the main reliance of all party bosses. They nominate their men by all sorts of devious ways, and then they announce that it is the solemn duty of all patriotic men to stand by the party. Croker, Quay, Platt and all the other bosses are very strong on party loyalty.

SENATOR HOAR gave a very comforting speech at Worcester, and said we will not annex the Philippines, but will support them in the exercise of self-government.

But there is a disturbing thought, which is that, whatever may be Mr. Hoar's views on any question, will he vote according to his declared principles, or as the party managers order him to vote.

SENATOR EUGENE HALE of Maine hits
about the popular sentiment in New England, at least, by saying, "I would take the Philippines if Spain would give us $40,000-000 with them. The sooner we drop them the better." Probably they would be a bad bargain for us, even if we were paid
that price to take them.

The Newton Civil Service Reform Association sends a timely protest to President McKinley against the proposed changes in the civil service rules, by which hundreds of places will be opened to the old spoils system. So many politicians are in the present administration that Civil Service Reform is in a bad way.

NEWTON.

able evening was passed playing games,
after which refreshments were served.

—Mr. Clarence Moore of Oakleigh road is ill at a Boston hospital.

—Mrs. Margaret Hall, who is very much improved in health, was in town on a brief visit to friends this week.

ton. This is his 73rd trip across the Atlantic.

—Miss Mabel Harty gave a quilting party
at her home on Morse street, Tuesday evening, which was attended by a large number of friends.

—Bunting's fish market on Centre place
has suspended business, as O. Fleming, formerly employed there, has taken a position with Wellington Howes.

—Miss Hitchcock has sold the attractive new house on the corner of Centre and Hollis street to Dr. F. R. Stubbs of Boston, who will occupy as soon as completed.

—Cyrano de Bergerac won fame for his nose, Dewey for his Manila victory, Hobson for the Santiago harbor feat. Burns of Coler's block is famous for his artistic haircuts.

—Rev. Dr. Melville B. Chapman, professor of Homiletics in the School of Theology, of Boston University, will, with his wife and daughter, spend the winter at the Hunnewell.

—Corporals Henry McCammon and
Charles Benyon of Co. C, 5th Mass. U. S.
V. are home on furlough.

—Springer is expected to arrive here Sunday
from Camp Meade.

—The approach of Christmas leads Marshall & Kelley to suggest that Newton
people will find their studio in the Stevens'
building a convenient place to have photographs taken. See their card on first page.

—Mrs. Arthur Carroll, lessons in water man Kirk W. Hobart, of Sargent street, fell from a bicycle on Lake avenue, Tuesday afternoon, striking heavily on her head.

She was taken up in an unconscious condition, and taken to her home. Her injuries are not regarded as serious.

—Postmaster Ellis of the central postoffice at Newton Centre has issued a circular to patrons of the central office and sub-stations, announcing that the department is prepared to at once inaugurate the house to house collection system and the home
stamp sale system throughout the city.

—Private P. J. Stevenson was banqueted
by members of Division 35, A. O. U. E., in Foresters' hall, Wednesday evening, in honor of his safe return from Porto Rico.
President O'Brien, and other speakers welcomed the returned soldier, who made a fitting response. There were several other speakers, and the meeting closed with the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner."

—A members' whist tournament began at the Hunnewell Club, Wednesday evening, and large numbers have entered. Prizes will be given to those holding the highest total score for the season. Another tournament for members and their lady friends will begin this month, to be held the third Tuesday evening in every month. Prizes will be given to the winning couple each evening.

nesday evening, to Mrs. Emma Royce
Graves, at the home of the bride's father,
Mr. Augustus E. Royce, Sumner street,
Newton Centre. The wedding was a private one, only relatives and very important friends being present. Mr. and Mrs. Kempshall left yesterday on the steamer New Zealand for a European trip,
and will be at home after Jan. 15th at 21
Durant street.

—John A. Stanley, who claims to belong
in New York, was in court Wednesday, charged with passing a forged check at the Newton National Bank Aug. 31. He was arrested in Boston for a similar charge
from Salem, and afterwards turned over to the Newton police. He forged the endorsement of Rev. Fr. Gillet, as a voucher for his being the person for whom the check was drawn. He denied ever having been in Newton but was held for trial under $1,000 bonds.

—At the annual meeting of the Women's Board of Foreign Missions in Springfield, a memorial to Mrs. Bowker, founder of the board, and late of Newton, was read and resolutions were passed that we offer devout thanksgiving that the first president of our board was so wonderfully fitted by divine Providence for the great work she was permitted to accomplish in its organization and upbuilding, a work whose influence is felt today in every branch of our service, and is blended with each ray of gospel light that touches, through us, the hearts of our sisters in darkened lands.

—The wedding of Miss Anna Breed Mac-Keown, daughter of a former pastor of the Methodist church in Newton, and Mr. Geo.
Morton Chase, Wednesday night, at Malden, was attended by a large number of

Newton friends, who went over in a special trolley car. The wedding at the Centre Methodist church was followed by a reception at the Kernwood Club. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. B.
Gould of Newton who married the bride's parents. The bride wore ivory duchess satin, trimmed on the waist and skirt with heavy silk applique. The maid of honor was Miss Edith MacKeown, sister of the bride, who wore a gray chiffon gown, with a coat effect of heavy cream lace and turquoise blue trimmings. The bridesmaids were Miss Annie Holbrook and Miss Antoinette Holbrook of Newton, Miss Kate Benson of Bangor, Miss Margaret Stevenson of Newton, Miss Edna Mac-Keown of Attleboro and Miss Marion Cox of

were Messrs. George H. Presby, Frank E.
Wheeler, William H. MacKeown and W. B.
Robertson of Malden, Orville G. Chase of Geneva, N. Y., and William Holbrook of Newton. At the reception at the Kern-wood Club the couple were assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. George H. Chase and Mr. and Mrs. A. H. MacKeown. They received under a canopy of palms,
autumn leaves, evergreen and laurel, and this effect was carried through the entire clubhouse. Mr. and Mrs. Chase will reside in Malden.

WHAT THE READERS OF THE BOSTON
SUNDAY JOURNAL GET EVERY WEEK.

The GRAPHIC today, in its columns,
shows a unique reproduction of the first page of the Boston Sunday Journal, in its new form.

From all reports, the Journal is making
many new friends and readers by its improved shape and the valuable reading it gives in its Sunday issue.

It seems almost impossible to imagine that in addition to 40 pages of news and miscellany can be given eight pages of fine illustrations on up-to-date matters, and also a 48-page illustrated magazine.

All this the Journal gives for the usual
price of a newspaper, and any one who has read it every Sunday knows the value of the thing. It is properly termed "An Ideal Sunday Newspaper."

Y. M. C. A.

Master Harry Phillips will lead the boys' rally at 3 o'clock, Sunday.

Rev. E. H. Hughes of Malden, formerly of Newton Centre, will speak at the men's meeting Sunday, at 4 p. m. Singing by male quartet.

Special prayer meetings for young men will be held in the Y. M. C. A. parlors, Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday evening, next week. Prof. S. W. Rishel, Rev.
S. H. Daniels, and Mr. Stephen Moore will lead.

The class in penmanship began last Tuesday evening, under the direction of Prof.
J. W. Washington. Young men, who desire to acquire the art of fine writing, may join next Tuesday evening, without losing the first lesson. Twenty lessons will be given for $1.50.

The junior department will hold their monthly business meeting and social network, Thursday evening, at 7.15 o'clock. No member of the department will be admitted except he bring a boy with him, who is not a member. Entertainment will be furnished by Mr. G. W. Hunter of Wakefield, and others.

—The Penn. foot ball team arrived at the Woodland Park Hotel on Wednesday. Other arrivals are F. A. Philbrick, Iye, N. H.; S. W. Clapp and wife; Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Barn, Mr. and Mrs. O. O. Hood, W. H. Pratt, Mr. and Mrs. Norman C. Hoff, A. P. Griffin, W. S. Moore, W. H. Appleton.

—The first fall meeting of the West Newton Women's Educational Club will be held next Friday afternoon in the Unitarian church parlors. Mrs. Walton will give an account of her "Trip to Denver and Biennial Convention." The members of the Newtonville Guild are invited to be present.

—The alarm from box 31 at 4.05 Saturday afternoon was for a small fire in a two-story wooden tenement block on Walnut street, owned by Mary J. Davis and A. B. Potter. The fire was confined to an apartment on the second floor, occupied by Mrs. Florence Cole. The damage amounted to $100. Cause unknown.

—A lecture will be given Monday evening, Nov. 14, in the parlors of the Unitarian church, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society. Miss Benjamin will deliver the lecture on "Santiago and the War," from personal observation. A number of fine stereoscopic views will be given, under the direction of Mr. Newell.

—The monthly business meeting of the Newton Veteran Firemen's Association was held Wednesday evening at the engine house, Westwood street. Only one business was transacted. A special meeting has been called for next Wednesday evening. Arrangements will be made for the anniversary celebration, which comes next month.

—The Newton Women's Suffrage League will hold a public meeting in the parlors of the Unitarian church, Thursday evening, Nov. 17, in the interest of equal suffrage. Congressman Barrows has promised to be present, and address an address. Speeches will be made by other prominent speakers in favor of and against suffrage. A meeting of great interest is promised.

—A recent issue of the "American Stationer," the official organ of the stationers throughout the United States, contains the formal announcement of the entering into business of Mr. Geo. T. Gammons of this place. He has bought out the ruling plant of the Thorp & Martin Co., 129 Milk street, Boston, and has every indication of a growing and prosperous business. His friends wish him success.

—The finance committee of the board of aldermen met last Friday evening and commenced the consideration of the mayor's estimates for the annual appropriation budget. Following are the changes in the recommendations were made, and it is expected that the budget will be reported to the board practically as made up by the committee. The committee will probably have its report ready for presentation by Nov. 8.

—The West Newton Woman's Educational Society opened its fall season last Friday afternoon with a delightful reception tendered the members by its president, Mrs. E. L. N. Walton, at her residence on Chestnut street. Mrs. Walton was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Gilman, Mrs. L. G. Pratt, Mrs. Mary R. Martin, Mrs. George M. Phipps and Mrs. Hastings. The guests were presented to the executive party, Mrs. Tracy, Mrs. Goodwin, Mrs. G. H. Brown and Mrs. L. Brown.

—Sergeant Purcell, with Patrolmen Kyte, Tainter, J. H. Seaver, Quilty, and Butler, made a search of the barns in Weston last Saturday night on a still hunt for tramps. Four places were searched and two arrests made. The men gave the names of John Rice 50 years old, and James Green 46 years old. On Sunday night officers made another search and located William Ward. All three were turned over to the Waltham police, as the town of Weston comes within the jurisdiction of the municipal court of that city. Monday they were sentenced to indefinite periods at the Bridgewater state farm.

—Mounted Officer Tapley had a narrow escape from serious injury last Friday afternoon, while endeavoring to stop a runaway horse on Watertown street. The horse is owned by the Lewando Lye Company, and the horse started to run. Officer Tapley set out in pursuit, and catching up with the animal, caught hold of the bridle. As the officer came alongside, the runaway made several attempts to bite both Tapley and his horse. Several times the maddened animal made furious dashes at Tapley, finally colliding with his horse and knocking the animal over. The officer lost his stirrups, and as he fell, was thrown heavily, but he landed on his feet and sustained no injury. As soon as his own horse regained his feet, the officer once more mounted and, after a long chase, finally held the runaway up near Nonantum.

—Another success to the credit of the St. Bernard's Aid Society was the coffee party and dance held under its auspices in Odd Fellows' hall, Friday evening. St. Bernard's Aid Society is non-sectarian, an association organized for the relief of the poor of this place, and Auburndale. Odd Fellows' hall was utilized for the dance, while the overflow, comprising the non-dancing contingent, was accommodated in the Knoll of Honor hall. Altogether more than 400 guests were entertained, and the affair was a complete financial as well as social success. At Knights of Honor hall whist and an impromptu entertainment, including vocal and instrumental music and recitations by the members of the society, rounded out the evening's enjoyment, while dancing was enjoyed in the larger hall until after midnight. The general committee of arrangements comprised the officers of the society, Miss Julia Monks, Miss Della L. McEnany, Miss Annie G. Gibbons and Miss Mary E. Bradbury, and the trustees, James K. Condrin, Bernard D. Farrell and Daniel J. Linnehan. The floor was in charge of Bernard D. Farrell, who was assisted by W. H. Burns, Frank J. Priest, John A. Duane, Thomas J. Lyons, Stephen Walsh, Thomas B. Hart, Thomas J. Green, William J. Hannan, Hugh J. O'Neil, Edward J.

Smith, James P. Murphy and E. William L. Hollahan.

—See notice of Ladies' Home Circle Entertainment.

—The Foreign Missionary Society will hold the monthly meeting, Monday afternoon, in the parlors of the Congregational church.

—The Ladies' Guild of the Congregational Society will meet next Wednesday, instead of the week following, on account of the fair.

—"From Lexington to Yorktown," with over 180 stereoscopic views, by William W. Ellsworth, at Temple hall, Newtonville, next Tuesday, will be well worth seeing.

—The collection at the Congregational church last Sunday for Home Missions, together with the amount given for the same object through the weekly offering system, amounted to $782.

—Rev. T. P. Prudden gave a short address at the vesper service at the Congregational chapel, Sunday evening. The subject was "Responsibility for our Influence and our Example."

—The Boys' League of the Baptist Society will give a supper and reception Saturday evening at the church, 129 Milk street. Games, music and other attractions will be provided for the entertainment of the young people during the evening.

—A fair will be held in the chapel of the Congregational church, Wednesday and Thursday, Nov. 10 and 11, for the benefit of the Newton Hospital. A Dutch village with all attendants in the national costumes, will be one of the many attractions, and a social and financial success is assured.

—The local branch of the W. C. T. U. met Tuesday afternoon in the Baptist vestry. An item paper edited by Mrs. Burt, Mrs. Burris and Mrs. Perry was presented and much enjoyed by the audience.

—Several fine musical selections were rendered. At the close of the business meeting the union tendered a reception to the members of the Loyal Temperance Legion. About fifty members were present. Mrs. Park of Malden, county superintendent of the L. T. L., was introduced, and held the attention of the little folks with a story of the work of the Legion in this state. Refreshments were served and a pleasant social hour enjoyed.

A Candidate Who Deserves Well of the People of Newton.

To the Editor of the Graphic:—

We have among us a gentleman who has given much time and attention to matters affecting the welfare of the people of this city.

Among the many things for which he deserves our gratitude are these: 1. The more equitable adjustment of the sewer assessment, so that the burden of that public improvement, which once pressed with undue weight upon some, was more evenly divided. His plan certainly showed an intelligent grasp of questions of public finance, and his interest in that large class of our population who have to struggle hard to buy and to maintain their homes.

2. The second of these measures was the lowering of the tracks of the steam railway. We must not forget that at one time it seemed inevitable that we were to have a great mud bank some 12 or 16 feet high, with six tracks on top, dividing our city into two sections, and depressing the value of every house on the north side. It would have cut Newton into two, beside being a most unsightly and inconvenient change. Had it not been for the courage and determination of one man we would have submitted, and then would always have regretted it in vain. Fortunately for the beauty of our city, and for the interests of residents on the north side, a better plan was adopted as the result of the agitation he started.

3. The third of these measures, for which we are indebted to him, relates to the improvement of the Charles river. Here is a beautiful stream, whose waters should be kept pure, and whose banks kept clear for the enjoyment of future generations, but the river was being polluted and appropriated. Unless something had been done it would in time have become a menace to public health and unsightly in the extreme. This gentleman succeeded in awakening the interest of a number of others here and in the towns along the Charles, and the results of his efforts combined with theirs have been the taking of steps to protect this fine stream, and make it a source of enjoyment for years to come.

Much still remains to be done, but enough has been accomplished to call a halt to the injury of this fine river. It is easier now than it was once to think of the Charles as part of the future parkway to be enjoyed by thousands and thousands of people.

Surely it is no mean record for a man to have pressed forward three such important measures as these, but there are many other ways in which he has shown an intelligent and unselfish regard for the welfare of the people.

It was thought by many that when the proper time came it would be to the interest of the city of Newton, and to still wider circles to have him become a member of the General Court, so that he might press on the good work of improving the Charles river, and take hold of other public questions in his broad and generous way.

Without entering here into any questions as to methods of nominating candidates, and without undervaluing the qualifications of other gentlemen for the position, it seems to the writer that now is the time for our citizens, without respect to party lines, to unite in sending Mr. John T. Langford to the state legislature. This is our opportunity to show that we appreciate a citizen who takes an unselfish interest in his fellow citizens, and who has proven himself possessed of abilities which can be made use of for the public benefit of still wider circles. To put it in another way, can we permit such a man to be defeated?

Caucus Reform.

To the Editor of the Graphic:—

Those of us who have attended caucuses for many years and have gone through on each occasion the dreary and humiliating role marked out for us by a few persons, read with interest Mr. Langford's refreshing protest published in last week's local papers. Here is a candidate who is willing to give his energies to a reform which is sorely needed, and which, if carried out, will be far reaching in its effects. To vote for a candidate committed to such a cause is an opportunity which every voter of either party should welcome.

He Should be Elected.

To the Editor of the Graphic:—

I have read your editorial of the 28th ult., on "Mr. Langford's Position" and fully agree with the view taken relative to the importance of reform in our primary political meetings. Indeed, it was difficult to conceive how any one wishing well to the city, the state and the republic could essentially differ from such views. No condition of things is right that in any sense interferes with the free will and action of caucuses and conventions for the nomination of representatives for the suffrages of the people. Any movement, therefore, which has for its object the correction of the abuses of these bodies by remanding, in effect as well as name, the matter of political nominations to the people, is a movement which every citizen should approve, and aim with uncompro-mising purpose and endeavor to help on to success. The lately published address of Mr. Langford is a timely one and is entitled to the most thoughtful consideration of the wide citizenship of Newton. Having had long and intimate acquaintance with Mr. Langford I am glad to give assurance of my appreciation of his ability, his integrity, and his earnest, intelligent interest in public affairs in respect of city, state and country. His services in behalf of Newton in line of the vast improvements which have been going on during the last five years or more have been very great, and as disinterested as great. He never seems to have inquired, "what return, whether of money or position, shall I receive for the untold time and abundance of hard work I am giving to the city and the general public." It seems rather to have been remuneration enough for him to have done the most he could in helping on movements for the public weal. As the late address of Mr. Langford declares, he is now a candidate for representative to the General Court; and in view of his past services, as well as of his evident fitness for the position, it would seem that he is fairly entitled to the votes of his fellow citizens at this time. I sincerely hope that he will be elected.

FIVE HUNDRED CARATS.

By GEORGE GRIFFITH.

(Copyright, 1898, by the Author.)

that he was only waiting for my vigilance to relax to go out and get it.

"Day after day, week after week and month after month the game went on in silence. We met almost every day. His credit had been completely restored at De Beers'. Lomas, his connection, and, as I firmly believed, his confederate, had been, through his influence, sent on a mission to England, and when he went I confess that I thought the game was up; that Marsden had somehow managed to recover the diamond, and that Lomas had taken it beyond our reach.

"Still I watched and waited, and as time went on I saw that my fears were groundless and that the gem was still on the velvet or in the hills. He kept up bravely for weeks, but at last the strain began to tell upon him. Picture to yourself the pitiable position of a man of good family in the old country, of expensive tastes and very considerable ambition, living here in Kimberley on a salary of some £12 a week, worth about £5 in England, and knowing that within a few miles of him, in a spot that he alone knew of, there lay a concrete fortune of, say, £1,500,000, which was his for the picking up if he only dared to go and take it, and yet he dared not do so.

"Yes, it is a pitiless trade, this of ours, and professional thief catchers can't afford to have much to do with mercy, and yet I tell you that as I watched that man day after day with the fever growing hotter in his blood and the unbearable anxiety tearing ever harder and harder at his nerves I pitied him—yes, I pitied him so much that I even found myself growing impatient for the end to come. Fancy that, a detective, a thief catcher, getting impatient to see his victim out of his misery!

"Well, I had to wait six months—that is to say, I had to wait until 5 o'clock this morning—for the end. Soon after 4 one of my men came and knocked me up. He brought a note into my bedroom and I read it in bed. It was from Philip Marsden, asking me to go and see him at once and alone. I went, as you may be sure, with as little delay as possible. I found him in his sitting room. The lights were burning. He was fully dressed and had evidently been up all night.

"Even I, who had seen the despair that comes of crime in most of its worst forms, was shocked at the look of him. Still he greeted me politely and with perfect composure. He affected not to see the hand that I held out to him, but asked me quite kindly to sit down and have a chat with him. I sat down, and when I looked up I saw him standing in front of me, covering me with a brace of revolvers. My life, of course, was absolutely at his mercy, and, whatever I might have thought of myself or the situation, there was obviously nothing to do but to sit still and wait for developments.

"He began very quietly to tell me why he had sent for me. He said: 'I wanted to see you, Mr. Lipinski, to clear up this matter about the big diamond. I have seen for a long time—in fact, from that Sunday night—that you had worked out a pretty correct notion as to the way that diamond vanished. You are quite right. It did fly across the velvet to the Barkly hills. I am a bit of a chemist, you know, and when I had once made up my mind to steal it—for there is no use in mining words now—I saw that it would be perfectly absurd to attempt to smuggle such a stone out by any of the ordinary methods.

"I dare say you wonder what these revolvers are for. They are to keep you there in that chair till I've done, for one thing. If you attempt to get out of it or utter a sound, I shall shoot you. If you hear me out, you will not be injured, so you may as well sit still and keep your ears open.

"To have any chance of success I must have had a confederate, and I made young Lomas one. If you look on that little table beside your chair, you will see a bit of closed lead piping with a tap in it and a piece of thin sheet india rubber. That is the remains of the apparatus that I used. I make them a present to you. You may like to add them to your collection.

"Lomas, when he went on duty that Saturday night, took the bit of tube charged with compressed hydrogen and an empty child's toy balloon with him. You will remember that that night was very dark and that the wind had been blowing very steadily all day toward the Barkly hills. Well, when everything was quiet he filled the balloon with gas, tied the diamond—

"But how did he get the diamond out of the safe? The secretary saw it locked up that evening!" I exclaimed, my curiosity getting the better of my prudence.

"It was not locked up in the safe at all that night," he answered, smiling with a sort of ghastly satisfaction. "Lomas and I, as you know, took the tray of diamonds to the safe, and, as far as the secretary could see, put them in, but as he put the tray into its compartment he palmed the big diamond as I had taught him to do in a good many lessons before. At the moment that I shut the safe and locked it it was in his pocket.

"The secretary and his friends left the room. Lomas and I went back to the tables, and I told him to clean the scales, as I wanted to test them. While he was doing so he slipped the diamond behind the box, and there it lay between the box and the corner of the wall until it was wanted.

"We all left the room as usual, and, as you know, we were searched. When Lomas went on night duty, there was the diamond ready for its balloon voyage. He filled the balloon just so that it lifted the diamond and no more. Two of the windows were open on account of the heat. He watched his opportunity, and committed it to the air about two hours before dawn. You know what a sudden fall there is in the temperature here just before dawn. I calculated upon that to contract the volume of the gas sufficiently to destroy the balance and bring the balloon to the ground, and I knew that if Lomas had obeyed my instructions it would fall either on the velvet or on this side of the hills.

"The balloon was a bright red and, to make a long story short, I started out before daybreak that morning, as you know, to look for back. When I got outside the camp, I took compass bearings and rode straight down the wind toward the hills. By good luck or good calculation or both I must have followed the course of the balloon almost exactly, for in three hours after I left the camp I saw the little red speck ahead of me among the stones on the hillsides.

"I dodged about for a bit, as though I were really after back, in case anybody was watching me. I worked round to the red spot, put my foot on the balloon and burst it. I folded the india rubber up, as I didn't like to leave it there, and put it in my pocketbook. You remember that when you searched me you didn't open my pocketbook, as of course it was perfectly flat, and the diamond couldn't possibly have been in it. That's how you missed your clow, though I don't suppose it would have been much use to you, as you'd already guessed it. However, there it is at your service now."

"And the diamond?"

"As I said these three words his whole manner suddenly changed. So far he had spoken quietly and deliberately and without even a trace of anger in his voice, but now his white, sunken cheeks suddenly flushed a bright fever red, and his eyes literally blazed at me. His voice sank to a low, hissing tone that was really horrible to hear.

"The diamond!" he said. "Yes, curse it and curse you, Mr. Inspector Lipinski—for it and you have been a curse to me! Day and night I have seen the spot where I buried it, and day and night you have kept your nets spread about my feet so that I could not move a step to go and take it. I can bear the suspense no longer. Between you—and that infernal stone—you have wrecked my health and driven me mad. If I had all the wealth of De Beers now, it wouldn't be any use to me, and tonight a new fear came to me—that if this goes on much longer I shall go mad, really mad, and in my delirium rob myself of my revenge on you by letting out where I hid it!"

"Now, listen. Lomas has gone. He is beyond your reach. He has changed his name, his very identity. I have sent him by different posts and to different names and addresses two letters. One is a plan, and the other is a key to it. With those two pieces of paper he can find the diamond. Without them you can hunt for a century and never go near it.

"And now that you know that—that your incomparable stone, that should have been mine, is out yonder somewhere where you can never find it, you and the De Beers people will be able to guess at the tortures of Tantalus that you have made me endure. That is all you have got by your smartness. That is my legacy to you, curse you! If I had my way, I would send you all out there to hunt for it without food or drink till you died of hunger and thirst of body, as you have made me die a living death by hunger and thirst of mind."

"As he said this he covered me with one revolver and put the muzzle of the other into his mouth. With an ungovernable impulse I sprang to my feet. He pulled both triggers at once. One bullet passed between my arm and my body, ripping a piece out of my coat. The other—well, I can spare you the details. He dropped dead instantly."

"And the diamond?" I said.

"Is at your service," replied the inspector in his suave manner, "provided that you can find it—or Mr. Lomas and his plans."

THE END.

"Guilty," but Penitent.

Among the specialists whom the government employs here in Washington is a learned gentleman who was once the superintendent of a Sabbath school. One of the stories he tells of that epoch is of a day when a visiting clergyman addressed the school. On the very front seat sat a pale little boy who had come to Sunday school that morning for the first time in his life. He watched the visiting clergyman with almost painful interest. The visiting clergyman was a large man, with great, dark eyes and a voice like unto that of the bull of Bashan. He rose.

"Children," he thundered, "who made this glorious universe?"

His black eyes glared fiercely at the new boy on the front seat. The urchin squirmed and trembled.

"I did, sir," he said huskily, "but I won't ever do it again!"—Washington Post.

A Cool Diver.

Some years ago an English diver who was at work on a sunken wreck off the island of Diego Garcia had a visit from the same shark every day for a week. At first he had no trouble in scaring it away. It was enough if he gave a turn to the escape valve in his helmet and let out a little air. But at the end of the week it had become very troublesome. The diver signaled for a knife and a looped rope and then boldly held out his bare hand as a bait to the shark. The monster came on with rush and was turning on its back when it was stabbed by the diver, who then passed the loop around its body and sent it up to the surface. A cool head should certainly be included in the equipment of a man who seeks to earn his bread in the sea.—Good Words.

NEWTON CASES IN LOWELL COURT.

CHIEF TARBOR SECURES NUMBER OF CONVICTIONS—ANNIE T. SHEPARD GETS FIVE YEARS ON TWO COUNTS.

Newton supplied a remarkable number of cases to swell the docket of Middlesex Superior court at Lowell last week. Chief Tarbox has been unusually busy and has secured a number of convictions, which will be a source of considerable gratification to the people of Newton.

Several of these cases are of unusual note. The one in which the greatest interest has been evidenced is that of Annie T. Shepard, charged with setting fire to the dwelling house of Lillian K. Schwaar on Walnut street, Newton Highlands, Oct. 23, 1897. On this charge she was sentenced to 2½ years at East Cambridge. On the charge of breaking and entering the same house on May 30 last, she received a similar sentence. Her father is the famous Newton Highlands furniture smashing case, which attracted so much attention.

Harry A. Moore of West Newton was ordered to serve an indeterminate sentence at the house of correction on setting fire to the Pettigrew mill and the Peterson barn at West Newton early last spring. The grand jury found no bill against Edward Whittier, in disney who was charged with breaking and entering the Newton robbery. For the Newton case he received a sentence of two and one-half years. His confederate, Frank M. Osborne, was sentenced to two years.

William Whittier, who was arrested by Chief Tarbox and Inspector Fletcher on the charge of larceny of property valued at $100 from the house of Albert B. Camm, Beach street, Newton Centre, was taken to the Suffolk county court and there sentenced to two and one-half years for a break made previous to the Newton robbery. For the Newton case he received a sentence of two and one-half years. His confederate, Frank M. Osborne, was sentenced to two years.

"Shackler" Wright, alias John Wright, alias John Tarbox, for larceny and breaking and entering at West Newton, has been sentenced to not more than four and not less than three years in state prison.

Stand by the President.

(Boston Globe.)

In Mesroor's well-known biography of Haroun al Raschid the great, it is told that the illustrious ruler had appointed to the governorship of a district not many leagues distant from Bagdad a retired merchant for whom he had conceived a liking. His zeal for the caliphate and good order, his exemplary fidelity to the obligations of Islam, were well known. He had been a liberal giver, notably enriching, from time to time, the fund for the increase of the stipendiary emolument of faithful muzzins. Besides, Ali Bazam, more than once, had voluntarily come forward to the relief of the privy purse of Haroun, which was often heavily drawn upon by the caliph's generosity in relieving cases of special need.

Unpleasant rumors, however, began to come from the district of Ba-bal-Bilooda very soon after the accession of the new governor to power. Merchants of the district resorted in numbers to the city of the caliph, to register their complaints against their grievances. A subordinate official vested with temporary authority took it upon himself to turn away these complainants several times. The persistent nature of their grievances, however, was such that, turning nevertheless, the day, in anger at their obstinacy, he shouted to the delegation that beset him, "Oxen, dull of comprehension, know ye not that he who carps at the doings of a caliph is appointed carps at the caliph himself and gives aid and comfort to his enemies?"

The pleaders had scarcely time to look at one another when the caliph himself, who had chanced to hear the shouting, hastily entered the audience room, followed by the faithful Mesroor. "Dog of a scribbler," exclaimed Haroun, to the subordinate official, "dare you deny to any of the faithful a hearing in the presence of their commander? Let these men be heard."

"But they are attacking the friend of your illustriousness, the pious and generous governor of Ba-bal-Bilooda," stammered the scribe.

"I heard of the prophet," answered Haroun, "though these men brought charges against my first born they should have full liberty to speak. Is a caliph more than mortal that he should not sometimes err in judgment? I shall give him the caliph's robes and ask to be justified because the caliph is accounted a faithful servant of Allah, whose name be praised. Moreover, while we hear the complaints of these merchants."

Encouraged by Haroun's words and manner the suppliants told their several stories with all necessary detail. At once the theatre was despatched in disguise to Ba-bal-Bilooda to find out the truth of the matter. His investigations demonstrated that the governor of the district had proved himself an excellent ruler, and had repeatedly shown himself incompetent to fulfill his duties.

"Remove Ali Bazam from his place at once," decreed Haroun, when the report of the vizier was made to him. "May it never be said in Bagdad that a ruler preferred to wink at incompetency rather than acknowledge that he had mistaken the character and ability of one whom he had clothed with power!"

Will Misrepresent Massachusetts.

(Boston Herald.)

And yet, when the subject of imperialism is acted on in Congress, Massachusetts is likely to be glaringly misrepresented in the Senate, where voting is most important, by a vote in its favor.

Senator Lodge is notorious at Washington, has been among the earliest and most extreme in his favor. We say at Washington, because Senator Lodge's position on this subject has been less pronounced at home. He appreciates the opinion of his state as well as the rest of us. He could not fail to do it, indeed, he deferred to it in the state convention of his party by keeping his imperialistic views in abeyance in his speech there. Since that time, however, he has grown more courageous, as is seen in his remarks at Music Hall last week; they were an evident precursor of what his vote in the Senate is to be. Massachusetts, then, when it is in state in the Union stronger in its opposition to imperialism, is to have her representation in the United States Senate divided on that question.

"I say," said Fuddles, who sometimes thinks he is smart, "what sort of fruit can you raise on an electric plant?" But Fuddles, who also thinks he is smart occasionally, promptly replied, "Currents."—Washington Star.

Newton Single Tax Club.

The second meeting of the season was held on Monday evening at 230 Bellevue street.

Mr. Willis was reported as having spoken on last Sunday morning from the pulpit of the Bell Street Chapel, Providence, R. I., upon the religious and moral claims of Henry George philosophy.

Mr. Filleshorn was reported as having spoken on the afternoon of the 26th inst. before the Borough Grange of the Patrons of Husbandry at Marlboro, at the invitation of an ex-master of the State Grange, who, when, two years ago the Massachusetts League dined the Patrons in Boston, occupied a position of hostility, but who has since read and thought over nearly all of Henry George's books and is going to do the same with "Natural Taxation" also. He gave the speaker a most friendly introduction, advising his fellow patrons to change their attitude from that of simply a watchful defence—to that of a thoughtful study of the science of taxation. He also called a tention several times to the literature of the subject, and himself stood at the respect of customs.

The question was raised but not satisfactorily answered—Why is it that in the study of political economy and social problems, we insist upon a method exactly the opposite to that used in the study of the exact sciences? In the latter case we go straight and direct to the simple settled principles of truth without which not even a start can be made. In the former case we too often begin by wandering off into the errors and fogs of false and conflicting facts, theories, opinions and traditions, which not only do not aid but which actually blind us to the operative principles that lie at our very feet.

Following are some of the thoughts offered upon the subject of the evening. "It is to be hoped that in entering upon the fourth and senior year of its economic studies, it is plain to this club, that as Mr. Shearman says, 'Every form of indirect taxation is unjust to the poor, and that every form of so called direct taxation, (except a tax upon ground rent) is unjust to the honest.'"

Ground rent (and therefore a tax upon ground rent) does not abate the reward of labor because ground rent is only "the measure of the advantage which one occupant gains over all others by occupying a precise position on the earth, the measure of a certain profit gained from that position, which could not be gained elsewhere."

Our special aim tonight is a renewed understanding of the advantage of taxing ground rent, and taxing nothing else in that it does not take a farthing from production but leaves labor its undiminished earnings, and hence increases the total wages of labor by the total amount of present taxes, national, state, and municipal, (except that part which is levied upon the land) and by another almost equal amount of indirect taxes. This increase of wages would be an enormous advantage to labor, which can thrive only upon a natural system of high wages and low prices instead of the present unnatural system, the effect of which is to lower wages and enhance prices.

The question so often asked, has this natural taxation ever been tried? The answer is yes, for centuries in every civilized country under the sun. If you wish to know its operation read Mr. Shearman's book, study the origin, growth, nature, operation and effect of ground rent, a species and system of taxation in actual operation, automatic, irresistible and universal, so automatic that its presence even is often hardly suspected, much less understood. A tax that is "just, equal, full, fair, paid for full value received, returning full value for the payment, meeting all requirements of an ideal tax, and merely a tax which justice allows, but one which justice demands, not merely a tax which ought to be collected, but one which in fact will be collected. Not merely a tax which the state ought to see collected, but one which in the long run the state cannot prevent from being collected."

The club were again urged to read the book, "Natural Taxation," which will be mailed upon receipt of 25 cents. Attention was called to the two pamphlets, one, "The Condition of Labor," and the other, "The New Natural Taxation," both of which the Mass. Single Tax League have had printed six thousand copies for distribution among the intelligent "classes" of Massachusetts. Either of these pamphlets will be mailed by the club upon receipt of five cents.

The next meeting will be Monday evening, Nov. 14, and the subject, "Confiscation."

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

TREMONT THEATRE.—In "The Charlatan," next week's attraction at the Tremont Theatre, the new comic opera by J. W. Philip Sousa and Charles Klein, the composer and author of "El Capitán," De Wolf Hopper has secured another extraordinary successful work, which promises to live as long in popular favor as its predecessor. Its score is full of melody, with plenty of the lifting, swinging, stimulating music that Sousa alone, of all American composers, seems able to write, and a march that already rivals in popularity the famous march in "El Capitán" and the "Stars and Stripes." The libretto is by far the best that Klein has produced. The scene is laid in Russia, in the early part of the present century, and the character provided for Mr. Hopper is that of a wandering astrologer or fakir, named Demidoff, who pretends to supernatural powers, and whose most valuable possession is a beautiful daughter. The opera opens during the progress of a fair in a market town, where there is a silly young nobleman, who, by imperial decree, must wed a woman of his own rank or forfeit his estate. His rascally uncle, the deputy governor, in order to secure the property, contrives to marry him to the fakir's daughter, in which scheme he is ably assisted by the ambitious Demidoff. After the nuptials the deputy governor is about to claim the forfeited estate, when the Grand Duke arrives, bringing with him the princess whose name has been borrowed for the bride. On exposure of the deception, Demidoff is imprisoned, loaded with chains and tortured until, in self defence, he reveals to the Grand Duke the wickedness of the bridegroom's uncle, and—as is proper in all comic opera—everything ends happily. Hopper in "The Charlatan" is Hopper at his best—and that is saying a good deal. His company has been considerably enlarged for the production, but all the old favorites are still with him. Alfred Klein has a capital part in the handsome ruler, and is impersonated by Miss Nella Bergen, whose admirable voice is heard to great advantage in several charming numbers; little Alice Judson is exceedingly captivating as a saucy boy; Mark Price has deserted the legitimate stage to play a strong part, and scores a hit; and other prominent roles are sustained by Edmund Stanley, the tenor, Katharine Carlisle, George W. Barnum, Adine Bouvier, Arthur Cunningham, Harry P. Stone and Charles Arthur. The chorus is larger than last season. The scenery and costumes are pronounced the handsomest and most costly ever seen in comic opera on the American stage. "The Charlatan" will be presented at the Tremont until Nov. 23.

Nasal Catarrh quickly yields to treatment by Ely's Cream Balm, which is agreeably aromatic. It is received through the nostrils, cleanses and heals the whole surface over which it diffuses itself. To test it, a trial size for 10 cents or the large, for 50 cents, is mailed by Ely Brothers, 56 Warren Street, New York. Druggists keep it. A remedy for Nasal Catarrh which is drying or exciting to the diseased membrane should not be used. Cream Balm is recognized as a specific.

Health Brought Back

Could Not Eat without Excruciating Pain

All Disagreeable Symptoms Cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I was taken with catarrh of the stomach. At times I had a ravenous appetite and at other times I could not eat anything. I suffered excruciating pain from what I ate. I bloated badly after eating and especially on arising in the morning, when I frequently had vomiting spells. I was running down so fast I had to stop work and I was advised to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. I did so and in a short time I commenced to feel better. I could eat without distress, the bloating disappeared and all the disagreeable symptoms of my trouble passed away. Hood's Sarsaparilla has brought back my health and today I am well and strong." CHRISTMAS

Is approaching, and while you are planning gifts for your friends, remember that a good portrait of yourself is always acceptable.

If you are contemplating having any photographs made, now is the time to do it, as later in the season there will be a rush, and the difficulty of getting orders filled in time.

Our specialty is portraits in platinum and carbon, but we make all kinds. Miniatures on ivory or porcelain. Life size crayons and enlargements up to 20x24 inches.

Photographs out of doors, views, interiors, &c.

Developing for amateurs, and printing in platinum, carbon and silver.

CITY GOVERNMENT.

A SESSION OF OVER FIVE HOURS TUESDAY EVENING—LARGE AMOUNT OF ROUTINE BUSINESS IN ADDITION TO THE ELECTION RETURNS—BUDGET FOR '99 ACCEPTED AS RECOMMENDED BY THE FINANCE COMMITTEE WITH EXCEPTION OF THAT PART RELATING TO THE HIGHWAY EXPENDITURES AND STREET COMMISSIONER.

By far the longest meeting of the board of aldermen this year was that which began Tuesday evening and continued until nearly half-past one o'clock Wednesday morning. It was generally expected that the reception of the official ballot count would consume considerable time, and as there was an unusually long docket every one expected it would be near midnight before adjournment. There was surprise, however, when it was announced that the '99 budget would be considered, but as there was no alternative the board members cheerfully submitted.

There was considerable delay in calling the board to order, and it was 8:30 o'clock before President White rapped his gavel for that purpose. The following hearings were given, but as no one appeared were immediately closed: On laying out of Alden street, Ward 6; laying out of Brearley street, Ward 7; widening a portion of Lexington street, Ward 4, and for taking land for sewer in Franklin street extension, Ward 7.

THE MAYOR

In a communication to the board recommended the purchase of land on Grove street, Lower Falls, for the site of the hose house building as the Metropolitan Park Commission has decided to seize that land occupied by the hose house at present. The communication was received and placed on file.

PETITIONS, ETC.

The Republican ward and city committee gave notice that it desired the use of ward rooms in the city in which to hold caucuses Tuesday evening, Nov. 22nd. This was granted, and the city clerk ordered to provide the same.

E. S. Webster petitioned for a concrete crossing at the junction of Lawrence road and Hammond street. Referred to the highway committee. John Beal and others petitioned for one street lamp on Bailey place, referred to the street light committee; a petition was received for the extension of the sewer on River street, referred to the sewer committee; a petition for a sewer on Gardner street was referred to the sewer committee; a petition for a sewer on Kaposia street was also referred to the same committee; the same action was taken on a petition for a sewer located on a private way off Watertown street; hearings were granted the gas company on its petitions for location changes on Washington and Grasmere streets, and location of poles on Willard street; the telephone company petitioned for relocations on Auburn street and attachments on Ward street, the matter will also be given a hearing Nov. 18th.

Residents of Chestnut Hill were referred to the committees on fire and police on their requests that police and fire alarm signal boxes be placed on Commonwealth avenue near Algonquin road and Waban Hill reservation; L. S. Holman and others were referred to the highway committee on their petition for the acceptance of Oak and avenue; J. Fitzgerald and others petitioned for a street lamp on Lincoln court, and were referred to the street light committee; Levi Cooley and others asked for the laying out, grading and acceptance of a portion of Broadway and were referred to the highway committee; petitions for street lights in the rear of the Dennison building, Ward 2, on Furber lane, Ward 6, on Albany avenue, Ward 6, and on Brearley road, Ward 6, were referred to the street light committee; several applications for pool and victualers' licenses were referred to the license committee; Thomas Hickey was granted permission to move a building from Bacon street to Clinton street; Alice M. Butler of Cambridge was referred to the committee on claims on her communication to the board, notifying them of damages received on account of a defective sidewalk; W. R. Dupee's petition for a crosswalk on Hammond street was referred to the highway committee, a similar petition from H. A. Fiske was acted upon in the same manner; J. W. Weeks' petition for crosswalks and sidewalks on Valentine street was referred to the highway committee; a petition for sidewalks on Duncklee street was referred to the highway committee; C. B. Filibrown asked that the name of Lewis terrace be changed, and was referred to the highway committee; Mary Desmond of Ward 6 was referred to the highway committee on her claim for indemnity for damages alleged to have been caused her land at Newton Centre as a result of the construction of a drain by the board of health; petitions for concrete sidewalks on Franklin street extension, Washington street and Highland street and for a gravel sidewalk on Prince street were referred to the highway committee as was the petition of Holden and others asking that the name of Albany avenue, Newton Centre, be changed. It was the report of that raised a slight stir, and was provocative of no little debate. The majority of the committee reported that it was inexpedient to make any amendments to the ordinance relative to City Hall officials holding more than two offices. The point of accepting this or the minority report, which was read afterwards, called forth discussion. Cushing's amendment was read and quoted and finally it was ruled to take the minority report as an amendment to the majority report. It failed to pass (under the understanding) the majority report and its provisions would be adopted. The substance of the minority report was that persons employed by the city should devote their entire time to the city during business hours, and not draw two salaries unless otherwise ordered by the board.

Alderman Whittlesey, author of the minority report, stated his position on the matter. He differed from the committee in his ideas on the subject and felt the best interests of the city served with the adoption of such an amendment.

The Commonwealth allows no person to hold two positions with large salaries. We should not buy a man's time, and give it to him. This is not proper, not honest, not the duty of the board. If the city buys a man's time, then it gives it to him. It is wasting the money of the taxpayers. A city official should devote his entire time to the work during business hours. It would be in the hands of the board if any change was desired.

A vote was taken on the proposed acceptance of the minority report. It was carried by a vote of 12 years against 9 days. The next question was on the acceptance of the majority report. Alderman Dana said it appeared that the very cases that the minority report was calculated to govern would be excepted, as there was a provision that the board could change it if thought fit. Commissioner Ross and the city physician were aimed at. At this point Alderman Ivy moved that it be laid on the table. A motion to this effect was carried.

THE COMMITTEE ON CLAIMS

recommended the settlement of Florence E. Curtis' claim of $1,000 for land damages on Madison street. A communication from the city solicitor endorsing this was also read. The report and its measures were adopted.

THE FINANCE COMMITTEE

recommended the issue of $50,000 bonds for the Washington street widening, due Nov. 1, 1908. Report accepted. Also recommending the passage of an order authorizing the board of printing and stationery to use $500 for revenue stamps of $500 for purchase of revenue stamps, etc. Report accepted.

This committee also recommended passage of an order authorizing the board of health to issue $500 for state aid, $500 for soldiers' relief, $1000 for elections and $500 for registration of voters. Also recommending passage of an order appropriating $1,014.90 to meet expenses incurred by board of health, Cypress street drain; etc.; recommending passage of an order authorizing transfer of $2000 from receipts therefor, to poor out of the almshouse; recommending transfer of certain sinking funds.

The committee on highways reported recommending acceptance of Bristol road, Ward 3; recommending acceptance of Edinboro street, Ward 2; recommending the widening of Washington street, Lower Falls; recommending transfer of $3000 from appropriation for street watering to side walks, etc.; recommending the widening of concrete sidewalks on Brearley road, Ward 7, Mt. Vernon street, Ward 3, Rice street, Ward 6; recommending construction of concrete sidewalk, Putnam street, Ward 3, under the bridge.

The license committee reported recommending granting of licenses to Florence L. Phillips, intelligent office; John A. Nugent, owner of the business of the Prospect street, Ward 3; Thomas T. Frost, a public weigher; recommending leave to withdraw on petition of Naime Pletten for junk license.

The committee on ordinances gave a majority report that it was "inexp her healthy sisters enjoy themselves. She may be naturally beautiful, naturally attractive, naturally interesting and animated and witty, but the demon of ill-health is gnawing at the very vitals of her womanly nature, and she soon becomes a withered wall flower in comparison with her brighter and more healthy sisters. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a wonderful medicine for women who suffer in this way. It acts directly on the delicate and important organs concerned in wifehood and motherhood. It tones and builds up the shattered nerves. It restores the glow of health to the pallid cheek. It gives springiness and trip to the carriage. It makes the eyes sparkle with returning vivacity. It imparts animation to the mien and gestures. The fan that long lay listless and idle in the lap of an invalid again speaks the eloquent language of a healthy, happy woman. Thousands of women have testified to the marvelous merits of this wonderful medicine.

"For several years I suffered with prolapsus of the uterus," writes Miss A. Lee Schuster, of Box 12, Rodney, Jefferson Co., Miss. "Our family physician treated me for kidney trouble, and everything else but the right thing. I grew worse and worse. My body was emaciated, hands and feet clammy and cold, my stomach with great palpitation of the heart. I would suffer with nausea all night. I began taking your 'Favorite Prescription' and I began to improve right away. I have taken three bottles and now I am very nearly well and am very happy and thankful to you."

Keep your head up and your bowels open. The "Golden Medical Discovery" will put steel in your backbone, and Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets will cure constipation.

THE MISSING PRINCE.

By Major ARTHUR GRIFFITHS.

[Copyright, 1898, by the Author.]

The firm of Black & Brightsmith was good enough to express its great and grateful appreciation of my help in the case of the Escondida mine. It promised me other work of the same kind, plenty, if I cared to take it up, and soon sent to ask whether I could undertake a confidential mission to Algeria.

It was to convey a considerable sum of money in specie to the remote town of Biskra, a health resort of growing popularity, situated in the faroff desert, almost on the confines of the great Sahara.

"The money is to be paid over in exchange for a certain compromising document, one that closely affects the honor and character of a great family. Will you go?" said Harry Brightsmith.

I expressed my readiness, but asked why the sum could not be paid by check. "The demand is for gold. In any case we wish to secure the papers in full acquittance, and this can best—can only—be done by the hand of a thoroughly trustworthy agent, some one who will if necessary give and take at one and the same time."

"If necessary?" I inquired, catching at the doubt implied. "We have no absolute certainty, Mac, that the demand is justified, that the case is bona fide, and not trumped up for the extortion of blackmail. This is another and still stronger reason for our application to you. If you can only find that there has been any foul play anywhere, you will earn the eternal gratitude of his highness as well as a handsome docteur. Wait. Let me tell you the whole story.

"You have heard of the Medea? They were once a reigning house and may some day come to the throne again. Meanwhile Prince Casimir de Medea lives in great retirement on the Thames, and his eldest son, Stanislas, who has come to man's estate, has been sent round the world to complete his education with a Cook ticket in 80 days.

"Prince Stanislas is said to be a lively youth, fond of horses, sport, amusement, the fair sex—all that makes life enjoyable at 22. He has cost his highness a good deal of money at times, but his father has paid without a murmur—until now. The present demand—that on which we seek your co-operation, Mac—is for the liquidation of a gambling debt incurred under peculiar—indeed, as it is alleged, disgraceful—circumstances. The young prince has been accused of a flagrant attempt to correct fortune."

"In plain English, of cheating at cards?"

"Nothing less. And on the surface the case seems perfectly clear. The charge of cheating is supported by his own confession, owing up in so many words, signed by his own hand and duly attested. We have the notarial, authenticated copy in our hands. Here it is. But first read the letter that accompanied it."

It was dated from the Hotel des Zibans, Biskra, and translated ran as follows: YOUR HIGHNESS—It is my inexpressible painful task to bring to your highness' notice the deliberately dishonest and disgraceful conduct of your son, Prince Stanislas de Medea. He has been caught cheating at bacarrat—caught in the act flagrantly. This deplorable affair occurred at the Cercle el Salabin, to which the prince was readily admitted on account of his rank and presumed gentlemanly character.

Last night, when engaged in a friendly game, he took the bank with a capital of 2,000 francs, advanced him without question by the gerant of the club. Up to that point he had lost steadily, but now the luck turned. It became phenomenal. At every deal the prince won. He cleared the table. For quite an hour this lasted, but with a growing suspicion in the minds of several players that all was not well. We set ourselves to watch the prince. I myself was close to stand behind him and at a given moment, a signal being made, to seize and hold his hands.

I did so, and immediately a pack of cards, concealed somewhere within his pocket, fell to the ground. It was a pack made up chiefly of "threes" and "sixes." If your highness is acquainted with the game of bacarrat, the capital importance of these numbers will need no explanation.

Play was stopped, and two of us were deputed to draw up a process-verbal describing the occurrence. Of course the prince's gains were declared null and void, and he was called upon to make restitution; also to pay his previous losses and the advance made by the gerant. These amounts in all to 7,500 francs, and, as he had no funds, I discharged the debt, taking his acknowledgment.

We also prepared for your son's signature a confession of his misconduct, a copy of which, duly certified by a notary, is now inclosed. The original will be surrendered to your son or to any person you may name on one condition—that you hand over in exchange a sum of 25,000 francs, to be applied for the relief of the poor Arabs in this oasis.

We think that your highness will see the wisdom of meeting us fairly and promptly. It can hardly be your wish that Prince de Medea, the direct heir to your ancient name and future holder of the high fortune that may some day return to your noble house, should be exposed as a cheat, branded as a blackguard, throughout the civilized world. It is only out of consideration to your highness that we spare him the ignominy he so richly merits.

Conceiving that your highness would wish to avoid all publicity, we consent to receive the money claimed in gold. If your highness' representative will meet ours in Algiers on the 24th of November at midday in the Jardin Marengo, near the Esplanade Bab el Oued, the exchange can be completed. Let him seat himself on the seventh bench from the main entrance and wear a white hat. Unless he is alone no steps will be taken to meet him. The slightest suspicion of bad faith or your failure to comply with the conditions given on the date fixed will cause the absolute rupture of all negotiations, and the process-verbal, the confession, with full particulars, shall be published in the press of every capital of Europe. We are, with profound respect and the assurance of our deep and abiding sympathy your highness' servants.

PHILIPPO DE FIVAS ANATOLE MIRABEL

The confession, which was full and explicit, bore the prince's signature, the attestation of the witnesses thereto, and the words "copie conforme," with the seal and signature of the notary public, "La Ramie (Paul), Place de la Sahara, Biskra."

"Do you believe in all this?" I at once asked the partners, Black and Brightsmith.

"It rings rather false," said Harry. "But the facts are precise, and Prince Casimir, who is our client, takes the very gloomiest view of the situation. He has heard nothing from his son for some weeks—months, indeed—and except for the letters of credit that have turned up pretty regularly—at least until six weeks ago—has had no idea of his whereabouts. Whether think he distrusts his son, or at least is so furiously angry at the scandal that he will not look at the case calmly."

"What is he like, this young prince? Good sort? Bad lot? Which?" "Frankly, I am on his side, Black here"—Black was a tall, solemn chap, preternaturally and prematurely grave, with slow voice and drooping eyelids—"has been rather against him."

"No, no; not quite that," protested Black; "but I have thought him too frivolous and fond of pleasure—not sufficiently alive to the obligation of noblesse oblige."

"Well, anyhow, there is an element of doubt," I said. "It seems highly improbable that a young prince just out of his teens is a professional Greek, skilled in dirty tricks with the cards. That, on the face of it, first. Then the fact that Prince Casimir has heard nothing direct from his son—no appeal, no apology, no attempted exculpation. This rather tells in the lad's favor, I think. If I am asked, I should say, 'Don't pay—not at least till the story is verified.'"

"His highness will not run that risk. He insists upon the money being sent out and every stipulation fulfilled to the letter. It drives him wild, the idea of a Medea posted as a cheat through Europe," answered Brightsmith.

"I don't say refuse. But at least be certain that the case is clear. There should be time to settle that question between now and Nov. 23. I should like to look into it on the spot at once."

"At Biskra?" "Certainly. There is time, I believe, for me to pay a visit to Biskra to make inquiries, hear all about this De Fivas and Mirabel and the rest. Above all, to see the young prince and hear his own version."

"He has given it here," said old Black, hitting the confession with his knuckles as it lay upon the table.

"He is said to have given it there. That may be a forgery. The signature, the official stamp of the notary, both might have been obtained by some nefarious dodge. The young prince may be under coercion."

"My dear Major Macnaghten-Innes," broke in Black impatiently for one so sedate and stolid, "in my experience an ounce of fact is worth a shipload of conjecture. I think that the safest course is to send the money—exchange it for the confession. Let us carry out the contract. That, moreover, in fact, is what our client wishes—silent compliance and no risk."

Brightsmith, having fuller confidence in my skill, took my view, and after much debate it was decided that Prince Casimir should be consulted. He came up to Gresham street, a rather limp old gentleman, to whom this was a crowning bitterness in a life of disappointment, and we had some difficulty in persuading him to the bolder course. It was the money that settled it. He was not rich and would have been glad to save the £1,300 blackmail.

Having arranged that the sum in question should await my orders at Cook's bank in Algiers, I left London for Biskra on Nov. 2, and, taking the most expeditious route, that via Marseilles and Philippeville, reached the desert town on the evening of the third day, Nov. 5. Allowing three clear days for the return journey to Algiers, where, if my inquiry failed, I must be on the evening of Nov. 23, I had just 16 days before me.

Biskra owns several hotels, but I chose that which had been named in the letter from MM. de Fivas and Mirabel believing I should be safest in the heart of the enemy's country. As I had my guns with me and proposed to call upon both the French commandant and the kaid, or Arab governor, as an English sportsman, eager to hunt all kinds of game, I hoped to escape importunate curiosity. In support of this character I rode out twice with the kaid's falcons and spent a night in the desert under the Aurea mountains.

At the same time I prosecuted my inquiries with the utmost caution. If it got wind that an agent from Prince Casimir was in Biskra, my mission might fail at the very outset, and the worst would happen. I was satisfied the first day to walk through the Place de la Sahara, where I did actually find the brass plate of "La Ramie, Notary."

At the door of his office or etude I ascertained, too, that a club called the Cercle el Salabin existed, and that it was not difficult to gain admission to it.

But as yet I could hear of no "De Fivas," no "Mirabel." There were no such persons residing at the Hotel des Zibans, the very place from which they wrote making the demands! Of course people might and do make use of an address that is borrowed or fictitious, yet there was comfort in the thought that these high-toned gentlemen were not persons very well known.

Again, I could not find that any prince, certainly no Prince Stanislas de Medea, had recently sojourned in Biskra. This was also satisfactory so far as it went, yet I could not set much store by it, for princes of all categories have a fondness for incognito, and there might be good reasons why Prince Stanislas should pass under a smaller and an assumed name. I had his photograph, reputed a good likeness, and I always carried it about with me, hoping that I might run up against the original in some odd corner; but not only did I never meet him, but I could hear of no one answering to his description at any of the hotels.

My first substantial move was made when I was admitted as a member of the El Salabin club. I at once examined the list, but looked in vain for the names "De Fivas" and "Mirabel."

A REFORM VICTORY.

It rather looks as if the Newton people did read the Newton papers, judging from the large vote Mr. Langford received. To take a plurality of 1733 from Wolcott and transform it into a plurality of 154 over the leading Republican candidate for Representative, was something that ought to give our Ward and City committee occasion to pause and reflect over the opinion their fellow citizens have passed upon their high-handed way of running political affairs in Newton to suit themselves. It was the only chance people had in this election
to express their condemnation of the committee, and that, and Mr. Langford's exceptional fitness for the position, elected him, although such an event as the defeat
of a regular Republican nominee in a state election has heretofore been deemed impossible in Newton.

It was a great victory for Reform and the introduction of purer methods into our city
politics, and especially into our caucuses,
and it should be heeded before more trouble follows. Newton has a great Republican majority, but this election has proved that the people can rise above partisan considerations when the occasion calls for it.

The people have chafed a good deal under
the rule of the ring that has had the credit of managing the politics of Newton and took their first opportunity to condemn it,
as Mr. Langford's vote proves. His election is also a cause for congratulation to all the people of Newton, as it will give us an unusually able representative at the State House, and make Newton's influence felt in the legislative proceedings.

Mr. Chadwick had a lead of over 200 votes over Mr. Wing, and is therefore elected as the second representative. The cause of this is variously explained, but
Mr. Chadwick received 150 more votes in Ward Two for one thing, and then Mr.
Chadwick has not taken a decided part in city affairs for the past few years, and so has aroused no antagonisms. There was also a mistaken feeling that Mr. Wing was closely identified with the Ward and City Committee, which lost him many votes, as
the people wished to make their verdict as sympathetic as possible.

IN MORE TROUBLE.

The Republican Ward and City Committee are in more trouble, owing to the unfortunate wording of that postal card that they depended on to do all their campaign
work in Newton. There was even serious talk on Election Day of having the members responsible for the postal card arrested, for an attempt to deceive the people.
Nothing was done, as it was asserted that the State Central committee was consulted before the postal card was sent out, to see if it was liable to involve the senders in criminal proceedings.

The trouble was that the circular sent out to the party committees from the state committee, stated that upon the size of the vote cast this year "for Wolcott" depended
the number of delegates to all conventions
the coming year. That was correct, and some members of the ward and city committee state that the committee voted to put this upon the postal card, exactly as the state committee sent it out. Had this been done, there would have been no cause
for criticism, as the vote "for Wolcott"
decided the question of the number of delegates.

But whoever was responsible for the postal card was so very unfortunate in wording his message, as to make the assertion that "the Republican vote" decided
the question, and as if this were not enough
they added "Vote for the Regular Party Nominations as that is the vote that establishes the basis."

Now of course any citizen who saw this,
would naturally infer, if he did not know
any better, that he must vote for all the regular party nominations, in order to help increase the number of delegates from Newton, and that a vote for Mr. Langford, for instance, would lessen by so much the number of delegates.

Now the question is did those who got up the postal card, intend to deceive the voters, and defeat Mr. Langford by stating what was not true, and did they consult the state central committee to see if such a wording would make them liable to criminal proceedings, caring nothing for truth
but only to keep within the law, or did they write their copy for the famous postal card without any evil intent, and merely
put it in that form for the sake of brevity,
so as to get what the printers call a "good display" and without any ulterior motives whatever.

Those are the two horns of the dilemma;
if the first is true, then the movement for caucus reform in Newton did not begin any too soon, and those who got up the postal card should be asked to resign at once, as the Republicans of Newton should not tolerate any such proceedings as this.

On the other hand, if the misleading
statement was inadvertently made, as all who have the good reputation of Newton at heart will hope is the case, the matter should be fully explained to the public,
in order that those members who were not guilty should be freed from responsibility,
and measures should be taken so that such a mistake could not occur again, by filling the places of these men with those who can be trusted to have better luck in writing communications to the public.

The matter is of too much importance to let it drop, as until a full explanation is given, the public can only believe that all the members of the Ward and City committee were guilty, and from a personal knowledge of some of them, we should say that they have too much regard for their reputation to rest complacently under such an imputation. We have such a large Republican majority in Newton that we can afford to be strictly honorable in our politics, and to carry the same strict notions in regard to honesty into politics that we carry into our business and professional life.

The postal card in question had not even the excuse of succeeding in its mission, as many who read it were so indignant at its misstatements that they immediately decided to vote only for Mr. Langford, as a rebuke to this dishonest style of campaigning, as they called it.

A PARTISAN MOVEMENT THREAT-ENED.

The meeting at the Woodland Park
Hotel, last evening, to talk over candidates for mayor, was a disappointment to those who hoped that some decided action would be taken in favor of economy and reform,
and some radical and aggressive candidate
would be suggested, who would know enough about city affairs to have a distinct policy of his own, and would have the backbone to carry it out.

As far as can be learned from reports, it was a strictly Republican gathering, as the men who issued the invitations are said to have been those who are known as the local "bosses" in each ward, and either that or the rain interfered seriously with the attendance. An attempt was made to pledge those present to the support of whomever
had the highest number of votes, and on the final informal ballot, when each man voted for three candidates, the vote is said to have stood, ex-Mayor Ellison, 34;
Dwight Chester, 22; E. E. Hardy, 16.

It was advertised as simply a meeting of prominent business men and citizens, such as have taken hold of affairs in Cambridge,
but judging from the reports this morning,
the advertised promises were not carried out.

As a result of this meeting, and the men who directed it, it is said that the old Citizens' Party is to be revived, and if it nominates a candidate who answers the requirements, there is likely to be a hot contest,
and in such cases the Citizens have always been victorious in Newton.

The death of David A. Wells removes one who had more claims to being a statesman than almost any of the men who are in public life today. In a better state of political society his great abilities would have given him a public career, where he would have made a name equal to that of any of the fathers of the republic. But he was born too late, or lived too long, for he was no match for the political trickster,
or the petty partisan politician, and hence
he is known chiefly as a writer on economic questions, to which he brought a mind
stored with the result of extensive research, and an ability to see clearly between what would prove merely a temporary advantage, and what was dangerous
for the stability and honor of the republic.

His clearness of statement and power of homely illustration illumined everything that he wrote, and he leaves an honored name,
the memory of an unsullied character, and
a reputation as the political economy of his country. When other men in public life were ready to give up any of their convictions at the demand of the party boss, or to assume others at the same order, it is inspiring to find a man who always remained true to his own principles, and he had the satisfaction of living to see the triumph of the scientific truths he had so long upheld.

The election figures, which are given on another page, make an interesting study
for those who wish to know just what the issues were in Newton. Governor Wolcott, it will be seen, kept up his vote to the old time majority, and the rest of the state officers did not vary from that figure to any extent worth noting. The warm contest made by Mr. Baker against Congressman Sprague cut his majority down to an appreciable extent, but not sufficient to endanger his chance of election. The contest over the senatorship had an even greater effect, and Senator Harwood lost half his former majority, as the talk over his alleged corruption votes, and his favoring the railroad corporations at the expense of wheelmen, caused many to mark their sense of disapproval. The contest will have a good effect, in one way, as it will convince all the senators of the fact that their votes are closely watched by unfriendly critics, and possibly the senate
may not be so openly under corporation influence next year, as it has been in the past.

Now comes the city election, and let all hands combine and select the best men possible for the whole ticket, from the mayor down. With such an enormous increase in city debts and expenditures, there is need of a radical change in our city government, and a return to strict economy.
The tax-rate should be cut down next year,
by several dollars, and it can be done without any injury to the welfare of the city, if
the right men are chosen.

It is curious to note that the list of the United States Senators who will vote against imperialism do none of them contain the name of Senator Hoar, in spite of his great speech against it. Evidently every one expects him to follow the same course he did in regard to Hawaii.

The total vote for Senator in this district was Harwood 5,317 and Farrington 4,182, giving Mr. Harwood a plurality of 1,100, against 4,400 last year. Mr. Farrington carried five precincts in Newton and the town of Ashland, Natick, Holliston and Hopkinton. It was the closest vote ever polled in the district.

It is said that one of the results of the election is that the chairman of the Ward
and City Committee has discovered that everybody reads the Newton GRAPHIC.

CONGRESSMAN SPRAGUE'S plurality was cut down this year from 12,000, which he received two years ago, to 4,000.

Dedication of the Myrtle Baptist Church.

A year ago the Myrtle Baptist church
was so badly damaged by fire that it became necessary to rebuild. A building committee was appointed, consisting of Messrs. Williams, Hill, B. Lomax, E.
Lomax and McCraw. Therewith is a tasteful and well appointed house of worship.
$4,000 in cash has been paid on the new building and a debt of $600 cleared on the old edifice during the past three years and current expenses met. During this time eighty-eight new members have been received into the church, nearly doubling the membership.

The services of dedication of the church
will begin Sunday afternoon with addresses of consecration by Rev. W. H.
Davis, D. D., Rev. G. W. Shinn, D. D., and Rev. T. P. Prudden, D. D. Sunday evening
a sermon by Rev. J. I. Patrick, D. D.
Monday evening, sermon of dedication
Rev. George C. Lorimer, D. D., of Boston,
reading of the scriptures, Rev. J. C.
Jaynes, D. D., prayer of dedication, Rev.
E. P. Bartlett, remarks by the pastor, Rev.

The Hospital Dedication.

In sending out invitations to the dedication of the new buildings for the hospital,
the committee had to limit the number because of the restricted seating space.

The persons invited are the clergy and physicians of the city, the members of the city government, the officers and members of contributing societies, the board of trustees and some personal friends of the donors. It would be impossible to make the invitations for that occasion general,
but in order to give opportunity for many others to see the new buildings, before they are occupied by patients, the Ladies Aid Society have a kind of house warming on Monday afternoon, and are not obliged to put any limit upon the number of their guests.

With two such interesting occasions, the hospital will probably be visited by many hundreds of people from Newton and vicinity, Saturday and Monday.

Newton Women's Suffrage League.

—The annual meeting of the Women's League in the Unitarian church parlors West Newton. The various reports will be submitted and the officers for the coming year will be elected. At 7:45 an open meeting will be held. Anti-Suffrage arguments will be given which will be answered by Rev. Samuel J. Barrows, representative of Congress, Mr. H. B. Blackwell and others, followed by a general discussion. At the close of the business session an informal reception will be held. Refreshments will be rendered and refreshments will be served. It is hoped that there will be a full attendance as a spirited discussion is expected.

Exchange of Courtesies.

The following telegraphic courtesies have been exchanged between the two senatorial candidates from this district:

Hon. Albert L. Harwood,
113 Devonshire street,
Boston, Nov. 9, 1898.

Please accept congratulations for your victory and generalship. You have beaten me fairly in a square fight by the magis-tration of your friends. I am compelled to express my admiration for their work against me.

CHARLES E. FARRINGTON.

Boston, Nov. 10, 1898.
Mr. Chas. E. Farrington,
Newton, Mass.

Dear Sir—I acknowledge receipt of your kind telegram of congratulations. I thank you for your courtesy and frankness. I shall endeavor to serve the District to the best of my ability; giving every question presented careful, conscientious and unprejudiced consideration.
(Signed) ALBERT L. HARWOOD.

Here is a bull from the nursery: "That's a terrible noise in the nursery, Molly,"
said the mistress. "What's the matter?"
"Can't you keep the baby quiet?" "Sh! he,
mum!" replied Molly. "I can't keep him
quiet unless I let him make a noise."

City Election, Tuesday, Dec. 13th

Notice is hereby given that the Registrars of Voters, commencing Monday, November 14, 1898, will hold sessions for the registration of voters and to correct and revise the Ward Lists
at the City Clerk's office, City Hall, daily, from 8:30 A. M. to 12 M.; except Wednesday, November 23, as hereinafter stated; and from 2 P. M.
to 5 P. M., except Saturday, November 19, when the hours are from 8:30 A. M. to 12 M.; also

At City Hall, Wednesday, November 16 and Friday, November 18, 7:30 to 9 o'clock P. M.

Newton Centre-Associates' Hall, Pleasant street, Saturday, November 19, 7:30 to 9:30 o'clock P. M.

At City Hall, Wednesday, November 23, from 12 M. to 10 o'clock P. M., which is the last session of the Registrars preceding the election of December 13, 1898, and after 10 o'clock P. M.
of said November 23, 1898, the Registrars will not, before the Election, add any names to the Register, except the names of voters examined
as to their qualifications since the preceding thirtieth day of April.

Every male person whose name is not on the Voting List, must, in order to be registered as a voter, appear in person before the Registrars of Voters at a session on either of the days above mentioned, presenting a certificate from the assessors or tax bill or notice from the collector of taxes showing that he has been assessed for a poll tax as required of the city or town on the preceding first day of May.

All women whose names are not on the lists
and who wish to register must appear in person
before the Registrars of Voters, to be qualified,
as required by law—Chap. 548, Acts 1898.

All naturalized citizens must present their final papers when they register.

If the father of an applicant was naturalized
before he (the son) became 21 years of age, the son is naturalized thereby, and must present the father's naturalization papers.

Every male citizen of 21 years of age and upwards, who has resided in the State one year,
and in the City of Newton six months next preceding December 13, 1898, being able to read and write, and duly registered, shall have the right to vote at the City election to be held December 13, 1898.

—There will be a dancing party in Denison hall, Friday evening, Nov. 18, under the direction of the ladies of Boynton Lodge, U. O. I. O. L.

—There are letters remaining in the post office for H. L. Brooks, J. Hicks, James Morris, Newtonville, Mercury office, and Miss Marcia Gannon, 91 Walker street.

—Mr. J. E. Butler of Lincolnwood avenue has gone on a business trip to East Boothbay, where he will personally superintend the work of altering his summer residence.

—An enjoyable whist party was given Wednesday evening by the Misses McClellan at their home on Walnut street, in honor of their cousin, Miss Elizabeth Taunton. The prizes were won by Miss George Cunningham and Mr. W. S. Scammon. Music and refreshments were a pleasing feature of the evening's program.

—The monthly parish social was held last evening in the parlors of the Universalist church. Supper was served from 6 to 7, and an enjoyable entertainment was presented during the evening. Among other attractions was an excursion over the Fennell, Frothingham and Featherbrain R. R. by subway and airline. A pleasing musical program was also a feature of the program.

—At the Methodist Episcopal church next Sunday evening at 7.30, the third in the series of "Straight Talks to Young People" will be given by the pastor, Rev. Franklin Hamilton. The subject will be, "Another Paris Peace Commission; or, Signing a Peace with the Devil." All young people especially are invited. All seats free. Morning worship at 10.45. Strangers cordially invited.

—The Newton Education Association will hold its third meeting Monday evening in the hall of the Claflin building. The subject for discussion will be "The Social Life of Pupils in the Advanced Grades of our Schools." It is understood that Mrs. F. A. Waterhouse will open the discussion, followed by Mr. E. C. Adams, principal of Newton High school, and others. It is expected that the meeting will be of special interest and a full attendance is desired.

—Mrs. Chaloner returned this week from Brunswick, Me., where she opened the second of the Saturday Club with an illustrated lecture on "Good Old Colony Days and Ways." Eight young ladies added to the pleasure of the large audience by dancing the minuets, costumed in "good old" style, during the evening. Mrs. Chaloner was the guest of Prof. Henry Johnson, art curator of Bowdoin College, and his charming wife, in the fine old colonial mansion opposite the college grounds.

—The annual meeting of the Newtonville Baptist Division was held at the residence of Mrs. May E. Clark, 49 Cross street, Wednesday afternoon. Officers elected for the ensuing year were: Pres., Mrs. O. B. Kilburn; vice pres., Mrs. G. P. Cook; sec'y, Mrs. May E. Clark; treas., Mrs. C. Y. Jones; and Mrs. S. B. Upham; work directors, Miss Amy Jones, Mrs. C. F. Jones, Mrs. L. H. Matthews; social committee, Mrs. May E. Clark, Mrs. G. P. Cook, Mrs. E. J. Jackson, Mrs. B. Upham. Next meeting will be at Mrs. L. H. Matthews, Lincolnwood avenue, Wednesday, Nov. 16, at 2 p.m.

—Mrs. Walter Chaloner addressed the "Isaac Gardner" chapter on Wednesday afternoon, at its first meeting at the old colonial mansion on Wellington terrace, the home of the Rev. David H. Rice of Brookline. Mrs. Chaloner's lecture on "Old Colonial Homes" was beautifully illustrated by water color sketches. Out of the long and honored list, the warlike farmer and statesman, poet and warrior were touched upon, and in the audience were descendants of the very men whose lives and homes were portrayed. Some delightful songs added to the charm of the hour.

—The music Sunday morning at St. John's Episcopal church will be rendered by the vested choir. This is the only vest choir of mixed voices about Boston, and one of the very few in the state. It is composed of young men and women in the parish, there being sixteen voices. Clifford Kimball has charge of the choir and Ernest Harrison is organist. Service Sunday morning at 10.45.

—The Woman's Guild held a special meeting, Wednesday afternoon, in the parlors of the Congregational church.

—The engagement is announced of Miss Flora A. Howes, formerly of Dennis, Mass., to Mr. Edward O. Burdon of this city.

—The next regular meeting of the Newtonville Home Circle will be held in the Unitarian church parlors, Wednesday, Nov. 15, at 2 p.m.

—The ladies at the West Newton table at the Masonic fair will give a "whist" Monday evening, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Stutson, Fountain street.

—A special meeting of the Newton Veterans' Association was held at the engine house, Wednesday evening. A committee was appointed to make arrangements for an anniversary ball, to be given early in January.

—The Boys' League connected with the Baptist church were entertained by the members of Mrs. Pike's Sunday school class, Saturday afternoon and evening at the church vestry. A supper was served and music and games enjoyed.

—The evangelistic department of the W. C. T. U. will meet Tuesday afternoon in the Baptist vestry, at 2.30. A Bible reading will be given by Mrs. E. F. Hyde. A meeting of the Loyal Legion will immediately follow the meeting of the W. C. T. U.

—Mr. Costello C. Converse, the 100th member to join the Brae-Burn golf club of this place, offers a century cup, and Mr. Charles I. Travelli a consolation cup, to be played under conditions which offer advantages to members of all grades, especially to those of moderate skill.

—"The Dutch Village" will be a great attraction at the fair to be given under the auspices of the Ladies' Guild in the parlors of the Congregational church, Wednesday and Thursday afternoon and evening. The attendants will be dressed in appropriate costumes.

—It has been suggested that the town clock be kept two or three minutes ahead of railroad time instead of that amount behind. It would accommodate a number of people who cannot leave their place of employment until the exact hour, and then must wait thirty minutes for a train.

—The directors of the Massachusetts Federation of Women's Clubs met Wednesday afternoon in Boston. It was decided to hold special meetings, Dec. 13 and 14, to receive Mrs. Lowe, president of the National Federation, who is to be in Boston at that time. The local federation will assist in receiving her.

—The first fall meeting of the West Newton Women's Educational Club will be held this afternoon in the parlors of the Unitarian church. A report of the Biennial Convention will be given. The ladies of the Newtonville Women's Guild will be present. At the close of the business exercises there will be a social hour, and a light collation will be served.

—The Women's Foreign Missionary Society met Monday afternoon in the parlors of the Congregational church. Miss Emma Landear, of the Glasgow Society, South Africa, gave an interesting address, giving a description of the seminary and its work, both religious and educational. She also told many of her experiences in visiting the various missions in that country.

—A History Class connected with the Educational Club is about to be organized, with about twenty members. The first meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. R. L. Chastnut street. The subject for study during the winter will be "Early Colonial History." The classes in art and current events will continue as usual, and will be held Mondays and Fridays at the homes of Mrs. J. P. Tolman and Mrs. E. N. L. Walton respectively.

—Allen school team defeated Noble and Greenough eleven, Friday, 11 to 6, in a game that was closely contested from start to finish. This is the second defeat Noble and Greenough suffered from Allen, although the former is a much heavier team. Allen twice held for downs on their one yard line. The line up:

—The West Newton Women's Alliance will hold the first meeting of the season, Thursday forenoon, in the parlors of the Unitarian church. They will take up the study of Unitarianism during the coming season in the following series: Nov. 17, "Unitarianism before the Reformation," Mrs. Emily Webster; Dec. 1, "Unitarianism in Poland and Transylvania," Miss Mabel Wilbur; Dec. 29, open meeting; Jan. 12, "Unitarianism in England from 1655 to 1800," Mrs. Dr. Wells; Jan. 26, "Unitarianism in England, Martineau," Mrs. Charles H. Ames; Feb. 9, Brahmo Samaj, "Chander Sen," Mrs. N. T. Allen; Feb. 23, open meeting; March 9, "Chander Sen," Mrs. Lawrence Mayo; Mar. 23, "Parker," Mrs. E. Botume; April 6, "Modern Unitarianism," Mrs. Lovell; April 20, open meeting.

NEWTON CLUB.

More than 150 members helped to make last Saturday's night whist a success. Large numbers found entertainment on the bowling alleys, in the billiard room, and in the card rooms, but by far the largest number took part in the progressive whist tournament, which was played at 22 tables in the large assembly hall. The prizes were awarded as follows: Goldard and Ely first; Sprague and Terrell second; Buswell and Coppins third; Tenney and Wilcox fourth.

Next Saturday evening a musical entertainment will be provided for members.

The first of the ladies' matinees, Tuesday afternoon, called out a large number of ladies of members' families, and proved an unequalled success. Mrs. S. L. Fowler, before introducing Mrs. Alice Kent Robinson, the reader, outlined the course of entertainments provided for the matinees. Mrs. Robinson presented a pleasing program, including readings from Tennyson, Thomas Bailey Aldrich and Kipling.

The league bowling season opens next week. Newton's first game will be played at home against B. A. A. on the 18th. The club will be represented by practically the same team which made such a phenomenal finish in last year's tournament. Newton will roll as follows: Nov. 18, B. A. A. at home; Nov. 25, Newtowne at home; Dec. 1, Charlestown at Charlestown; Dec. 9, Calumet at home; Dec. 15, Old Dorchester at Dorchester; Dec. 23, Old Belfry at home; Jan. 3, B. A. A. at Boston; Jan. 13, Arlington at home; Jan. 16, Newtowne at Cambridge; Jan. 27, Charlestown at Charlestown; Feb. 2, Calumet Club at Winchester; Feb. 10, Old Dorchester at home; Feb. 15, Old Belfry at Lexington; Feb. 23, Arlington at Arlington; Mar. 2, B. A. A. at Charlestown; Mar. 9, Charlestown at Charlestown; Mar. 16, Charlestown at Dudley; Mar. 22, Calumet at B. A. A.; Mar. 28, Old Dorchester at Arlington; Apr. 3, Old Belfry at Newtowne; Apr. 13, Arlington at Calumet.

THE NEWTON SINGLE TAX CLUB.

CONFISCATION.

The regular meeting will be held next Monday evening, Nov. 13, at 230 Bellevue street, at 8 o'clock. Subject of the evening, "Confiscation."

A reverend gentleman declares that when the Single Tax proves its ability to deal with the one objection of Confiscation and can show that it does not do it, it is wrong to a particular class of people, all other objections will melt away of themselves. Several papers will be read and fullest discussion invited.

Home Circle Entertainment.

The Newton Ladies' Home Circle members are pleased to announce an artistic, unique and varied entertainment, to be given in Temple hall, Newtonville, Monday, Nov. 14, at 7.45 p.m.

The Grecian Art Tableaux Company, quite new to most of our Newton friends, promises an attractive program. Illustrated reading and songs, instrumental music and fine tableaux, Biblical, mythological, classical, humorous and home groupings, and were confident that while as anxious in continuing our charity work, a rare pleasure will be enjoyed by all. Tickets 50 cents at drug and other stores, and of members.

THE SIGN LANGUAGE.

An Occasion When Its Use Was Not a Flattering Success.

He is spending a month or two in Vienna. He speaks English fluently he speaks French a little, he can read Italian after a fashion, but he knows no German whatever. In Vienna one day his English graphic pen had one of its chronic attacks of inertia. He blew into one end of it. He sucked the other end of it. He unscrewed it and breathed very violently through its tip. He tapped it gently but steadily on the blotting pad of his desk. He shook it in the air before him and behind him and all around him, but it made no mark. Then he walked the floor with it. He opened the window to throw it out. He raised up his voice and said words about it, and he cried aloud in his wrath. And lo, when he was not expecting it, it flowed suddenly and profusely—not upon his letter paper, but upon the knees of a new pair of light tweed trousers!

Then he said more words, and he took the trousers, done up as nearly as possible to resemble a roll of music, to the scourer and cleaner upon the next block. In order to explain that the stains were of ink, not of stove polish or of shoe polish, he called the attention of the cleaner and scourer in charge to a bottle of writing fluid upon the nearest desk. He pointed at the ink, and he pointed at the spots. He nodded his head and said "sic" several times.

The scourer and cleaner in charge had a keen sense of the situation and replied, "Yah! Yah!" And he said, "Yah! Yah!" And they both smiled and felt that the cause of "the confusion of tongues" had been overcome!

When his light tweed trousers were returned to him the next week, they were dyed a uniform inky black!—Harper's Magazine.

Payn as an Anecdotalist.

Payn was superlative as an anecdotalist. Good stories seemed to have a natural instinct for resorting to him. Often as I used to see him I always thought myself defrauded if I did not come away with some fresh and amusing narrative. On such occasions my family found me out and used to reproach me if I did not bring back some telling anecdote. It must clearly be my own fault. I was certainly not the rose, but I had been near the rose.

Payn's fertility in this respect no doubt implied more study than might be obvious to his readers. He was fond of the literature in which such harvests are to be reaped, and "crammed" if I may say so, for his work conscientiously, though more, it seemed, from spontaneous delight in it than from deliberate purpose. And, then, the charm of his talk and his hearty sociability made it a duty for every one to help him and to repay him as far as possible in kind. The man bursting with a good story found a special pleasure in pouring it into the responsive ear of Payn. Payn became a perpetually flowing fountain of delightful talk—Leslie Stephen in Good Words.

Summary Conversion.

Hawaiians all became "Christians" through the simple process of an edict—kapoo—of one of the sturdy old Kamehamehas. That worthy king, observing that it was easier to kill an enemy with a rifle than with a club, and that the rifle was the invention of the Christians, took a short cut through the theological mazes of the missionaries who were trying to convert his subjects, and announced that all Hawaiians were from that moment Christians. As he headed the hallowed knocking on the head any who objected, the thing was done as fast as his couriers could deliver his message to his loving subjects—New York World.

SPECIAL SALE.

Men's Unlaundered White Shirts

39c. each.

They are made from extra quality cotton, fine linen bosom, reinforced front and back, continuous stays, cushion neck-band, necktie loop, extra wide body and extra wide sleeves.

THE WHOLE STORY IN A NUT-SHELL,

"Better than any 50c. Shirt in New England."

How Can We Do It?

In the first place we sacrifice most of our profit. In the second place instead of buying four or five dozen as the average dealers would do we buy "100 dozen," and get them for 15 per cent. less than the average dealer has to pay for same goods.

What Is Our Object

In selling goods practically without profit? We have not been selling Men's Shirts in proportion to our other business, and to boom this department we have had these Shirts made to order, better than any 50c. Shirts in New England, and shall sell them for 39c. each.

They will stand the most critical examination and it will afford us pleasure to have them compared with any 50c. Shirts in the U. S.

IMPROVED NEWTON HOSPITAL.

FOUR NEW WARDS HAVE BEEN COMPLETED AND EQUIPPED—THESE INCLUDE THE HASKELL OPERATING BUILDING, ELDERIDGE SURGICAL WARD AND THE DENNISON CHILDREN'S WARD—NEW OPERATING ROOM THE EQUAL OF THE BEST.

The Newton Hospital has been enlarged and greatly improved by the completion of four new wards, which have been built and equipped by the liberality of Melien Bray, Charles S. Dennison, Edwin B. Haskell and the two daughters of the late Elizabeth T. Eldredge, who have selected this method of perpetuating their mother's memory.

The architects are Kendall, Taylor & Stevens of this city. This is the same firm which, under another name, made the plans for the Mary Hitchcock Memorial Hospital, which was some years ago presented to Dartmouth College by Mr. Hiram Hitchcock, proprietor of the Fifth Avenue Hotel, New York city.

The four new buildings are completed in a style of architecture to perfectly harmonize with the main edifice, and are joined to it by covered corridors. As one faces the institution from the street in front, the Haskell operating building and the Elderidge surgical ward are on the left and the Dennison children's ward on the right, and to the rear of the other wards. The new buildings are all single storied, with granite underpinning, brick walls and a wide Spanish overhanging cornice at the edge of the green-slatted hip roof. The operating building has an ambulance entrance on the side facing the main building.

Upon entering, one looks down a wide corridor which extends entirely through the building. The first room on the left is an accident room, to be used for emergency cases. The floor is of marble, except that part of it which lies under and about the operating table, where hammered glass has been used for the first time in hospital construction; the glass is in the large slabs, and is said to afford more perfect facilities for cleanliness than any other material.

The next room, on the same side of the corridor as the accident room, is the operating room, which occupies the larger part of the front side of the building. The floor is laid in the same manner as the accident room. A skylight forty feet admits the daylight, and 20 incandescent lamps in the ceiling serve for artificial illumination. This operating room is admitted by those who are familiar with the best hospitals of the country to be without a superior in completeness of equipment.

Connecting with the apartment just described is the sterilizing room in which are kept all the instruments, apparatus, bandages, etc., employed in surgery. On the other side of the roomy corridor from the three apartments mentioned is the surgeon's room, which is on the front of the house at the right of the entrance, with the toilet rooms adjoining. Going down the corridor one passes the etherizing room and the recovery room on the right, both equipped with everything that experience has shown to be valuable in this connection. The plumbing of all these rooms has been arranged with special reference to the uses to which it will be put, and treadle valves are used on the sinks and basins.

The Elderidge ward for men and the Bray ward for women are built exactly alike, the former at the left and the latter behind the operating building. The men ward is 24 by 34 feet, and are furnished with two fire places. In addition to the eight beds in the main ward, each has two isolated rooms for paying patients. Each of these wards has its own kitchen, provided with the necessary equipment and food lifts to the basement.

The equipment of the Dennison children's ward is similar to those already described, with additional decoration of Delft tiling and a portrait window designed as a memorial to the little daughter of the donor of the building. The basement contains a large playroom for convalescents, and the wide corridor connecting this ward with the other buildings has glass sides and will be used for sun baths. The other buildings are also provided with a sun veranda 10 feet wide across the end of each. A unique feature of this hospital is the arrangement of the nurses' home, a house standing in the rear of the hospital and 25 feet higher up on the slope. A subway constructed of Glastonbury tile, laid on a parabolic arch, connects the building with the hospital.

To-morrow afternoon the dedication will take place at three o'clock. Following is the program:

Singing of the Hymn, "We give Thee but Thine own," led by members of the choir of Grace church.

Prayer by Rev. G. W. Shinn, D. D. Report of the Building Committee.

Read by Mr. D. R. Emerson, chairman. Address by the Hon. J. R. Lawson, President of the Newton Hospital Corporation.

Singing of the Hymn, "Love Divine, all love exalting."

"Love Divine, that stooped to share," Benediction by the Rev. W. H. Davis, D. D.

At the close of the exercises there will be opportunity to inspect the new buildings.

The Ladies' Aid Society will hold a reception and tea at the new building, from 4 to 6, Monday afternoon.

To Cure Constipation in One Week
To Purify the Blood in One Week
To Strengthen the Nerves in One Week
To Cure Sick Headache in One Day

Take Cleveland's Celery Compound Tea, 25c. If it fails to cure your money will be refunded. It is full of color, and wonderfully wrought out. It begins with the death of the young, beautiful and much loved wife of the hero, and follows him through the passing years, in which he gives himself up entirely to his sorrow, until the death of his brother, and the possession of a great inheritance calls him to the front of the world. The development of character is skillfully portrayed, and all is so real that the reader will follow the story to the end with absorbing interest. (The hero is a man whose wealth enables him to live with royal care, but he has some genius as a painter, which finds expression in one successful picture, and one only. One daughter furnishes him with no end of perplexities as to the right way of educating her, and she becomes a very attractive character. There are only two other personages of importance. Dr. McKenzie spoke in a reverent and old sweetheart, who married for wealth and position, and became a very successful woman of the world. The end seems natural enough, though it is at first rather surprising. The author calls this story a "Mystery" and a "Mystery" it is. It is one of the novels that can be safely commended for any reader, and it will well reward careful perusal. Published by D. Appleton & Co., price $1.50.

THE PHANTOM ARMY.

Max Pemberton is known as the writer of some stirring novels, of the latter day school, of which Stanley Weyman is the leader, and in the Phantom Army, he has written a novel which has been very successful as a magazine serial, as it had to do with the war. The book form it is even more attractive, as it is a very lively story, and events follow each other in rapid succession. The author calls this story a "Mystery" and a "Mystery" it is. It is one of the novels that can be safely commended for any reader, and it will well reward careful perusal. Published by D. Appleton & Co., price $1.50.

LITERARY NOTES.

President Jordan, of Leland Stanford Junior University, is about to publish a new book with the Appletons entitled Foot Notes to Evolution. This book will appeal to intelligent readers who have felt the need of a popular review of the philosophy of evolution, which shows its present status. President Jordan pays special attention to the biological aspects of the subject. He explains the essential unity of organisms, the real character of progress, and the relation of heredity and degeneration to the scheme of evolution. The "woman of evolution" is among the themes discussed from the standpoint of the evolutionist.

Latitude 19 Degrees is the title of Mrs. Schuyler Crowinshield's first novel, which is to be published immediately by the Appletons. The scene is laid in Haiti in 1820, and the local color is said to be fresh and captivating, while the interest of novelty attaches to the historical background, including as it does the pirates and voodoo worshippers of the earlier part of the century in Haiti, and the strange figure of King Christophe. The unflagging interest of the adventures which are encountered is accompanied by a constant vein of delightful humor.

Mr. James Barnes, who is so well known as a successful author of naval stories, has written The Hero of Erie, the story of Oliver Hazard Perry, which will appear shortly in the Young Heroes of our Navy Series, published by D. Appleton & Co.

John Blumelle-Burton cast back close on to 200 years for the historical incidents upon which to build "The Source of God." At that time France was cut up with religious persecutions, and it is of these that the romance has to do. The work has a Stanley Weyman flavor and dash. It is absorbing, magnetic, and worth reading. D. Appleton & Co.

Norcross, Trustees under the will of Isaac Norcross, dated April 10th, 1888, and duly recorded with Middlesex South District Deeds, Book 146, Page 294, which mortgage was duly assigned to Sarah S. Pratt, for breach of the conditions therein contained, and for the purpose of foreclosing the same, will be sold at public auction upon the premises on Monday, the twenty-eighth day of November, 1898, at four o'clock in the afternoon, all and singular the premises conveyed by said mortgage deed, namely:—

A certain piece of parcel of land with the buildings thereon situated in that part of Newton, in said County of Middlesex known as Ward 2, and bounded and described as follows, to-wit: Beginning at the easterly corner of Kenrick Street and Magnolia Avenue and thence running southerly by said Magnolia Avenue, two hundred and sixty-five (265) feet; thence turning and running Easterly by land now or late of John A. Kenrick and George B. Jones, two hundred (200) feet to land now or late of Oliver; thence turning and running Northerly by said land of Oliver two hundred and fifty-eight (258) feet to said Kenrick Street; thence turning and running Westerly by said Kenrick Street, one hundred and forty and one-half (140 1/2) feet to the point of beginning; containing 43,488 square feet, be the same more or less. Be the same premises conveyed to the said Susan E. Jones by Peter C. Jones by deed dated March 21st, 1887, and recorded with said Middlesex South District Deeds Book 129, Page 68. Said premises will be sold subject to any unpaid taxes or other public assessments. $200 at time and place of sale. SARAH S. PRATT, Assignee and present holder. B. W. Mason, Atty. 31 Milk Street.

Strong, steady nerves
Are needed for success
Everywhere, Nerves
Depend simply, solely,
Upon the blood.
Pure, rich, nourishing
Blood feeds the nerves
And makes them strong.
The great nerve tonic is Hood's Sarsaparilla,
Because it makes
The blood rich and Pure, giving it power
To feed the nerves.
Hood's Sarsaparilla
Cures nervousness,
Dyspepsia, rheumatism,
Catarrh, scrofula,
And all forms of Impure blood.

ASKED IN VAIN.

POSTMASTER ELLIS' REQUEST FOR MORE CARRIERS REFUSED BY THE OFFICIALS AT WASHINGTON—WILL NOT EXTEND NEWTON SERVICE AT PRESENT—CONGRESSMAN CAN DO IT, AND WILL BE URGED.

That there has been some dissatisfaction on the part of those residents of the city whose wards were admitted to the privileges of free delivery in July '97, is well known. That Postmaster Ellis has been the object of unjust criticism in consequence, is without doubt true.

The cause for the complaint has been the so-called lack of facilities. This means in substance that a small number of carriers are expected to handle a large amount of mail, and cover extended routes in remote districts. One familiar with the duties of a carrier, and habits of householders, realizes that it requires time to accomplish all that is demanded of him. As the department has adopted a rule that no carrier shall work over eight hours a day, it can be readily seen that there are days when the heavy loads of letters make it impossible for the postman to cover his route thoroughly twice a day.

This is where the fault is found, and without good cause. People have made complaints without consideration of these points, directing their criticism at Postmaster Ellis and his subordinates.

Postmaster Ellis has been apprised of this, and seeking to benefit all parties, urged the department at Washington to allow him additional carriers, explaining to them the feeling of the citizens and the absolute necessity for more men. In reply he was told by the department officials that nothing would be done for Newton in that direction during this year.

There is one hope, however, which will without doubt be resorted to, and that is to request Congressman Sprague to exert all influence in his power to bring about the extension of service. With his aid, Newton may obtain what is so much needed to improve its mail-carrier service.

THIRTIETH ANNIVERSARY.

NEWTONVILLE CENTRAL CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH HOLDS OBSERVANCE.

The Central Congregational church at Newtonville Sunday evening, celebrated the 30th anniversary of its organization with appropriate exercises. The service was largely attended by past and present members, and by representatives of other Congregational churches of Newton and vicinity.

The observances were conducted by Rev. J. M. Dutton, pastor of the church. The prayer was offered by Rev. Henry J. Patrick, pastor emeritus of the Second Congregational church at West Newton. To perform a similar service at the ordination of Rev. J. B. Clarke, now of New York, 30 years ago, when he became the first pastor of the new church at Newtonville.

The anniversary sermon was preached by Rev. Alexander McKenzie of the Shepard Memorial church of Cambridge, who also spoke at the ordination service 30 years ago. Dr. McKenzie spoke in a reverent and old sweetheart, who married for wealth and position, and became a very successful woman of the world. The end seems natural enough, though it is at first rather surprising. The author calls this story a "Mystery" and a "Mystery" it is. It is one of the novels that can be safely commended for any reader, and it will well reward careful perusal. Published by D. Appleton & Co., price $1.50.

During the 30 years of its existence the Newtonville church has employed the following pastors: Rev. J. B. Clarke, now of New York, secretary of the Congregational Missionary Association; Dr. Danforth, now of Philadelphia; Dr. Howe, lately deceased at Peoria, Ill.; Dr. Frank A. Gumsauls of Chicago; Rev. William Taylor, who died during his pastorate, and the present pastor, Rev. John M. Dutton.

BOOKS AND MAGAZINES.

HER MEMORY.

A novel by Maarten Maartens, the foremost Dutch novelist, is a literary event, and Her Memory is a worthy successor of The Greater Glory, God's Fool, and Joseph. The story is full of color, and wonderfully wrought out. It begins with the death of the young, beautiful and much loved wife of the hero, and follows him through the passing years, in which he gives himself up entirely to his sorrow, until the death of his brother, and the possession of a great inheritance calls him to the front of the world. The development of character is skillfully portrayed, and all is so real that the reader will follow the story to the end with absorbing interest. (The hero is a man whose wealth enables him to live with royal care, but he has some genius as a painter, which finds expression in one successful picture, and one only. One daughter furnishes him with no end of perplexities as to the right way of educating her, and she becomes a very attractive character. There are only two other personages of importance. Dr. McKenzie spoke in a reverent and old sweetheart, who married for wealth and position, and became a very successful woman of the world. The end seems natural enough, though it is at first rather surprising. The author calls this story a "Mystery" and a "Mystery" it is. It is one of the novels that can be safely commended for any reader, and it will well reward careful perusal. Published by D. Appleton & Co., price $1.50.

THE PHANTOM ARMY.

Max Pemberton is known as the writer of some stirring novels, of the latter day school, of which Stanley Weyman is the leader, and in the Phantom Army, he has written a novel which has been very successful as a magazine serial, as it had to do with the war. The book form it is even more attractive, as it is a very lively story, and events follow each other in rapid succession. The author calls this story a "Mystery" and a "Mystery" it is. It is one of the novels that can be safely commended for any reader, and it will well reward careful perusal. Published by D. Appleton & Co., price $1.50.

LITERARY NOTES.

President Jordan, of Leland Stanford Junior University, is about to publish a new book with the Appletons entitled Foot Notes to Evolution. This book will appeal to intelligent readers who have felt the need of a popular review of the philosophy of evolution, which shows its present status. President Jordan pays special attention to the biological aspects of the subject. He explains the essential unity of organisms, the real character of progress, and the relation of heredity and degeneration to the scheme of evolution. The "woman of evolution" is among the themes discussed from the standpoint of the evolutionist.

Latitude 19 Degrees is the title of Mrs. Schuyler Crowinshield's first novel, which is to be published immediately by the Appletons. The scene is laid in Haiti in 1820, and the local color is said to be fresh and captivating, while the interest of novelty attaches to the historical background, including as it does the pirates and voodoo worshippers of the earlier part of the century in Haiti, and the strange figure of King Christophe. The unflagging interest of the adventures which are encountered is accompanied by a constant vein of delightful humor.

Mr. James Barnes, who is so well known as a successful author of naval stories, has written The Hero of Erie, the story of Oliver Hazard Perry, which will appear shortly in the Young Heroes of our Navy Series, published by D. Appleton &

—In his endeavor to escape from the clutches of the law last Sunday morning, William McGinty of Warrington street, Boston, was the victim of a painful accident, which will confine him to his bed for some weeks. McGinty and a friend named William Heath, whose home is on Pleasant street, Boston, were making money on Commonwealth avenue, near Norumbega Park about 1 a. m., when the attention of Patrolman Bates was attracted by the loud noise. Bates hustled to the scene and pulled the roisterers under arrest. McGinty, after a struggle freed himself from the officer's grasp and started on a run. Bates called to McGinty to stop, at the same time firing his revolver in the air, frightening the fleeing man. It was a successful play on the patrolman's part. So terrified was poor McGinty that he went down to the bottom of a ditch in the rear of the car stables. A wagon call was pulled and both men taken to police headquarters. It was found that McGinty had sustained a fracture of the left knee in his fall. McGinty was brought in court Monday morning, on a charge of drunkenness, and fined $5. It will be some time before McGinty will appear to answer a similar charge.

High School Notes.

The following announcements of Head Master Adams will be of especial interest to the patrons of the school: "The teachers of the High school will be in their respective rooms, on the third Tuesday of each calendar month from three to four o'clock in the afternoon. Parents are cordially invited to meet the teachers on these occasions, and to consult freely with them in regard to the work of their children. Any person wishing to inspect the building will, likewise, be cordially welcomed. For the further convenience of parents who wish to advise with him about the interests of their children, the headmaster will be in his office also on the remaining Tuesday afternoons of each month, from two to four o'clock."

A rather interesting game was played between Newton High and a scrub team last Friday afternoon. In the first half neither side scored, but in the last half of the second Newton High pushed Holmes over for a touch down. This scrub team should be a permanent thing so that the school team can have practice and develop what talent would not otherwise be brought to light.

It was announced in last week's paper that Miss Haskell had resigned her position as history teacher. This was a mistake, it was Miss Kenyon who left.

A number of the Newton High school fellows were in a detachment which played the game of Cuban Soldiers in a charity entertainment given in the Bijou Opera House this week.

A second team should be started in the school. Cannot some enterprising fellow get one up?

The battalion is in the best shape it has been for years. Under the present circumstances we should have one especially good organization this year.

Newton High played Medford High this afternoon.

During the past week the foot ball team has received a severe shaking up. The two half backs, Capt. Seaver and Carter have been forced to leave the game because of water on the knee, and it is not likely they will play again this fall. Capt. Seaver was especially missed as he was a sure ground-gainer, a hard tackler and, above all, a manly captain and gentlemanly foot ball player. Now in all probability Leonard will lead the game and the captain's team. Two other good men are trying for the position, Leatherbee and Barnes. Barnes has played guard and has shown the qualities of an excellent foot ball player, he is a sure tackler and a fierce rusher. Leatherbee is a fast runner and has distinguished himself for long end rushes. He played on last year's team and would have played this year had not an injury prevented. Leonard is by all means the best half in the school, now that Seaver is laid up and will surely do his best in generaling the team. Skelton is to play a full back as usual. Prescott and Greenwood are playing end with Abbott and Kenway as tackles. These two men are the strongest pair of tackles Newton has had for a good while. The guards, Broad and Barnes are both hard players. If Barnes plays half-back Kelly will play guard in his old position. Stone has played at center all the season. He is strong and large and knows the game well. Andrew will play quarter-back. He is handicapped by Moore's sudden withdrawal from the game. Before he passed the ball he played end and was considered one of the best end men. After all, the school's chances are not so very dull and with good hard work and proper support, she should down the heavier teams. The school, as a rule, does not give sufficient support to its teams. There is indifference shown. I noticed at the last game that the Alpha Phi Kappa girls all turned out and their rooting surely inspired the team. They may be sure that it was appreciated by all the players. Their yell was rather novel and attracted no little attention. "Apple berry! mince-berry! squash-berry! pie! Newton, Newton, Newton High!" Let all girls' clubs attend the games and each new yell will be received with appreciation. The boys are showing good spirit and to a large extent attend the games. For the past three years Somerville has captured the first place in the league. Now we hope Newton will have good luck and mount the summit to victory. Capt. Seaver may be able to catch the team from the side lines, but he will not do his tugs again this fall. He has the sympathy of the school, and their appreciation of the work he has done for its interests.

Newton High defeated La Salle High school of Waltham, Wednesday afternoon, by a score of 8 to 0. Newton was the heavier team and should have won by a larger score, but the darkness caused many fumbles on both sides. The game was not until half-past four and then was delayed by an injury of one of the La Salle men. Newton kicked off to La Salle men who were unable to advance the ball further than the 35 yard line where Newton received the ball. After the ball had exchanged hands a number of times and resulted in a long point for La Salle, Newton again got the ball and advanced with fierce rushes by Barnes down to the two yard line where La Salle held for downs. On the pass back Stone hurdled the line and threw the La Salle quarter back of the line for a safety for Newton. La Salle kicked off to Newton from the 25 yard line and the Newton backs were rushing towards the La Salle goal line when time was called. In the second half darkness hindered the plays although the electric lights were turned on. The features of this half were the long gains made by Leatherbee, one of which resulted in a touchdown. Leonard kicked the goal. Score, N. H. S., 8, La Salle 0. In no time was Newton's goal in danger. While Newton again and again came within a few yards of scoring and either fumbled or made some fluke. For Newton Barnes, Leonard and Stone played a good game while Quinn and La Salle was the fastest man the Waltham team had.

Catarrh Can Be Cured.

By eradicating from the blood the scrofulous taints which cause it. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures catarrh, promptly and permanently, because it strikes at the root of the trouble.

The rich, pure blood which it makes, circulating through the delicate passages of the mucous membrane, and permanently builds the tissues, giving them a tendency to health instead of disease, and ultimately curing the affection.

At the same time, Hood's Sarsaparilla strengthens, invigorates and energizes the whole system and makes the debilitated victim of catarrh feel that new life has been imparted.

Do not be lulled by snuffs, inhalants or other local applications, but take Hood's Sarsaparilla and cure catarrh absolutely and surely by removing the causes which produce it.

WABAN.

—Mr. T. H. Tyler is on a business trip to Canada.

—Mr. Chas. Crawford is recovering from his recent illness.

—Mr. F. S. Wiley is quite ill at his home on Beacon street.

—Mr. Blatchford and Mrs. Sandler have removed to their winter home in Boston.

—Mr. Franklin Wood has been confined the past two weeks by illness, but is now improving.

—Election day was devoid of much excitement here, but a large Republican vote was recorded.

—Mr. F. S. Small has begun operations for a new house on the lot of land adjoining Alderman Heyner's, Beacon street.

—Mr. F. P. Allen, president of the Episcopal City Mission of Boston, preached at the church here last Sunday. He was very interesting.

—Mr. Ellsworth, who gave an illustrated lecture at Thompsonville, Tuesday night, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. Saville in the afternoon. He is a relative of Mrs. Saville.

—The Waban football team were defeated by the Wellesley team, Saturday afternoon, by a score of 20 to 0. They intend to redeem themselves to-morrow, when they play them again.

—At the North Evangelical church there is a movement on foot to form a Ladies' Aid Society. The membership will include many of those who formerly composed the King's Daughters.

—The regular consecration meeting of the Young Peoples' Christian Endeavor Society of the North Evangelical church was held Tuesday evening, when the semi-annual election of officers took place.

—The funeral of Miss Jane Maguire, whose death occurred at the Newton Hospital, Sunday, was held Tuesday morning at the Church of Our Lady on Washington street. The interment was at Waltham.

—At the superior court in Cambridge last Friday, James L. Murray of this place pleaded guilty to the charge of maintaining a liquor nuisance, listened to by J. J. Davis, one of the complainant. The case was placed on file.

—Mrs. Mary Foley, a resident of this section for forty-three years, died at her home on Pleasant street last Saturday, aged 65. She is survived by a husband and two sons. The funeral services were held Monday at St. Patrick's church, Watertown.

—At a meeting of the Nonantum Club, Monday evening, Dr. Thomas F. Carroll, who leaves next week for a European trip, was made an honorary member. A committee to consider alterations and repairs upon the building was chosen, and will report at next Monday evening's meeting.

—Little Percy Robertson, the 10-year old son of William Robertson, lies ill at his father's home on Arlington street, suffering from frightful injuries received in the midst of a childish sport about noon, Tuesday. Percy, with some companions, was standing on Watertown street, near the house of Cook street, listening to a band organ. The music moved them to dance, and Percy, leading his playmates in the fun, began skipping about the street. In the height of his glee Percy failed to notice passing vehicles, and before he had realized one was approaching, was knocked down and run over by a hack which had suddenly turned the corner of Cook street. Many say the hack driver, Bartholomew Gilligan, was not to blame. He is employed by Briggs Potter of Watertown, and said to be a careful driver. The little Robertson boy was picked up tenderly by bystanders, and hurried to Kilbarr's drug store. A physician was sent for and dressed the young boy's head. He stood the ordeal bravely, and did not cry when the doctor took several stitches in his scalp. The boy's head was bandaged, and a number of teeth knocked out, and he suffered internal injuries. He was taken to his home.

There is a Class of People

Who are injured by the use of coffee. Recently there has been placed in all the grocery stores a new preparation called GRAIN-O, made of pure grains, that takes the place of coffee. The most delicate stomach receives it without distress, and but few can tell it from coffee. It does not cost over 1-4 as much. Children may drink it with great benefit. 15 cts. and 25 cts. per package. Try it. Ask for GRAIN-O.

Y. M. C. A.

A special gymnasium class for business and professional men has been instituted, and will be held Monday and Tuesday evenings.

The boys enjoyed an entertainment last evening. Mr. G. W. Hunter of Waverfield gave several laughable imitations, Mr. John Crockett played the banjo, the boys' chorus sang the Newboy's song, and Mr. Parker described an exciting game of football.

There will be a union meeting for everybody at the Y. M. C. A. hall next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Besides brief addresses by prominent association workers, including Hon. Geo. H. Carter, ex Mayor of Chelsea, the boys' choir of Grace church will sing.

The Auburndale Congregational church has invited the Association to present its work and claims before them, next Sunday evening. The general secretary and others will speak, and the service will be wholly in the interests of young men.

The week of prayer special meetings have not been largely attended, but very helpful.

Mr. Chas. Barnard, who for nine years was technical writer on the staff of the Century Magazine, editorial writer of the Chautauqua Assembly Herald, contributing editor to the Century Dictionary, etc., will deliver his magnificent lecture on "The Ship," Wednesday evening, Nov. 16, at the association hall. This will be first in a valuable course of six lectures and concerts, and will be profusely illustrated by Mr. Frank E. Baker of Lynn, with one of the finest stereopticons made. Admission 25 cents. Entire course $1.00. Free to members of the association, who procure tickets before next Wednesday.

In a small village in the south of Scotland an elder in the parish church was one day reproving an old woman, who was rather the worse for liquor, by saying, "Sarah, don't you know that you should fly from the tempter?" Sarah, (much to the pleasure of the elders) replied: "O Sarah I have flown." Sarah: "Aweel, I think ye'll be name the waur o' anither fluter!"—Scottish-American.

Thin Blood

Where the blood loses its intense red—grows thin and watery, as in anemia, there is a constant feeling of exhaustion, a lack of energy—vitality and the spirits depressed.

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod-liver Oil with Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda is peculiarly adapted to correct this condition. The cod-liver oil, emulsified to an exquisite fineness, enters the blood direct and feeds its every corpuscle, restoring the natural color and giving vitality to the whole system. The hypophosphites reach the brain and nerve centres and add their strengthening and beneficial effect. If the roses have left your cheeks, if you are growing thin and exhausted from overwork, or if age is beginning to tell, use SCOTT'S Emulsion.

Be sure you get SCOTT'S Emulsion. All druggists; 50c. and $1.00. SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, New York.

SIFTING AND SAVING

The longer you sift the less you save. There is no economy in using a coal stove in summer, no matter how careful you are. A modern will reduce your fuel bill, lessen your labor. You can do anything on a Vapor Stove that you can do on any other stove, and do it better. It makes no dirt, is always ready, and never over-heats the house.

VAPOR STOVE

STOVE GASOLINE

is the most economical fuel you can burn, because there is no waste to it. It is the cleanest fuel you can burn because there are no ashes. Therefore no dust or dirt. If you want to know what real comfort is, get a Vapor Stove.

If your dealer does not sell Vapor Stoves and Stove Gasoline, write to the Standard Oil Company, New York City.

Hospital Sunday.

The finance committee of the Newton Hospital respectfully appeal to the citizens of Newton for a very generous contribution towards its financial needs, on the approaching Hospital Sunday, Nov. 20.

It is exceedingly gratifying to them to acknowledge the generous response with which their former appeals for this worthy institution has been met. It is also a matter of congratulation, not only that it has done a noble and constantly increasing work, but that its effectiveness has been so generally recognized and appreciated, and that its field of usefulness is to be still further extended, through the thoughtful munificence and generosity of several of our most esteemed citizens.

As a result of such generosity, extensive additions and improvements, and a most complete equipment, including an operating room and accident ward, male and female surgical wards, a children's ward, with elaborate connecting corridors, have been added and completed, at an expense of some $43,000, and which were dedicated on Saturday, Nov. 12. A complete electric lighting plant has also been given, and will be installed at an early date.

We feel confident that such generous and praiseworthy action on the part of those who have contributed so nobly towards this magnificent equipment (will be gratefully appreciated by all our people, and that it will serve to stimulate them to renewed effort and generous subscriptions on Hospital Sunday, to the end that the small deficit growing out of these additions, and the increased cost of maintenance which such enlarged facilities necessarily impose, will be promptly and generously supplied.

Signed, LUCIUS G. PRATT, A. LAWRENCE EDMANDS, WARREN P. TYLER, WILLIAM P. ELLISON, EDWARD H. HASKELL, Finance Committee.

OLD BUILDINGS MUST GO.

CHANGES WHICH WILL BEAUTIFY LOWER FALLS—HOSE HOUSE, TOO, WILL BE REMOVED—STREET WIDENING.

A number of important changes are soon to be made in the village of Lower Falls as a result of the extension of the metropolitan commission's river parkway. These changes are expected to greatly improve the appearance of the village.

A number of the old wooden buildings along the river front are to be removed to make way for the park, leaving a broad open space in the center of the village. The taking of the park commission do not extend to the mill property on Washington street, but will remove a number of unsightly tenement houses.

Among the buildings which must be removed is hose house, near the corner of Washington and Wales streets. An agreement has been made between the city and the park commission whereby the hose house is to be removed by the city, the commission, in return, releasing to the city a strip of land on Washington street for street widening purposes.

Washington street from Wales to the bridge is now regarded as dangerously narrow, and accidents due to the crowded condition of the thoroughfare have been frequent. As a consequence, the city is glad to embrace the opportunity to widen at small expense.

The removal of the hose house makes it possible to solve a problem which has for some time occupied the attention of the city government. For a long time past residents of Waban have been petitioning for better fire protection for that village. It has not been deemed advisable to place a piece of apparatus in that section of the city, but now it is probable that hose 6 will be located much nearer Waban, affording better protection to that village without increasing the fire risk in Lower Falls.

The present site of the hose house has long been unsatisfactory to the department in view of the fact that the wagon is obliged to climb a steep hill in order to get a box in any direction except in the center of the village. This has cost much delay and horseflesh.

It is probable that the hose house will now be located somewhere near the corner of Beacon and Washington streets, giving an easy run into Lower Falls, Auburndale, West Newton and Upper Falls.

That "Non-Partisan" Meeting.

An adjourned meeting of the "Woodland Park" gathering was held at Temple hall, Newtonville, last evening. The call was signed by the following: Edward Sawyer, Ward One; Otis E. Hunt, Ward Two; Geo. P. Bullard, Ward Three; Edward L. Pickard, Ward Four; Seward W. Jones, Ward Five; R. H. Gardiner, Ward Six; A. R. Weed, Ward Seven.

The call stated that the meeting was "to further consider the names suggested for candidates for Mayor, in the interest of an economical administration of city offices." There was a goodly amount of talk, and many votes taken, and Mr. George M. Fiske of Auburndale led on all the ballots. The others stood in this order, Alderman Thomas White, Mr. E. B. Wilson and ex-Mayor Bothfield.

Perhaps the most amusing thing about the meeting, aside from the appearance of so many Republican Ward and City Committee men as "non-partisans," was the motion presented by Alderman Jesse C. Ivy, that all present should pledge themselves to support Mr. Fiske, but the motion was voted down and this broke up the meeting, it is said.

A Trip Through California.

A special "Mardi-Gras Tour" to California, under the Personally-Conducted Tourist System of the Pennsylvania Railroad, will leave Boston February 8, 1899.

Among the principal points of interest visited will be Mammoth Cave, New Orleans, San Antonio, El Paso, Los Angeles, San Diego, Riverside, Redlands, Pasadena, Santa Barbara, Monterey, Santa Cruz, San Jose, San Francisco, Salt Lake City, Glenwood and Colorado Springs, Manitou and the Garden of the Gods, Denver and Chicago. The entire trip will be by special train of Pullman vestibule sleeping, dining, compartment, and observation cars, a counterpart of the famous "Pennsylvania Limited." Rate, including all necessary expenses, $405. Descriptive itinerary will shortly be issued, and can be obtained of D. N. Bell, Tourist Agent, 600 Washington street, Boston.

SELECTING A CANDIDATE.

Those who have only the interests of Newton at heart have been looking over the field, discussing the various candidates who have been suggested for mayor, and the great majority of them seem to have united in the same conclusion, that ex-Mayor Bothfeld is the best fitted in every way of all those who have been mentioned.
He is perfectly straightforward, is independent, has a thorough knowledge of city
affairs, and proved during his former term
that he had the courage to push through any reforms that were needed, without regard to any effect his action might have upon his popularity. The reform in the police department was one instance out of many. He gave the city a model administration, even under the old charter, and with the powers given by the present charter, where the mayor is the executive head of the city, he would be able to put
city affairs on a sound business basis.

It was at first feared that he could not be induced to be a candidate, but the urgent appeals and persuasion of prominent men
from all parts of the city has had some effect, and it is believed that he would accept were the nomination tendered him in the proper way. The old Citizens' party has no legal organization, but the leaders
of it are circulating papers for signatures
and a very impressive list of citizens is being secured. In fact his nomination some time ago seemed so probable that the non-partisan movement was started by the city
ring, and by those who were not able to use Mr. Bothfeld when mayor to further their own personal ends, and a desperate effort was made to head off his nomination.
But such opposition only showed the wisdom of having a man with such opponents
for mayor, as it would be almost a certain guarantee of a pure and straightforward administration. Appointments would be made for fitness alone, and not as the result of "influence," and city affairs would be managed in a business-like way.

In fact, under such a mayor, it could be confidently promised that the tax rate
would be reduced, and all city work would be efficiently done. There is no question but that the city expenditures are many thousands larger than they should be, even with the results obtained, and for that reason the question of the mayor for the con-
ing year is of the highest importance.
Only a man who has been tried and proved should be considered as a candidate. The people have had to take the matter in hand, as unfortunately they have lost confidence in the Republican Ward and City Committee, even when they masquerade
under another name.

THAT "NON PARTISAN" MOVE-MENT.

The managers of the Woodland Park Hotel meeting gravely assert that it was not in any sense a partisan movement! This statement has produced a broad smile
all over the city, as the list of signers to the call for the meeting included such noted
"non-partisans" as Robert H. Gardner, Seward W. Jones, E. L. Pickard, G. P. Bullard and other members of the Republican Ward and City Committee. These gentlemen have been generally considered as extreme partisans as could be found in the city, and their appearance in the role of independents is such an unusual occurrence
that every one is asking, "where they are at."

In fact two of them are popularly credited with being in a certain sense "bosses"
of the party, who pull the wires when anything is to be done. But popular rumor has apparently done them an injustice, and they are true independents, who only ask
when a candidate is up for office, is he honest, is he competent, is he the best man available, and never so much as think what
the candidate's politics may happen to be.

Their defection from the straight Republican ranks will be a great blow to many devoted patriots in Newton, as well as to some in high office in the state, as it was thought they could be depended on to vote
for even the proverbial yellow dog, provided it was nominated by their party. With Messrs. Gardner, Jones, et al. leading a non-partisan movement in Newton, we may reasonably expect the skies to fall or any other dreadful calamity to happen.

Mr. Luitweiler, the secretary of the meeting, writes us that it was "not a partisan meeting, and was not in the interest of any man or any half dozen men," and surely he ought to know.

We would like to ask, however, how it happened that only Republicans were favored, and that the friends of the most popular candidate in Newton felt a cold wind come over the meeting every time his name was mentioned? Why was Mr. Eli-son's name taken up, without any endeavor
to find out if he would consent to run, and why was it that the leading opponent of this same popular candidate was so enthusiastic over Mr. Ellison, unless it was to show that Ward Seven was not united? Of course, the managers of the meeting had no reason to suppose that Mr. Ellison would run, but they ought to have seen that his declination would leave them in a rather ridiculous plight. All the expense of a dinner, and the having to listen to interminable speeches from one man a whole evening, and nothing done!

It is said that right after the meeting,
two of those present, both members of the ward and city committee, feeling that any possible candidate from Ward Seven was thus easily disposed of, decided to have ex-Alderman Fiske of Auburndale as the real candidate, and the results of the adjourned meeting, last evening, seems to confirm this view. Mr. Fiske is such a good Republican, however, that we hope the committee
have some assurance that he would accept a
"non-partisan" nomination!

We notice that Republican caucuses have been called for next week, notices having been left in grocery stores and other obscure places, but whether they are to turn themselves into "non-partisan" gatherings,
or whether these sudden converts will "return to their muttons" for that evening, remains to be seen.

It may sound cynical but we predict that
the "non-partisan" candidate will prove to be the regular Republican candidate, and that will be all there is to this movement.

Mr. Langford's victory evidently had a great effect upon members of his party, if it deprived them of courage to the extent indicated by this "non-partisan" movement,
but possibly after all it was only intended
to head off a genuine Citizen's movement,
such as have always been successful in city
elections. Some are so unkind as to hint at such a thing. But the unkindest rumor that we have heard, is that the leaders of this "non-partisan" movement have promised a prominent Democratic lawyer the position of city solicitor, provided he will have his party support their candidate.

This, if true, would certainly give an air of non-partisanship to the movement, which it would lack without it, but we do not believe it, and only quote it to show how ready some people are to say bad things of
men, if they show any signs of independence in politics. Of course we all know that there have been political deals even in Newton, which would not look at all nice
in print, and certain members of the Republican ward and city committee have been mixed up in them, but it is best to forget all these, now that they have reformed and become "non-partisans."

Mr. W. F. Spooner Associated with Morris, Murch & Butler.

Mr. W. F. Spooner of the late firm of Putnam & Spooner, takes great pleasure in informing his friends and patrons that he is now connected with the firm of Morris,
Murch & Butler, 42 Summer street, Boston.
The stock carried by them is a very large
and enables him to give his customers better service than he has hitherto been able to do. They carry 120 patterns of metal bedsteads besides an enormous variety of cribs, springs and bedding of every description. In addition to their bedding they show what is considered to be the finest stock of chamber furniture in New England comprising bureaus, chiffoniers, dressing tables, etc. They have always sold a high grade of goods at very low prices and their central location in the city will enable the old customers of the former firm of Putnam & Spooner to call there without any inconvenience.

Newton Congregational Club.

The next regular meeting of the Newton Congregational Club will be held in the parlors and chapel of the Central Congregational church, Newtonville, Monday, Nov. 21.

The doors will open at 5 o'clock; supper
will be served at 6 o'clock.
The meeting will be made an Interde-nominational Evening with the general
topic, "The Religious Problem of Newton,"
and addresses will be given by the Rev.
Thomas W. Bishop, the Rev. Francis B.
Hornbrook, the Rev. Edgar W. Phillips,
D. D., and the Rev. George W. Shinn, D.
D. The club will gladly welcome these pastors, with their wives, as representatives of their denominations.
According to the vote of the club there will be no meeting next month.

morning at the Church of Our Lady.

—It is expected that Major Perkins of
New Haven, who was a member of Gen.
Butler's staff during the civil war, will give an informal talk on the rebellion, Monday evening, Dec. 5, at the Methodist church. It will be under the auspices of the social department of the Epworth League.

—Mrs. Florence M. Mayo of Watertown, daughter of Mr. Walter H. Keith, who was married last June, has filed a petition for divorce from Harry O. Mayo and placed an attachment on his property for $10,000, alleging cruel and abusive treatment. Both parties are very prominent in Watertown
society, and the affair has made a sensation.

—The Entertainment Club met Monday evening in the parlors of the Channing church. An amount of important business was transacted, including the passage of a vote to discontinue Saturday matinees.
The next performance of the club will be Monday evening, Nov. 28, when "The Little Rebel" and "An Engaging Position" will be presented.

—Mrs. Mary B. Rand, mother of Mrs.
Charles E. Eddy of Franklin street, died
this morning at her daughter's home, aged 78 years. She was the widow of the late Charles F. Rand, and had lived in Newton many years. Funeral services will be held at the residence of Mr. Charles E. Eddy on Franklin street, Monday afternoon, at 2 o'clock.

—Two organ recitals will be given at the Eliot church, on Wednesday evening, Nov.
20 and Dec. 1, at 8 o'clock, by Mr. Everett
E. Truette, who will be assisted at the first recital by Mrs. Frances Dunton Wood, soprano, and Mr. George J. Parker, tenor;
and at the second recital by Miss Adah
Campbell Hussey, contralto, and Mr. Percy Fenton Hunt, bass.

—Mr. Winthrop B. Allen of this city, in connection with other artists, will hold an exhibition at 410 Boylston street, Boston,
beginning Nov. 28, and lasting until Dec.
10. The works will include water colors, china, burnt work and embroidery. This will be a rare opportunity to secure gifts for the holidays. The people of Newton are cordially invited to attend.

—Last evening at 11:25 o'clock, an alarm was sounded from box 171, which pointed the direction to the corner of Jewett and Boylston streets. A diligent search on the part of the firemen, policemen, and newspaper reporters failed to reveal any fire. It was found that the alarm had been pulled in broken, and the emergency call pulled in.
If the person who rang the alarm was there, he must have thought it very funny
to see mud-covered apparatus, and tired horses.

—There was an inspection of Charles Ward Post 62, G. A. R., Thursday evening by Junior Department Commander George M. Fiske.

—Mr. A. W. Pope attended the banquet given at the Waldorf-Astoria, New York, last Friday evening, in honor of Gen. Nelson A. Miles.

—The friends of Donald Newton MacDonald, formerly of Highland avenue, will be pleased to learn that he has just received the Republican nomination for the Common Council in Ward 12, Boston.

—Mr. E. E. Towne, who has conducted the grocery business in this place for the past two years, will remain in town till about Dec. 1st, after which he will probably return to Springfield, Mass.

—Some of the friends of Mr. George Brendon, who recently returned from a European trip, tendered him a dinner and an informal reception at the Woodland Park Hotel, Saturday evening.

—Mr. Irving O. Palmer of this place, secretary of the New England Association of Chemistry Teachers, attended the annual dinner given by the society, Saturday afternoon, at the United States Hotel.

—The Junior Endeavor Society of the Methodist church held a Wednesday last, at which a large number were present and a general good time was enjoyed by all.

—Newton Royal Arch Chapter held its regular convocation Tuesday evening. The Past Master and the Most Excellent Masters degrees were worked. A collation was served at the close of the business session.

—The regular quarterly meeting of the young people's societies of Newtonville was held at the Universalist church on Sunday evening last. A large number of young people were in attendance, and the meeting was one of interest to all.

—Mrs. E. M. Hartley, vice regent of Quechequan chapter, D. A. R., is anxious to stop a chain letter started by her in July for the benefit of the hospital ship, Bay State. As it has gone out of commission contributions are unnecessary and it is hoped any person receiving one of these letters will let the matter drop and make no attempt to continue it.

—Last year the Newtonville churches held a union Thanksgiving service upon the Wednesday evening preceding, with such success, that a reunion service will be held this year. Wednesday, Nov. 23, at 7.45, in the Swedenborgian church, Dr. Worcester will conduct the service, assisted by the other pastors. All are invited to share in this service.

—Mrs. Ellen C. Johnson, matron of the Sherborn Woman's Reformatory Prison, will speak in the Washington Park Universalist church next Sunday afternoon, Nov. 20, at 4.30. Her subject will be "Work among the prison women." Those who know what a noble work she is doing will be glad of this opportunity to hear her speak. All are welcome.

—A fine concert was held in Temple hall, Wednesday evening, under the auspices of Charles Ward Post 62, G. A. R. The program was presented by the following artists: Henrietta Raynes, first soprano; Elizabeth Austin, second soprano; Carolyn Ashland, first alto; May French, second alto; Miss Eleanor Piper, cornetist; Celia May French, reader.

—At the Methodist Episcopal church, Sunday evening at 7.30 o'clock, the fourth in the series of "Strange Talks to Young People," will be given by the pastor, Rev. Franklin Hamilton. The topic will be "Palaces, Fables and Fads; No Cure for Fools," with a word on Christian Science. All young people especially invited. All seats free. Special music. Morning worship at 10.45. Strangers cordially welcome.

—The Grecian Art Tableaux and concert company gave an enjoyable entertainment, Monday evening, in the rooms of the house of the Newton Women's Home Circle. The artists were, Elizabeth Flower Willis, reader and impersonator; Miss Blanche Bernadine Parker, soprano; Miss Blanche Bernadine Parker, violinist; Miss M. Isola Sears, pianist; Miss Alberta Turner and Miss Maude Frost, posings; Mr. F. W. Bailey, operator and electrician.

—The establishment of the free delivery system necessitated numerous changes in the post office, which are now being pushed forward as rapidly as possible. The new partition has been placed straight across the room, bringing the money order office on a line with the delivery window. This change gives the much needed additional room for the convenience of the superintendent, her assistants and the letter carriers. A floor has been laid in the outside lobby and in the office. The walls and ceilings are to be painted and new boxes and new furniture will be furnished.

—The monthly meeting of the directors of the Newton Associated Charities was held Thursday afternoon in the rooms of the house of the Newton Women's Home Circle. The reports were submitted. The following officers were elected: Pres. Mrs. E. N. L. Walton; vice pres. Mrs. Richard Rowe; Mrs. N. T. Allen; Mrs. James P. Tolman; Mrs. M. J. Carter; Mrs. John Carter; Mrs. Alfred Kershaw; treas. Mrs. T. E. Stutson; directors, Miss Susan Whiting, Mrs. Kate A. Mead, Mrs. Jane M. Hastings, Mrs. George H. Browne, Mrs. Louisa White, Mrs. Flora D. Sampson, Mrs. Carrie B. Allen, Mrs. Carrie Anders, Mrs. Edward Burrage, Mrs. C. W. Eaton. A public meeting was held in the large parlors at the close of the business session. Mrs. E. N. L. Walton presided. An argument against equal suffrage was presented by Mrs. Jane M. Hastings. Able responses were made by Rev. Samuel J. Barrows and Mr. H. B. Blackwell. Music was furnished by Miss Edith Baker. Refreshments were served at the close of the business session.

—The "Dutch Village" at the Congregational church this week, was a leading attraction. The houses were built surrounding a square as in a genuine Holland town. The public in "Gastrop" did a thriving business under the direction of Mrs. Packard and Mrs. Young. The Welsh rabbit was prepared by Messrs. Day, Whittlesey, and Atherton, and was said to be excellent. The tables were as follows: Fancy, Mrs. Day, assistants, Mrs. Palmer, Mrs. Williamson, Mrs. Leonard, and Mrs. Sanders; domestic, Mrs. Brauman, assistants, Mrs. Wyman, Mrs. Griffin, and Mrs. Haman; art, Mrs. Clinton Eddy, assistants, Mrs. Paine, Mrs. Kilburn, and Mrs. Burr; candy, Miss Parsons, assistants, the Misses Saunders, Eddy, Woodbury, and Kattelle; preserves and jellies, Mrs. Barker, assistants, Mrs. Whittlesey, Mrs. Stoddard and others; Dutch cake and coffee, Mrs. Fred Eddy and several assistants; ice cream, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Libby, Mrs. Lovell and others. The Dutch pump stood in the centre of the square with its pure water, and the windmill was under the direction of Miss Dorothy Dowse. The attendants were all in national costumes, which proved to be very attractive in many instances. The fair was very successful socially and financially.

—A large audience enjoyed the comedy, "A King's Daughter," at the Universalist church Wednesday and Thursday evenings. The scene of Act I, "The King's Daughter," and Act II, "In His Name," was in Mrs. Graham's drawing room and Act III, "The Fairy Godmother," was in a hay field. The parts were taken in a natural, life-like manner and showed thorough study and an appreciation of the characters portrayed. The pictures in the second act were a success and were warmly applauded by the audiences. The transformation of poor Aunt Clarissa to a wealthy patron and of the poor orphan to a wealthy heiress were pleasing details to the play. Music was furnished by Atwood's orchestra. The Lend-a-Hand Society, under whose auspices the entertainment was given, are to be congratulated upon its success.

Barker, Roy Burehstead, H. K. Barrows.

—Last Friday afternoon, the first fall meeting of the West Newton Women's Home Circle was held in the parlors of the Unitarian church. The parlors were decorated with plants and cut flowers. Some 150 ladies, including members of the club and their friends, were present. The feature of the affair was an address by Mrs. E. N. L. Walton, president of the club, who gave an account of her recent trip to Denver, and experiences at the biennial convention.

—One of the quickest captures of a horse thief in the record of the police department was made by Chief Tabor, yesterday. Some time Tuesday night the barn of George H. Frost on Fuller street, was entered, and a bay mare, carriage, and harness stolen. The police received the description of a man seen in that vicinity, and acting on this chief began an immediate search. He traced the rig and driver to the barn yesterday, where he found Rogers had exchanged with another man, and in the transaction had received $20 besides another rig. Rogers was brought in court this morning, and held in $1500 bonds for his trial before the grand jury.

—The annual meeting of the Newton Women Suffrage League was held Thursday evening, at the Unitarian church. The reports were submitted. The following officers were elected: Pres. Mrs. E. N. L. Walton; vice pres. Mrs. Richard Rowe; Mrs. N. T. Allen; Mrs. James P. Tolman; Mrs. M. J. Carter; Mrs. John Carter; Mrs. Alfred Kershaw; treas. Mrs. T. E. —The regular Young Women's Home Missionary meeting was held Monday afternoon in the chapel of the Hancock street Congregational church.

—On Sunday evening an interesting meeting was held in the chapel of the Congregational church. Rev. Mr. Southgate spoke from Christ's lands. In darkest Africa, Concord Reformatory. Mr. Parker, secretary of Newton Y. M. C. A., gave a report of the year's work there. Rev. Mr. Say-ford, assistant in college work, spoke of the most interesting as of the work among soldiers and railroad men. Y. M. C. A. members rendered fine music.

—Last Sunday afternoon Mrs. Mary Clement Leavitt spoke to the Auburndale Woman's Christian Temperance Union on the evil effects of the incoming tide of intoxicating liquors in foreign lands she had visited. She spoke particularly of pagan lands where mission work was so much hindered by the harmful liquor brought from Christ's lands. In darkest Africa the strong drink sent from our land of light and liberty was really forced upon the natives in payment for their work, largely for the purpose of the money they would rather have. Not so much in the past from the United States as formerly, but not so much on account of our higher morality, as the being undersold by other nations.

—Wednesday and Thursday afternoons and evenings of this week the Ladies' Aid Society connected with the Church of the Messiah have occupied the parish house on Auburn street with their annual fair. The interior of the building was charmingly decorated, and about the hall were booths for the sale of fancy articles. The patronage of the visitors was extremely liberal, and the affair may be said to have been a complete success. The tables were managed by the following ladies: Trained tables, Mrs. Nye, Mrs. Jordan and the Misses Crane; King's Daughters, Mrs. Mattoon, Miss Felix, Miss Washburn and Mrs. Bunker; children's table, Mrs. Barker, Miss Bunker; children's table, Mrs. Barker, Miss Hartley; Thanksgiving table, Mrs. Sprague, Mrs. Sheppard; fancy table, Mrs. Hinman; candy table, Mrs. Curtis, Mrs. Perkins, Mrs. Newhall, Mrs. Howett, Miss Ward; supper room, Mrs. Baldwin and Mrs. Jones.

—Mr. Charles Miner has cut up his 100-pound deer which he shot in Maine, and has distributed the venison among his friends.

—Mr. Daniel Hurley is building an addition to his house on High street and is making other improvements about the premises.

—Rev. H. J. Davis, formerly pastor of the Baptist church, was here from Georgetown last week on a visit to some of his former parishioners.

—A meeting of the Ladies' Sewing Circle of the Methodist church was held Wednesday evening. The church was well patronized and a supper and social in the evening.

—Perseverance Lodge, I. O. G. T. will hold an open meeting on Thanksgiving evening in Quinobogin hall, High street. Light refreshments will be served. All are invited.

—Mrs. John Slamin was agreeably surprised last Saturday evening by a number of lady friends at her home on Carter street. She was the recipient of a handsome tea set.

—Echo Bridge Connell, Royal Arcanum, held a largely attended meeting last Wednesday evening. This lodge is in a flourishing condition and it is expected that many candidates will be initiated during the winter.

—A very pleasant meeting of the Pierian Club was held at the home of Mrs. Bernard Billings Wednesday afternoon. The winter's study was opened with a reading by Mrs. Mills on the Early History of England. A sketch of the life of Churchill and Cooper was given by Mrs. Everett. Refreshments were served and the meeting adjourned to meet Nov. 30th with Mrs. Everett.

—Daniel S. Welch, 32 years of age, died last Saturday at his home on Reservoir street. Deceased had been in failing health for several months, but his final illness lasted only a few days duration. Mr. Welch was an expert electrician, was well known and had many friends. The funeral was held Monday morning from St. Mary's church the services being conducted by Rev. Mr. Kimball. The interment was in Holyhood cemetery.

—Frederick W. Godsoe committed suicide by shooting himself in the body at his home on High street, Monday morning. He did not appear at breakfast as usual, and shortly after the usual breakfast hour the family were startled by a pistol shot. They hurried to the room occupied by Godsoe, and found him with a bullet wound in the left side, and a smoking revolver lying under his hand. A physician was hastily summoned, but could do nothing. The revolver had been well aimed, and the bullet, 38 calibre, had passed through the body just below the heart. Death ensued about 20 minutes. This was not the first attempt which Godsoe has made upon his life. Several weeks ago, while under the effects of an overdose of morphine taken to relieve pain, he shot himself twice in the head. Neither wound was serious, and after a few weeks of treatment at the Newton Hospital, he was pronounced well and taken home. He had been ill with malaria fever for a number of months, and his suicide is supposed to have been prompted by despondency at his failure to recover and the unbalancing of his mind resulting from his long illness. He was about 29 years of age, and had lived with his mother in this place nearly all his life. He was employed as a machinist at the Pettie works, and was well spoken of by his employers and by those who knew him socially. The funeral services took place Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, from his home on High street. Beside members of Home Lodge, I. O. O. F., only relatives were present. The Rev. Mr. McConell of the Methodist church was the officiating clergyman. At the close of the service the body was removed to the Newton cemetery, the burial rites being conducted by members of the lodge.

NEWTON LOWER FALLS.

—Mr. Geo. D. Miller after a very long and serious illness, is able to be about his home, and it is hoped will soon be out.

—The park commission has now secured the site where the hose station is now situated, and has also secured all the property up the river, for quite a distance in that vicinity. A new location for the hose station is now being looked for, probably near Beacon and Washington streets, on land that is being filled in.

—Mr. J. A. Robinson of Wellesley Farms has closed his residence, and is residing in Boston for a few weeks.

—Many changes will be brought about when work on beautifying the Charles river, is extended here. The removal of many buildings will give an opportunity for a water street, that has been looked for by many residents, and an improvement that is likely to be made.

—At the solicitation of a number of the parishioners of St. John's church, the Newton & Boston street railway will start running, permanently, an early car next Sunday morning. The car will reach the bridge at Lower Falls at five minutes of 8 o'clock, starting early from the square in Newton.

—The Twilight A. A. of this place defeated the Lafayette A. A. football eleven from Cambridge, Va. Charles River Park, last Saturday, by a score of 15 to 11. The Twilights, though by far the lighter team, played a much superior game than their opponents. Chesterman of the Twilights made three sensational catches, scoring a touchdown each time. The end running of McLaughlin, and the line bucking of Campbell were the features of the game. The kicking of Burnett at fullback, was far superior to that of the opposing fullback; his kicks being well placed and high, while the other's were sometimes blocked before he got them off. Woodside was easily the star of the Lafayette's. The light line of the Twilights' times could not withstand his plunges, and he was sent over the line for two touch downs. The Twilights' have made a fine showing this season, losing only one game.

WABAN.

—News has reached here of the accidental shooting, some days ago, of Mr. Walter D. Noyes of this place, while on a hunting trip at Joe Merry Lake, Me. The wound is in his right foot, and is not at all serious. He was with W. F. Lockhart at the time, and in some manner his rifle was accidentally discharged. He is now at his home, and will be out in a few days.

NEWTON CLUB.

Nearly 200 members and their guests enjoyed the hospitality of the club last Saturday evening, which was one of the members' socials arranged for by the entertainment committee. The entertainment was entirely informal, but proved altogether enjoyable. A concert program was presented by the Clover Club from eight to ten, and billiards, pool, bowling and whist attracted their usual quota of enthusiasts. At ten supper was served in the main dining room.

The athletic management is getting to gether an all star eleven to meet the strong Newtonville A. A. eleven on Thanksgiving day. The game will be played at Newton Centre, and is certain to bring out a large crowd of football enthusiasts. Last year's game was a hot contest, and a close score with brilliant play is looked for this year.

A large number of club members and their families will leave for New Haven tomorrow for the Harvard-Yale game, and incidentally to root for Harvard.

On Saturday evening will be held the fortnightly whist tournament for members. Unusually acceptable prizes will be offered.

Next Wednesday evening will be a "ladies' night whist," with the additional attraction of a musical feature, Mr. Von Vechstein, harpist. The success, which has attended the whists already held, makes it certain that the attendance on this evening will be large.

Music lovers among club members and their families turned out in force Wednesday evening, for the second in the series of "ladies' night" entertainments, which was given in the large assembly hall. The attraction was the Adamowski quartet, and the musical treat provided, was one of the finest which has yet been afforded club members. The selections were without exception artistically rendered, and were accorded liberal applause. The artists were Mr. T. Adamowski, first violin; Mr. Josef Adamowski, violoncello; Mr. Arnold Moldaner, second violin; Mr. Max Zach, viola.

On exhibition at the club house is the Minneapolis trophy for pairs won by Messrs. Hiecox and Richardson at the American Whist Association meeting last held.

Lasell Notes.

Lasell was well represented among the audience that gathered at Tremont Temple on the evening of the 11th to hear the Hoosier poet, James Whitcomb Riley, read selected poems from his works. Riley is too well known and too fully appreciated to fail to draw the people on such an occasion; and this time the pleasure was rendered doubly delightful by the addition of fine vocal music to the program, several of Boston's prominent vocalists aiding in the entertainment of the evening. Over seventy were present from the seminary. Mr. Bragdon accompanied the party.

On Sunday several of the girls attended, with Mr. Bragdon, the services at Park street church.

Miss Annie Payson Call gave a short chapel talk to the girls on Monday evening. The talk bore upon the desirableness of avoiding needless muscular and nervous strain, and the feasibility of such avoidance. Miss Call will shortly resume her work at Lasell for the current year. To learn how to acquire poise and composure is one of the most important of all things for the American women, and this is Miss Call's special province to teach.

The Rev. Mr. Ellis of Orange, Mass., led the school prayer meeting on Friday evening.

21ST ANNIVERSARY.

INTERESTING EXERCISES AT THE NEWTON YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION.

Last Sunday afternoon the Newton Young Men's Christian Association observed its 21st anniversary with appropriate exercises, Mr. F. O. Barber presiding. After an inspiring praise service, Master Potter sang "The Holy City." Rev. George Wolfe Shinn conducted the devotional exercises, and the boy choir of Grace church sang several anthems. The Hon. Geo. H. Carter of Chelsea delivered a practical and eloquent address on the work of the Young Men's Christian Association and its claims upon Newton people. The annual report of the Newton association was read by General Secretary Parker.

The financial statement was presented by Mr. J. R. W. Shapleigh, after which pledges and contributions were received. The general secretary's report was as follows:

"It is our custom at this time each year to acquaint the people of our city with the results of our work, also to inform them of our present standing and purposes.

The hearty support of Christian people has enabled the Newton Young Men's Christian Association to successfully carry on its work, through a year fraught with difficulties and discouragements, as well as blessings and opportunities.

The danger foreseen by a few, that enlarged equipment and facilities would bring to the necessity of personal work and solicitation, has been realized to no small extent, and especially at the beginning of the year now closing.

The feeling seemed to be quite general that the added attractions of gymnasium and pleasant social rooms would be sufficient to draw young men into connection with the association and its work.

To a certain extent this has been true, but now after the gloss of newness has somewhat dulled, we find ourselves where we must always be, dependent upon men who are moved by the spirit of Christ.

The force against which we contend has not abated, and during the year its agencies have increased in our midst, for while reports of an evil nature have been opened near us, the power of the church to overcome their blighting influences has been dissipated by the tendency on the part of many of its members to leave their social or club life, and the Christian Association.

The Young Men's Christian Association is recognized by leading Christian minds, as the most potent organized factor in our country for saving young men's bodies and souls, and why it should not accomplish the same results in Newton, there is no good reason.

The call has sounded for living sacrifice and a few have responded. The efforts of these faithful ones have been blessed by the Christ whom they serve.

A brief review of the year may interest you all. It covers one year, from Nov. 1, 1897 to Nov. 1, 1898:

RELIGIOUS.

Under the prayerful management of Mr. C. H. Woodworth, chairman of the devotional committee, the religious life of the association has deepened. The most promising feature of the year has been the Bible study for personal workers, consisting of eight young men who have pledged themselves to Bible study and Christian work among young men.

A lecture, exceedingly instructive and timely, was given recently by Rev. Geo. E. Merrill.

The Men's Meetings have been conducted admirably and have attracted a large attendance for the year has been 48. We can report but 4 professed conversions, 3 of whom have united with churches; yet this does not begin to measure the depth of this sea of spiritual influence. Results are continually appearing in quickened spiritual lives, and fresh Christian experiences.

Two patriotic meetings held last spring were attended by more than 300 people.

The general secretary is glad to report that at no previous time have so many young men been accustomed to approach him with spiritual matters, and of recent interest them deeply, as now. This appears to be the result of varied yet non-conflicting views expressed in the men's meetings, and work of the Bible class.

SOCIAL AND EDUCATIONAL.

The average daily attendance at the rooms has been 93. The attendance this summer was just about the same. 3 entertainments, 2 receptions and 3 socials have been held with financial and social profit.

The Young Men's Congress held several interesting public debates. The average attendance at the bi-weekly meetings was 14. The young men most interested have deemed it wise to merge the congress into a system, and hold public debates monthly upon great questions of the day.

Through the kindness of the Women's Auxiliary several valuable books have been added to our small library.

PHYSICAL.

The gymnasium has been the scene of great activity, and appears to be the center of attraction to men, young and old. Business and professional men have been enrolled in one special class, and many of them are now enjoying its privileges. They now meet not only Wednesday and Saturday afternoon, but also on Monday and Thursday evenings. About 60 young men are now members of the physical department. A smaller number of students, but a larger proportion of mechanics, and business men now attend.

Contests calculated to develop men symmetrically, have benefited and interested many of the young men. Appropriate trophies were awarded to the best all-round men; thus systematic and regular exercise was stimulated.

Mr. E. C. Wyatt has ably served in the capacity of physical director, and by careful training and gentlemanly conduct, has endeared himself to all who frequent the gymnasium.

INFORMATION AND BELIEF.

More time and care have been given to this important work than in former years. Positions have been secured for 19 men. 20 have been secured for good boarding places, and 16 have been materially assisted, with food, lodging, transportation, etc. This latter work is delicate, needing rare discrimination and special attention, and does not come under the legitimate work of the association, yet as opportunity offers we help young men in need.

MEMBERSHIP.

The membership Oct. 1st was 247; 120 active, 57 associate, 70 sustaining.

Death has broken our ranks by removing from us three of our faithful members, each of whom well represented one of the three classes of men who support the association. I refer to Mr. Hiram Leonard, C. E. McGregor and S. P. Thrasher.

The chairman of our membership committee, G. C. Ewing, is now in Porto Rico, in the service of our government.

We have 33 active and associate members, besides sustaining members, who come to us from outside this part of our city.

BOYS' WORK.

While the work for boys is along lines parallel with those for men, the importance of it demands a separate report. Our greatest problems have been in this department.

Cutting out one gymnasium class at the beginning of the last year greatly reduced the membership in this department, yet the social rooms have been more frequented than in former years. The lack of finances has hindered the great progress that otherwise could have been made.

The boys wanted magazines and papers, books and games. Only a few could be obtained. While some good books were donated, a large number of them were worthless and were sent here evidently to make room for good ones at home.

The boys know a good thing when they see it, and certainly they ought to be able to find the best of everything at the Young Men's Christian Association.

The average attendance at their Sunday afternoon meetings has been 24, which is fair considering that the department is now composed largely of boys new to the association.

By keeping these boys interested they will receive a training that will make them healthy, wise and good, useful to the church, better for the home, and do this mothers and fathers must cooperate with us. It is not enough that they pay the membership fee, but they should frequently come to the rooms and show an interest in all that interests the boys.

The past year's record has been laid before you, now it is in order to acquaint you with our working plans for the new year. Under their respective headings we will mention a few:

RELIGIOUS.

By securing speakers of ability and good music, we have secured that young men may be attracted to the Sunday afternoon meetings, and as the results are always good we propose working this plan.

To secure the best results they must be definite, therefore the Bible training class will be an effective power in leading young men to Jesus Christ.

As soon as a competent Christian workman can be secured a teacher another Bible study class will be instituted. A peculiar man is needed, but God's people are peculiar.

SOCIAL AND EDUCATIONAL.

A class in penmanship under expert instruction has been started. $1.50 is charged each member of the association who enters for a term of twenty lessons. The class meets Tuesday evening, and it is not too late now to enter.

An exceptionally valuable course of lectures and concert in music, Wednesday evening, Members of the association and auxiliary are admitted free.

To others the course of six lectures and concerts will cost but $1.00. By supporting this course you will aid the cause of education and strengthen the association.

The lecture will hold its public meeting in December.

Our library is always open when good books are offered. A question drawer, where all proper questions will receive attention, will be conducted by Prof. S. E. Warren.

Informal entertainments will be held as in former years.

PHYSICAL.

The high standard of our gymnasium will be maintained. It will be a health room, rather than a play room. Mr. Wyatt has been re-engaged. The classes are well organized; needed repairs have been made; new heating system installed, and new drills and exercises introduced.

All round athletic contests with the Somerville Association, and competitive contests among our own members have begun. The idea of manliness will be emphasized.

THE WOMEN'S AUXILIARY.

has accomplished much during the past year, and no small share of your praise do they merit for their faithful and potent service. They assisted at nearly every social, reception and entertainment, supplied books for our shelves, besides raising $5.00 for association expenses.

The pastors of the Newton churches have been cordial in their relations toward the association and have given it their hearty support.

The newspapers have quite freely opened their columns for our notices, and have always given our work publicity.

The young men themselves are our best assets, and by their diligence and service have greatly helped the cause of Christ in our city. Through the association and its friends we have been able to have a young man, who has been saving books in China, while we have been saving books and souls here in Newton.

We expect great things this year from the people of Newton. Young men, you desire to do something heroic will be invited to engage in this work, which calls for denial of self and devotion to Christ and humanity.

The directors of the Newton Young Men's Christian Association thank you all sincerely for your part in making better men of our community.

As your general secretary, I desire to express my appreciation of the directors, who have contributed largely of time and money that this institution might be permanent and of value to our city.

Socials, keep this cause upon your hearts and minds and invest heavier in young men."

What do the Children Drink?

Don't give them tea or coffee. Have you tried the new food drink called GRAIN-O? It is delicious and nourishing and takes the place of coffee. The more Grain-O you give the children the more health, you distribute through their systems. Grain-O is made of pure grains, and when properly prepared tastes like the choice grades of coffee, but costs about 1-4 as much. All grocers sell it. 15c and 25c.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

BOSTON MUSEUM—There could hardly be a better Thanksgiving week attraction than "The Ragged Earl," in which Andrew Mack is appearing with such conspicuous success at the Boston Museum. Mr. Mack is a New England boy, and his rapid advancement in the profession is a matter of great pride to all New Englanders who now see him universally recognized as America's ideal Irish comedian. He has never been seen in Boston to greater advantage than the present season, for "The Ragged Earl" is just the sort of a character actor who plays the part of the young, jaunty, true-hearted nobleman at home in finery or in rags, kind-hearted and brave as a lion. All these elements of character are fine, but Mr. Mack, who is also a comedian. One of the best remembered features of the entire production is the introduction of the new songs by Mr. Mack. These are especially tuneful and are given by him with that expressiveness which has won popularity for so many pieces in the past. Rich C. Harris has given Mr. Mack an exceptionally strong supporting company, which includes B. T. Rinzold, Prince Lloyd, Edwin Brandt, W. J. Mason, James Vincent, John C. Fenton, Thomas August, Annie Ward, and Miss Florence Lovett, Minnie Monk, Georgia Florence Oip and others of equal popularity. It should be borne in mind that there will be a special "Thanksgiving day" matinee on Thursday, which will be especially appreciated by patrons from out of town.

NEWTON HOSPITAL.

THE FIVE FINELY APPOINTED BUILDINGS RECENTLY ADDED TO THE PLANT GIVEN TO TRUSTEES LAST SATURDAY.

Last Saturday afternoon the five new wards recently completed at the Newton Hospital were dedicated with appropriate exercises.

The event, which marks an important period in the life and demonstrates ever increasing usefulness of the hospital, was attended by a large number of the hospital's friends and donors, including the board of trustees, the clergy, physicians, the city government and others.

The exercises commenced at 3 o'clock with singing of the hymn, "We Give Thee but Thine Own," led by members of the choir of Grace church. Prayer by the Rev. G. W. Shinn, D. D., was followed by a duet, "Love Divine, All Love Excelling," rendered by members of the Grace church choir.

A report of the building committee, read by the chairman, D. R. Emerson, followed. The report gave the details connected with the work, also a description of the buildings, as published in last week's GRAPHIC.

Following the reading of the report, Mr. E. B. Haskell, in presenting the new wards, made an address as follows:

"It is my happy privilege, in behalf of the donors, to transmit to you the new buildings which have been added to the accommodations of the Newton Hospital during the present year. It seems but a very little while ago when a few men subscribed $500 apiece to make a beginning here. That was indeed a day of small things, when one building was erected, and was considered a very creditable foundation. As I remember, it was thought that the single building would be sufficient for some years. The rapid growth of this beneficent institution attests not alone the increase of our city in population and wealth; it also marks as surely and significantly the growth of active philanthropy in this community, a product of the best and noblest instincts of the age in which we live. It is especially interesting to observe how such a benevolent foundation in the city calls upon the people of the city to help it. It is a well defined channel for charitable action, and to note how many of these buildings have been given as memorials of the deepest human affection. How much better is such a memorial than a barren monument with little meaning and no purpose except a selfish one!

A very small proportion of the people of Newton compared with most places, have the comforts or the necessities of life. It is therefore well for all who can afford to lend a helping hand to have this hospital to give to, and it is a blessed thing that its need heating system installed, and new drills and exercises introduced.

All round athletic contests with the Somerville Association, and competitive contests among our own members have begun. The idea of manliness will be emphasized.

The directors of the Newton Young Men's Christian Association thank you all sincerely for your part in making better men of our community.

As your general secretary, I desire to express my appreciation of the directors, who have contributed largely of time and money that this institution might be permanent and of value to our city.

Feared Cancer

Scrofula Sore Discharged for Years and Would Not Heal

Hood's Sarsaparilla Effects a Prompt and Permanent Cure.

"My mother had a sore on her back just below her neck, which would not heal but kept running for three or four years. I feared it might result in a cancer. She was induced to begin taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and in a short time the sore healed and it never returned. My own use of Hood's Sarsaparilla was first for catarrh. I had this trouble very badly for years, but after taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I was entirely cured. I have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla for different purposes since then with good results."

mind run on that, though such as much as we can, we have had to do. The humanitarianism of these times is inclined to suffer and service rendered mankind, as more conducive to the highest results to ourselves as well as others. It has been noted by contemporary writers that among the more irritating events of the recent experience in war, was the failure to provide well suited food for those actively engaged in the strife, and since the war ended, hospitals in various parts of the country have been with one another in placing their resources at the disposal of national and state authorities, so that the fearful effects of cannon and rifle, of prostrating fever and insufficient nutrition may be counteracted in the quickest and most effective manner which modern science has made available. These incidents in recent history indicate the prevailing course of the thought and practical works of the present age. The honors with a liberality and thoughtfulness hitherto unexampled in Newton's experience, have placed at the disposal of this corporation appliances of the most substantial character, and have enabled the hospital to keep pace with the rapidly expanding purposes and fraternal sympathies of our day.

"Freely admitting the force of Plato's proposition that, while a human body cannot alone create desirable mental conditions, a sound mind may, and should, exercise a controlling influence over physical weakness, and discouragement, as we do, the successful use of hospital benefits, we know from daily observation the comfort and relief which are here dispensed. We can, therefore, fully appreciate the assistance which the hospital has been able to establish in this useful service.

The ancient chronicles tell us how even the brave, dauntless Knights of the Round Table, humbly accepted the solace at the bedside of a patient, and the noble Sir Tristram endured there great pain, for sickness had undertaken him, and that is the greatest pain a prisoner may have.

While a prisoner may have his health of body, he may endure, under the mercy of God, and in hope of good deliverance, but when sickness toucheth a prisoner's body, he may a prisoner say all credit is his benefit, and then his body cannot alone create desirable mental conditions, a sound mind may, and should, exercise a controlling influence over physical weakness, and discouragement, as we do, the successful use of hospital benefits, we know from daily observation the comfort and relief which are here dispensed. NEWTON SINGLE TAX CLUB.

CONFISCATION.

The regular meeting was held at 230 Bellevue street, Monday evening, with an unusually full attendance. Upon the subject of the evening three answers were read to the objection of confiscation.

The first was in brief as follows:

As single taxers we take pride in pointing out to you a natural tax fund, one half of which is sufficient to meet all public expenses, a fund flowing from an economic source as adequate, as lavish, almost, as nature itself, and we are happy to be told repeatedly that if the single tax can explain away its confiscation feature all other objections will soon take to themselves wings.

It is generously asked of us that, trusting to the enormous moral strength of our position, we should concede that in some cases, even in many cases, the single tax would amount to virtual confiscation and work hardship or injustice to a certain class of people.

I, for one, am glad to be generous for the sake of argument, but I do not like to admit a grievous error for the sake of avoiding an argument. My own experience has been that, for every one step of advance towards an understanding of the subject, this ignorant status of confiscation has receded two steps, presumptive evidence to the effect that it will as Dr. Lyman Abbott thinks probable, soon practically disappear.

This alleged injustice must be to one or both of the two classes or to no one and hereon we rest our demonstrations in order.

First: The man whose only savings are invested in vacant unimproved land.

The argument of confiscation has its amusing side. If a big shower breaks from a clear noon-day sky lots of people get wet. It thunder has been mitering all afternoon people have provided themselves with rubbers and waterproofs and umbrellas. There is no class of people more guarded in their supply and use of rubbers, waterproofs and umbrellas than are the speculators, especially the speculators in land and speculation enters little or much in nearly every transaction in land.

The single tax is sure to be preceded by thunder and by a good deal of wind. The first bolt to strike might naturally be the exemption of personal property, a measure which already finds considerable favor.

The natural effect of this first step would be that the poor owner of nothing but vacant land discerning the signs of the times, and in order that his eggs might not be all in one Atchison and Topeka basket would proceed to sell at once a part of his vacant land to some one who, as an improver, will not be prejudiced by the actual or prospective full adoption of the single tax. Another part of his vacant land he would be very likely himself to improve, thus making a current readjustment of his investments, exactly as every investor does today, to suit the fluctuations, appreciations or shrinkages in market values of securities. Meantime this man, poor, except in the ownership of the vacant lot, must be a laborer and will have his wages doubled as one of many compensations for his increasing tax. Suppose this doubled wage represented the sum of all his benefits. This would mean $300 to $600 a year representing a vacant land value of $600 to $1200. In his reduced living expenses alone he would be compensated in dollars and cents for he must eat and drink and have clothes to wear.

Second: The man whose income, large or small, is from ground rent and land which other people have improved upon lease. This man, like the first, will change his investments and not leave them all in ground rent. But, suppose he did not change them, and suppose his holdings did not increase in value, and one-half his net rent were taken in taxation, his income from his investments would not even then be reduced beyond the average reduction in the rate of interest in the past twenty-five years, which is from 8 to 4 per cent. from 6 to 3 or from 5 to 2 1/2. His compensation will be that under the new conditions one cent will go as far as two under the old.

But what is this land value which is taxed heavily in confiscation? It is not wealth. It is not property like other property. "It is nothing in the world except the value of a power conferred upon individuals to take other individuals for the privilege of standing upon the earth. It is the power of taxation. "Land" in law is nothing but a name for a title to ground rent."

History shows that land owners have steadily tried to rid themselves of all taxes and cast the whole burden upon the landless poor. "Every tariff, duty, excise tax, and indirect tax, bears witness to this. Not one dollar of our vast federal revenue is collected from rent."

One other answer was offered to this objection of confiscation taking for a fair, though extreme illustration, the land under the Hotel Touraine, corner of Tremont and Boylston streets, Boston.

The assessed value of this land was in 1872, $140,000 and in 1897, 25 years later, it was $751,000, an increase of more than five fold, an average increase of $25,000 a year or an average of $150,000 in every period of six years. Now suppose that the Single Tax law, in operation in 1872, had been the city had taken in taxation one-half the ground rent or one-half the market value of Mr. Charles Adams' bare land, and we had for the sake of argument called it "confiscation," we ask you to note how surely and literally and rapidly compensation followed upon the heels of this "confiscation."

Six years, in 1878, the untaxed half (so to speak) of this land was worth as much as was the whole in 1872, and Mr. Adams was thus compensated dollar for dollar. In 18 years, in 1890, the untaxed half was worth $300,000, and he was doubly compensated, that is, he had twice the untaxed land value which he started 18 years before. In 1897 the untaxed half was almost $400,000.

This illustration, representative of a certain class of cases, is offered to show what violation of the rights of property would have been visited upon holders of bare land by the inauguration of a system which, by the confession of the subject friendly enemies would be the best ideal if it could only be got once into operation. It makes no account of the further compensation of Mr. Adams by his entire exemption from tax upon this Boylston "Building" and from all indirect taxes whatsoever.

The real confiscation is in the present paradoxical system by which in the case of the building the owner is required, by the community, to furnish a decaying basis for his own taxation, while in the case of the land the community volunteers to furnish to the owner an ever-increasing basis for his taxation, both bases being subject meantime to the same rate of taxation.

Or, as Mr. Shearman has put it, "The real confiscation, we should say, lies in imposing a heavy tax upon a decaying building, to the preservation and improvement of which the community contributes nothing, while imposing a light tax upon the land underneath the building, which is continually increasing in value, this increase being due entirely to the benefits conferred by the community. It is a double confiscation. A large part of the value which Mr. Adams contributed at his own cost in the way of a building, was confiscated by the public, under the game of taxation for benefits pretended to be conferred, whereas, in fact, the public conferred no benefit upon the building, did not increase its value and did not make the slightest effort even to preserve it and could not have done so, if it had tried. On the other hand Mr. Adams was encouraged to confiscate from the community for his private use the rapidly increasing value of his land, the whole value of which was created by that community."

The uniform rate of taxation was laid upon two species of property, one of which was rapidly decaying and the other rapidly improving. Yet both were taxed alike.

It is true that the amount of tax was gradually reduced on the decaying property and gradually increased on the improving property. But in each case, the change in the amount of the tax only followed a long time after the change in the value of the property. The decaying property was always paying too much and the improving property was always paying too little. For, upon the average, no important change in the assessment of either building and which has brought so many nations to revolution and downfall—this is in fact so vast and momentous that one can be startled at its realization—nevertheless the deeper, more dreadful significance of the facts can only be apprehended when we view them from an ethical standpoint.

Those who feasted and those who starved in all these past centuries are gone, and after their brief day of sun or shadow, passed on to conditions as we hope, where injustice is rebuked, but the race lives on and the ethical history of the past is written upon its forehead. The wrong doers of the past are gone, but the wrong remains as a blot upon the race, and re-appears in the very fibre of a later humanity—the state is a man "writ large" and its object as Aristotle has said, "is not merely that men may live, but that they may live nobly."

Thinking of the race as a vast composite individual with capabilities of self degradation and self-abasement, as well as self-exaltation, and the better prepared to apprehend the effect of a persistent, unspeakable wrong. What would be the effect upon the individual if despite his recognition of his brother's equality of rights he persistently curtailed and ignored those rights for his own selfish emolument? We know how surely that mental attitude would debase the spiritual nature, the true man, and begot that indifference to ethical appeal, which interdicts all true advancement and spiritual realization. From this point of view the effect of evil is far more grave in the case of the wrong doer than of his victim, for the former has degraded his moral personality of the nation we must also realize the degrading effect upon the race of the practice of a flagrant and persistent injustice.

After eighteen centuries and more of Christian illumination, in what large part and to what permeating depths is this wide world dark and despairing. How discouragingly inadequate seem the forces that are arrayed against the forces of darkness. We have just had the opportunity to learn that the efficiency of an army is altogether determined by its physical condition. 1000 men on foot and armed with the best of arms, and equipped with the most perfect of weapons, and we may be no less sure that the relative weakness and inefficiency of organized Christianity is in no small degree traceable to the physical condition of the race. We have just had the opportunity to learn that the efficiency of an army is altogether determined by its physical condition. 1000 men on foot and armed with the best of arms, and equipped with the most perfect of weapons, and we may be no less sure that the relative weakness and inefficiency of organized Christianity is in no small degree traceable to the physical condition of the race. Men are wont to speak of Mr. George as an enthusiast and to smile at his glowing pictures of what the single tax would effect for humanity. The fact is that the equitable conditions and relations which his thought would realize, are so new and untried, that we can hardly estimate or conceive of the good that will result, and the most noble, most distinctive characteristic of Mr. George, viz, his enthusiasm for righteousness, his unswerving faith in the remedial and corrective effects of justice and freedom, is the most splendid and rare. Nothing, as it seems to me, would more surely quicken and stimulate our moral pulse, nothing would more surely relieve Christian endeavor of the baneful charge of ineffectuality, nothing would more immediately increase the efficiency of the church than the espousal of a cause which stands for the rights of the many against the wrongs of the few, which can see, and see clearly that the administration of justice must open the way for the ministry of love, and I do believe that the ministry of love embraces the redemption of the world.

The next meeting will be Monday evening, Nov. 28, 1898, and the subject, "What is the shortest road to an understanding of the Single Tax?"

NONANTUM.

—Mr. H. G. Tupper has been here this week visiting friends.

—Mr. Harold Greene returned Monday from a visit in Andover.

—Patrick Foran and family have removed from Chandler street to West Newton.

—Michael Driscoll, formerly of Adams street, has this week removed with his family to Brighton.

—Mr. Reuben Forknall led the Y. P. S. C. E. meeting Sunday evening at the North Evangelical church.

—Thomas Hickey has commenced the construction of a cellar and foundation for a house on Clinton street.

—Miss Annie Mahoney, who has been critically ill at her home on Watertown street, is able to be out again.

—Mr. Haskell of Cambridgeport will speak at next Sunday afternoon's meeting at the Beulah Baptist mission on Bridge street.

—Percy Robertshaw, the nine-year-old who was run over on Watertown street, Tuesday of last week, is reported as steadily improving.

—At the special meeting of the Nonantum Club, held Monday evening, the committee appointed to consider the advisability of making alterations to the clubhouse reported favorably, and carpenters will soon go ahead with the work.

—Mr. Albert Frye of Bridge street has returned from a visit in Easton.

—Among the recent additions at the Nonantum Club, secured by the committee on amusements, is a handsome billiard table, which was installed this week.

—There was an interesting service at the North Evangelical church, last Sunday evening, in the form of a harvest concert. Quite a congregation listened to the singing and recitations of the children.

—Mr. Alfred Handley of this place is conducting a number of Monday evening assemblies at Watertown. Among his patrons are several from this place.

—Beginning this week the plan of compelling all lodgers at police station 2 to perform four hours work in the California street gravel pit was put into operation with much success. The average number of lodgers has been fifteen.

—In the police court last Saturday morning, James Jones of this place, 16 years old, was sentenced to the Concord reformatory for the larceny of pigeons from C. O. Davis of Watertown street. The case was handled by J. Davis and Wm. Dolan, who are to be credited with a clever piece of detective work in rounding up Jones.

—Edward Ricker, a passenger on car 19 of the Newton & Boston street railway, fell from the platform of the car on Watertown street, near Pearl street, at about 11.50 o'clock last Saturday evening. He was rendered unconscious. Police officers removed him to station 2, where he was attended by City Physician Utley. He was later taken to his home.

A remedy for Nasal Catarrh which is drying and exciting to the diseased membrane should not be used. What is needed is that which is cleansing, soothing, protecting and healing. Such a remedy is Ely's Cream Balm. To test it a trial size for 10 cents or the large for 50 cents is mailed by Ely Brothers, 56 Warren Street, New York. Drugists keep it. The Balm when placed into the nostrils, spreads over the membrane and is absorbed. A cold in the head vanishes quickly.

The regular public meeting of the Newton Christian Endeavor Union was held last Monday evening, at the Congregational church, Abundant. The subject was Missions, and every arrangement was made to treat this vital part of Christian Endeavor work, so as to give a comprehensive view, and the result was most interesting.

At 7 o'clock the social part of the meeting began and guests were conducted to the Japanese tea drinking, after the mode, the room being arranged with cushions upon which those who received refreshments must kneel, and dainty cups, chop sticks, and waiters in native costume made it seem very real. Adjoining this place one might step into a Turkish booth and drink coffee at the hands of costumed ladies, and view with satisfaction the trappings of the place. A real Armenian lady ground coffee of finest aroma. Spain was next represented, and there guests might drink chocolate and gain an idea of the dress of that country. At 8 o'clock, the president, J. L. Roll, called the meeting to order, and after a few cordial words, and prayer by Dr. Southgate, presented Rev. G. A. Flood, field secretary of the Congregational church building society. Mr. Flood presented at once into his subject, "Missions," giving a stirring address. He made a special plea for "proportionate beneficence." Rev. W. E. Witte, M. D., district secretary of the American Baptist Missionary Union, was next introduced, and his address was one to be remembered. Among other things he said the young people to have a worthy object in life and live for it. Next an Armenian song by a lady from that country, then Rev. J. H. Pattee, D. D., missionary in Japan of the American Board, who was dressed in Japanese priest, presented the subject of the meeting from the missionary's point of view, and also gave many interesting customs of the class of people he represented.

The meeting closed with benediction.

—Next Wednesday evening a festival will be held in Associates hall, under the auspices of the Women's Sodality of the Church of the Sacred Heart. The entertainment program, now being arranged, will undoubtedly prove an attractive one, and will include a cake walk. Fancy and useful articles will be on sale.
—Monday evening at the First Congregational church an excellent concert was given which was thoroughly enjoyed by a large and enthusiastic audience. The leading artist was Master Henry Donahy, boy soprano. Miss Minnie L. Gonyon of Cottage City was also a soloist. The other feature was the singing of a quartet.
—There was a meeting of congregation members at the Baptist church, last Friday evening, at which it was voted to accept the offer of a set of chimes. The name of the donor is withheld at his request. A special committee was authorized to consider plans for the arrangement of the bells that the new bells may be properly installed.

CHRISTMAS

Is approaching, and while you are planning gifts for your friends, remember that a good portrait of yourself is always acceptable.
If you are contemplating having any photographs made, now is the time to do it, as later in the season there will be a rush, and the difficulty of getting orders filled in time.
Our specialty is portraits in platinum

—Eclipsing all similar affairs ever given under the auspices of this organization the sixth annual regatta ball of Garden City Lodge 7191, L. O. O. F. M. U., held last Friday evening in Armory Hall, attracted a large number and proved an unquestioned success. The hall decorations were handsome and elaborate. Festoons of colored bunting tastefully adorned the walls, while palms and potted plants were banked upon the platform. From 8 to 9 o'clock a concert was furnished, after which dancing was enjoyed until the small hours. True-man's orchestra supplied the music. The floor director was Mr. James Richie; his assistants were James Urquhart and John McLuski and the aids, James Hunter, H.
Urquhart, W. Walker, N. H. Matteson, F.
Reid, M. Gillis, I. B. Bishop, G. Ketter, I.
S. McElae and H. Gallagher. The reception committee comprised W. Christie, D.

—Mr. Peter McQueen, M. A., delighted an audience that well filled the Y. M. C. A.
hall, Wednesday evening, with an interesting account of his experiences as a war correspondent in the Spanish-American war. Mr. McQueen described the soldier's daily routine, his hardships and privations.
He told of the bravery of the American troops, and related many humorous and pathetic incidents of the war. A feature of the lecture were the fine stereopticon
views, many of which were entirely new to Newton people. Mr. McQueen's lecture was by far one of the best that has been given in the city on this subject.

—The next meeting of The Ministers,
Union will be held on Tuesday, Dec. 6th,

M. Kiley, J. McGuire and A. Mu ray. The reception committee included: J. Hartnett, P. A. Mulligan, J. Briston, James Cannon, Dr. O'Donnell, P. A. Murray,
George E. Stuart, M. Joyce, W. E. Mc-Donald, R. M. Lyons and T. F.

CITY GOVERNMENT.

THE BUDGET FOR FOUR HOURS MONDAY EVENING—COMMISSIONER ROSS AND HIS SALARY CAUSE NO END OF TALK—PRESENT ARRANGEMENTS LIKELY TO STAND—OTHER MINOR MATTERS LENGTHEN THE DOCKET.

Amendments, amendments to amendments, motions and substitute motions combined with an almost ceaseless flow of oratory, made Monday evening's session of the board of aldermen, by far one of the liveliest of the year. The '99 budget, that is the part relating to Commissioner Ross's salary and the special highway appropriation, was the cause.

These matters were considered in a committee of the whole, with Alderman Knowlton as chairman. That this gentleman presided was most fortunate. His ruling was clear, his understanding of parliamentary practices without a flaw. While others found it difficult to follow, Alderman Knowlton did not hesitate in his conduct of the meeting.

HEARINGS.

As soon as the board was called to order at 8.10 o'clock, hearings were opened on the orders for taking land for sewers in private land between Crescent and Douglas streets, Ward 3; Douglas street, Ward 3; Hicks street, Ward 3, and Curve street, Ward 3.

The names of those recorded in objection were Mr. E. P. Hatch, Messrs. Upperman, Riley, E. E. Carlisle, J. B. Healy and Mrs. Susan Rollins. Mr. J. J. Weeks was in favor. After brief remarks by the remonstrants the hearing closed.

Hearings were also opened, but as no one appeared, immediately closed on the orders for laying out Edinboro street, Ward 2; Bristol road, Ward 3, and construction of concrete sidewalk on Putnam street, Ward 3.

PETITIONS.

These petitions were received and acted upon as follows: Of Martin Quinn and others for street light on Pearl street, referred to street light committee; of A. R. Bridgman for abatement of nuisance caused by keeping of noisy animals at Norumbega Park, referred to license committee; for 1 street light on Pearl street, referred to street light committee; of O. J. Hall and others for 1 street light on Newbury street, referred to street light committee; of Frank Clement for concrete sidewalk on Jackson road, referred to highway committee; of Commonwealth avenue street railway, with request for amendment to that portion of their franchise governing free transfers; hearing on this ordered for Dec. 5th; of Newton & Boston street railway for track location at Newton Centre; hearing ordered for Dec. 5th; of George Stone and others for concrete crossing on Boylston street, referred to highway committee; of George Johnson and others for renewal of street musician license; of W. H. Marston for additional pool table at Newtonville, license committee.

COMMITTEE REPORTS.

The public property committee reported on the Bigelow school matter. The committee had conferred with a sub-committee of the school board and made known the two-building proposition as presented last week. The sub-committee declined to take action without consultation with the entire board. The public property committee could therefore report only progress. This report was accepted.

The highway committee reported recommending laying out of Pine Ridge road. The journal committee reported recommending the approval of the records of the meeting of Nov. 14.

The street light committee reported recommending granting attachments on Washington and Grasmere streets, Ward 7, to N. & W. Gas Light Co.; recommending granting pole location on Willard street, Ward 7, to N. & W. Gas Light Co.; recommending granting leave to withdraw on petition for street light, rear of Dennison block, Ward 2; recommending street lights on Beecher place, Ward 6; Albany avenue, Ward 6; Homer street, Ward 6; Lincoln court, Ward 2; Wachusett and Monadnock roads, Ward 6.

ORDERS.

These orders were adopted: Laying out etc. of Alden street, Ward 6; laying out etc. of Bristol road, Ward 3; construction of concrete sidewalk on Putnam street, Ward 3; authorizing sewer construction in private land between Crescent and Douglas streets, Ward 3; Douglas street, Ward 3; Hicks street, Ward 3; Curve street, Ward 3; granting attachments on Washington and Grasmere streets, Ward 7, to N. & W. Gas Light Co.; granting pole location on Willard street, Ward 7, to N. & W. Gas Light Co.; Albany avenue, Ward 6; Beecher place, Ward 6; Homer street, Ward 6; Wachusett and Monadnock roads, Ward 6; Lincoln court, Ward 2; establishing rate of interest on unpaid taxes of 1898; adopting estimate of receipts for 1899; for municipal election, Dec. 13, 1898.

THE 1899 BUDGET.

Precisely what was the parliamentary status of the budget was hardly clear when the matter came up under the head of unfinished business. The memory of some members differed on this point, and it was found necessary to refer to the records. Suggestions and motions as to the proper form of taking up the subject caused some delay. Another view presented was that of Alderman Whittlesey, who suggested that the members who desired to file charter objections, file them at this time, and not at the time of the meeting.

The original question, which was soon buried under a heap of amendments, was that the budget be accepted without the items of street commissioner's salary, special highway appropriation, increase of salaries in the police department, and increase of salaries in the fire department.

Alderman Knowlton moved that the board go into executive session. This was ruled out of order by President White. It was suggested that such a point might be gained by the board resolving itself into a committee of the whole. This was done, and the vote for an executive session passed with 12 yeas.

Alderman Briston—I move the reporters be allowed to remain.

A vote to this effect was unanimously carried.

Alderman Nagle—I move the public be allowed to remain. If the press is here the public is.

His motion was carried.

In reply to Alderman Ivy's request Alderman Knowlton then took the presiding officer's chair. The chairman of the finance committee stated the position of his committee on the question of Commissioner Ross's salary. He gave a brief history of the committee's consideration of the matter, and said in his opinion it would be wise to continue this arrangement.

Alderman Ivy spoke in reference to the street commissioner's salary. He expressed himself as opposed to the present arrangement and moved, as he said, in order to test the sentiment of the board, that the salary of the commissioner be stricken out. No amount need be inserted. This would test the question.

Alderman Nagle asked what the Ward 1 alderman intended to do with it?

Alderman Ivy—I had understood from every member of the board that they desired to understand the matter, and agreed that the present arrangement with Commissioner Ross was not sound public policy. I have listened all along for some valid reason why this arrangement should be continued. It is unjust to every other head of a department. It is no more right to make this exception with Commissioner Ross than any other head of a department. It is a question of the street commissioner's salary, and it is not in justice to them. The head of the board of a department should give his entire time. Unless you consider the time of this man of preeminent exceptional value, and for his serviceable ability retain him, it is not in justice to them. The head of the board of a department is responsible for the disbursement of the city's money. His knowledge is more extended. There is the greatest amount of disbursement in the disbursements of this department. If there is one department in the city that requires the time and attention of one man it is this.

Alderman Ivy then showed by statistics how much in excess Newton paid for street construction and repairs a year, compared with other cities. Newton's amount was $1850 while Fitchburg paid $360, Salem $800, Chelsea $1074, Lowell $1074, Somerville $1588, Medford $1395 and Worcester $1855. In these amounts is included permanent construction not found in Newton's $1850.

We have good streets, but there is such a thing as having too much of a good thing. The amount can be seen to be extremely luxurious. I do not propose to criticize on the salary of a man's friends offer him official life, saying it should be in his favor, when the board shelters itself behind the conduct of a head of a department, as a reason for acting as it has, then the official becomes a matter of public discussion.

Mr. Ross is a devoted husband, a kind father and an upright man. In February there was under consideration by the board an ordinance amendment regarding the removal of the snow from the sidewalks, of all parts of the city. Among the arguments used against this, and it was defeated, was that communication to the mayor, in which he said the cost of a storm such as we have just experienced, (meaning the great February storm), would cost $10,000. At a matter of fact it cost the three divisions just $3,000. It seems to me that this man of preeminent exceptional ability should come within 50 per cent.

Mr. Ivy then spoke of three claims before the committee of claims, two of which had been settled. In the other no amount was required. These were the result of bad condition of the highway. I don't say Mr. Ross was responsible, but some one was. If he is the head of the department he is to be held, whether he is or is not responsible.

The Ward 1 alderman then referred to Boston street, which he said had been resurfaced, and soon after this operation had been completed a sewer was laid. Such miscalculations were some one's fault. Some one should know of these things, and they should be the street commissioner's.

Alderman Lowell was of the opinion that the care of Newton's streets required the full time of the commissioner.

Alderman Whittlesey expressed himself as willing to vote as a test of the sentiment. He quoted the charter on the point of the board's right to make contracts and fix salaries.

Alderman Lothrop followed. In his remarks he spoke of the highway committee's report. The majority favored Mr. Ross giving his entire time.

Alderman White said, when the highway committee had conferred with the majority in the summer, when the matter was brought up, it was understood that Mr. Ross should give his entire time. When they left the mayor's house after the meeting, Mr. Ross told him that he had changed his mind. Three-fourths of the committee at any rate favored Mr. Ross giving his entire time.

Alderman Dana—I seem to me the main question is how can this matter be settled, and the best interests of the city served. It is an honor to the city of Newton. There seems to be no complaint. No substantial criticism has been mentioned were of a trivial character. They are very little out of the great amount of work that has to be performed. Comparison of our street with that of other cities is of too general a character. Dana continued eulogizing Mr. Ross, and urging that the matter be left as it is.

Alderman Nagle's motion that a committee be appointed to confer with Mr. Ross was lost.

Alderman Whittlesey moved that Mr. Ross be called upon. The commissioner came before the board. He had much preferred to be excused, he said, but was willing to trust himself with the board. He had supposed the arrangement was satisfactory, but if there was something to be considered he would rather have more time.

Alderman Nagle wanted the matter laid on the table.

Alderman Van Tassel was emphatic in his criticism of this unbusinesslike way of carrying on affairs. He did not approve of carrying and filling. The city should decide what it meant to do, and settle the question definitely.

Alderman Nagle's motion to lay the matter on the table was lost.

An amendment placing the salary of the street commissioner at $3200 was moved. This brought out further discussion, and Alderman Nagle called upon the mayor.

Mayor Cobb said he heartily appreciated this opportunity to correct himself before the board, and he would like to see the history of the famous highway committee meeting, when the matter was first brought forward, saying in part: "The committee met at my house, and after full consideration, voted that the city should have Mr. Ross' full time. But, I said, suppose Mr. Ross accepts the governor's appointment, would it be your opinion that I make some mistake with Mr. Ross? The gentleman there said, 'you had better make that arrangement than to get anybody else.' Therefore I felt abundantly able and authorized to do so."

The mayor then took this opportunity to speak of the figures presented by Alderman Ivy, which he said were false and a reflection on his administration. He showed the figures as they had been presented by Ward 1 alderman, and proved that if properly put should show that less than $900 would be paid rather than $1850.

Alderman White and Lothrop failed to agree with the mayor on the resolution of the meeting at his house. They understood it to be the consensus of opinion that a man should give his whole time.

Alderman Chesley gave his opinion that the whole time of the street commissioner was necessary. He spoke highly of Mr. Ross, and hoped that that gentleman would remain.

A vote followed, and an attempt to make the salary $3200, and strike out the clause under arrangement with the present incumbent, was lost by a tie vote.

Alderman Dana said he understood Mr. Ross would take a salary of $3750. This called down a storm of wrath on Mr. Ross' head from several aldermen, before Alderman Dana could say that Mr. Ross did not say so. It was simply a possibility that had been suggested.

An amendment to the amendment that the matter be referred to the highway committee, made by Alderman Ivy, was lost.

Another amendment that $3200 be appropriated for the street commissioner's salary was also lost by a tie vote. The matter of the street commissioner's salary now stands practically as under the present arrangement, and this settlement up-to-date, is an unquestioned victory for the mayor and Mr. Ross.

Alderman Ivy thought action on the special street appropriations should be laid over to be acted upon by the next city government. Alderman Knowlton agreed with this position.

A motion to reduce the special highway appropriation to $20,000 was lost. Another motion to strike out all the special highway way appropriations was also lost by a vote of 15 to 5. The item of $3,170 was then approved by the board.

Alderman Ivy moved that the salary of the city physician be increased to $1,500 per annum, the salary of the agent of the board of health to $1,500. If other salaries were to be raised these should be increased also.

The increase to the pay of 5 year men to the police department was next taken up. Alderman Lothrop wished to be placed on record as opposed to the raising any salaries. He thought such action would be a step backward for a board which had practically economy all the year.

Alderman Lyman thought the action of the board in amending the recommendations of the finance committee was a reflection on that committee. There was no reason in increasing the salaries of firemen and policemen simply because they had served 5 years. Such increases had been voted by the board through ignorance, and was a wrongful waste of the city's money.

Alderman Whittlesey favored dealing justly by the police department. With the graded pay better men would be brought into the department. Experienced and competent patrolmen were more valuable to the city than new and inferior men, and such men could only be secured by offering inducements for good service.

Alderman Dana felt that he was in duty bound to vote for this increase in view of the previous action of the board on the petition of the patrolmen. He believed that the salary should be $1,500.

Alderman Ivy thought that the small tax payers were not being represented. They were the ones, who had hard earned money, and who had to pay increased salaries to police department. Other cities of the state were not paying larger salaries to police officers than Newton. Such an increase would be a gross injustice to the tax payers.

Alderman Whittlesey defended the increase, and answered Alderman Ivy's statements. President White stated that the finance committee in this matter.

Alderman Nagle answered Alderman Ivy by stating that the police of Brookline and Waltham received $3 per day. The matter of the police of Newton was referred to the police committee, and then recommended.

Alderman Briston expressed surprise at the strong opinion of the alderman from Ward 4. No such manifestation had been made at the first of the year. He believed that the pay of police officers should be increased, but that it should be paid in cash, and should be fairly compensated.

The increase was voted: Yeas, Aldermen Briston, Dana, Hobart, Hunt, Lowell, White, Whittlesey, Shattuck, Fassel, Fournell, Alderman White, Knowlton, Niles, Chesley, Alvord, Hadlock, Ivy, Lothrop and Lyman.

The board then voted to increase the salary of the 5 year drivers in the fire department to $3. A motion to increase the salary of the city physician was made by Alderman Ivy, and lost. Alderman Lyman moved that the salary of the inspector of building be increased to $1,200. This motion was lost by a vote of 12 to 8.

Alderman Ivy's motion to increase the salary of the agent of the board of health to $1,500 was also lost.

At this point Alderman Whittlesey moved that the salary of the street commissioner be made $3,500, and that the words "under present arrangement" be stricken out. This motion was lost, and Mr. Whittlesey stated that he should vote no in the hope that the order would fail of two-thirds majority. The point was raised that a two-thirds majority was not required.

Alderman Whittlesey interposed his charter objection expressing the hope that four others would join him. Alderman White, Lothrop, Ivy, Hadlock, Lyman and Alderman Dana joined in the objection, and the under order went for a week.

The order was passed providing for the city election to be held Dec. 13.

Contract Labor in Newton.

Nonantum, Mass., 11, 21, '98. To the Editor of the Graphic:—

Newton is noted for the numerous public improvements which have been completed within her borders during the past few years. Her parks, her boulevards, her well-kept streets add immensely to the City's beautiful aspect. And in determining to whom we are indebted for these comforts we are apt to give no consideration whatever to the men who actually perform the work, who toil from early morning until late at night, through winter's cold and summer's heat, suffering all the discomforts of outdoor labor; I refer to the over-worked, ill-paid city employee.

At the present time in this city three-quarters of the public work is being done and paid for by a contract system, by which the contractor is allowed, and even prefers, to employ non-citizens and non-residents. Certainly this fact in itself is a reflection on the city government, and citizens who need employment, but the outrage does not end here. Said contractor can employ these non-citizens and non-residents at any wages which he feels entitled to pay, and you may be sure the sum is never a munificent one.

We have seen during the past few years hundreds of strong, able-bodied men laboring in the city's interest for $1, or less a day, and still a few months ago we were informed that Newton paid her laborers far better than the majority of her sister cities. Well, this is a sample of the manner in which our city government is run in City Hall. I do not blame those people who request a change.

Now, who are we to ensure for this contract system? Is it the men whose weekly wages are insufficient to enable them to even obtain the comforts of human habitation? No. Is it the contractors whose pockets are filled with the rightful earnings of his men? Certainly not. Then who are we to blame? Those officials at City Hall under whose guidance this contract system flourishes, who year after year totally ignore the laboring men of Newton. It is an outrageous, unjust and wicked scheme and this year should put an end to it. City employees are not asked for charity. They ask for no privileges, but they will keep hammering for their rights until the same are forthcoming.

On next election day, then, let the people stand shoulder to shoulder and put the office who will advocate the abolishment of this iniquitous contract system, who will be willing to utter their protest against the employment of non-citizens and non-resident labor when citizens can be had, and who will fight to the best of their ability for a standard wage of $2 per day.

Yours truly,

JOHN O'CONNELL.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

BOSTON MUSEUM—"Because She Loved Him So," is the title of William Gillette's latest work for the stage, and it will be presented at the Boston Museum, Monday evening next, with an extraordinary cast of well established favorites. It will furthermore be Charles Frohman's annual Boston Museum production, and it is promised that nothing will be spared to make the engagement a success from every possible artistic standpoint, worthy of both manager and playwright. "Because She Loved Him So" will prove to be neither a romantic drama nor a pastoral comedy. Mr. Gillette has seized upon a fruitful theme as his subject, and has furnished a beautiful, an unreasoning, headstrong, wayward and tempestuous woman, so completely possessed by the demon of jealousy, that her life becomes nearly a record of those "damned minutes" which serve to make up the sum of existence of one "who does, doubts, suspects, yet strongly loves." Here is matter enough, and more than enough, for a thrilling tragedy. It is the comic aspect of his theme which has attracted Mr. Gillette, and which, it will no doubt be admitted, he has treated with gentle skill and humor. That it will be played in an excellent manner may be judged from these names in the cast, containing some of the best actors in Mr. Frohman's employ: J. E. Dobson and Ida Conquest, of the Empire Theatre Company, Edwin Arden, Arnold Daly, William Smith, W. J. Constantine, Charles Eldridge, Roy Fairchild, Kate Meek, Leonora Braham, of Charles Frohman's Duke of York's Theatre, London, Margaret Felding, Margaret Mayo, Edith Skerrett, Bijou Fernandez and Helen Gail.

TREMONT THEATRE—An unusually interesting revival of one of last season's greatest successes at the Tremont Theatre is attracting the attention of Boston playgoers. Beginning on Monday evening, 28th inst., that most charming of musical comedies, "The Geisha: a Story of a Tea House," will be presented at six o'clock and two matinees. The production is identical with that given at Daly's Theatre in New York, while the cast, which has been recently secured here with the utmost favor, has been most carefully selected.

The unprecedented success of this dainty Japanese work (it has a record of 800 nights in London and 300 nights in New York) places it at the head of all pieces of its kind in point of popularity. Following "The Geisha" at the Tremont, on Dec. 5, will come "A Miserable Marriage," a new play, by Mr. A. D. Souther, whose plays, "My Friend from India" and "The Man from Mexico," have brought him into much prominence. The piece is of a similar character to its predecessors, and is exceedingly humorous, with the same time clean, wholesome and refined. Its plot is based on an absurd mistake by which a young man marries his prospective mother-in-law instead of his daughter, and his ease to see what a world of fun can be evolved from such a situation. It is acted by Smyth and Rice's comedians, an organization specially selected for its production, and its members among the most well known players. The engagement is for one week only.

Death of John C. Lane.

John Chapin Lane, a member of the firm of Morse & Lane, and interested in Newton street railways and other enterprises, died at his home at Norwood, Sunday, after a brief illness.

He was the eldest son of the late Hon. Johnathan A. Lane, and was born in October, 1852. He was a graduate of the Boston Latin School and graduated in high standing at Harvard College in the class of '75, and later from the Boston University Law School, in the interim having studied in the office of George W. Morse of Newtonville. Soon after his graduation, the firm of Morse, Loomis & Lane was organized, consisting of George W. Morse, Elihu G. Loomis and John C. Lane, and later, the firm of Morse & Lane, which still continues.

Mr. Lane, with these associates, has been engaged in important work, both public and private. He was engaged in the numerous railway negotiations of N. C. Munson, of the Boston, Hartford and Erie, the Toledo, Cincinnati & St. Louis and San Pedro railways; also the Shaw leather failures of 1883, and other great failures in the history of the roadways in New England, and re-organization of the railway systems of the principal cities of Georgia and Tennessee, as special counsel for the electrical companies constructing the same; the organization of the railways in Newton, Watertown, and many other important enterprises in Massachusetts, and in the South and elsewhere, were among his fields of work as a lawyer.

Mr. Lane was also intimately known in politics, having espoused the cause of Mr. Cleveland in 1884, abandoning the Republican party with manly independence of opinion. He has ever since continued to serve actively in the Democratic ranks and was the manager of the campaign of the Gold Democrats in Massachusetts in 1896, although a delegate to the Chicago Convention which nominated Mr. Bryan.

Mr. Lane never sought office, but took upon himself—as his father so frequently did—a large amount of work for the public character purely for the public good, and may be truly said of him that he unselfishly sought to do all the good that he could to his fellow men, both in public and private life. He was disinterested, unselfish, and strictly commercial lawyer, he stood among the first, although not noted as an advocate, and his firm had built up a large commercial practice.

Mr. Lane was also prominent in church circles, having been for years a member of the Union Congregational church in Boston, that pulpit being at present occupied by his most intimate friend and cousin, Samuel Lane Loomis.

In 1883 Mr. Lane married Miss Harriet M. Winslow, the daughter of George S. Winslow of Newton, where he has since lived, taking a very active part in the town affairs. He was the local Justice and counsel for the town in many of its matters, and was also very helpful in the cause of the poor.

He sprung from the oldest Puritan stock in America. The Lanes and Pages settled in Bedford early in the 17th century. The Lanes were first married through the generations, and he is of both lines. The soldiers' graves of the Lanes and Pages of colonial and revolutionary fame, constitute three-fourths of those at the old cemetery at Bedford, and nearly all were officers—Colonel John Lane being the first colonial officer commissioned by the Crown in the Colony of Massachusetts Bay. Mr. Lane's great grandfather, Nathaniel Page, of Bedford, was the standard bearer of the Bedford company at Lexington and Concord on the 19th of April, 1775, and the flag which he bore was a family heirloom, which has been brought from England, and is now among the archives of Bedford.

Mr. Lane inherited, through a long line of ancestors, a tendency to dyspepsia and public service, and it will be long before his place will be supplied in the benevolent, social and business circles with which he was connected. He had no children, but left a wife, and many nephews and nieces. He was a staunch and affectionate friend, and a large circle will mourn his loss.

"Oh Promise Me!"
At some time in her life, Cupid pleads in every woman's ear, and when that time comes it is a woman's duty to think twice before she answers. She should think once for herself, and once for the man who has chosen her for his life companion.

If she is suffering from a torturing, dragging weakness or disease so prevalent with her sex, she has no right to answer "Yes" until her health is restored. If she does, she will be wretched and ill herself and her home will be an unhappy one. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a scientific remedy that cures all weakness, disease, disorder and derangement of the delicate and important feminine organs. It is not a "cure-all," but a medicine devised to correct this one class of disorders and no other. It has accomplished its purpose in tens of thousands of cases, as is shown by tens of thousands of testimonials of the grateful patients themselves. It imparts vigor and vitality to the entire womanly organism, and is the best of all nerve tonics and restoratives. It fits for wifehood and motherhood. It transforms weak, nervous, despondent invalids into healthy, happy women.

"I was so weak I could scarcely walk about the house," writes Mrs. M. J. Scruggs, of Allen's Creek, Amherst Co., Va. "I was reduced to a mere skeleton. I was never free from pain in the back and head and could not sleep at night. I bought three bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery' and two boxes of 'Pleasant Pellets.' After taking these six weeks I felt like a new person; slept well and gained in flesh. I am doing all my own housework and we have nine in the family."

A man or woman who neglects constipation suffers from slow poisoning. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. All medicine dealers sell them. No other pills are "just as good."

THE MISSING PRINCE.

By Major ARTHUR GRIFFITHS.

[Copyright, 1898, by the Author.]

rather—took me into an Arab caravan-sary on the outskirts near where the road comes in from Touggourt and El Wayla, the farthest confines of the French territory.

It was of the same character as those I had seen in the far east, a great square inclosure, the center filled with refuse and garbage, among which stood the camels, horses and other animals, while on the four sides were low doors opening upon the travelers' rooms.

A little on one side was a new arrival—one of those old fashioned hooded vans seldom seen out of France and only there in out of the way districts remote from railways and large towns. They are used by quack doctors, cheap jacks, wandering photographers and the like. The proprietors of this van seemed to combine all these callings with that of horse dealer, for a number of promising colts stood around tethered by their fetlocks, and an old man in blue blouse and sabots was giving them water. Suddenly I saw him look toward the back of the van, give a low, shrill whistle, and whisper:

"Gars! La patronne. Et patiti—et patiti!"

Following the direction of his signal I saw two young people flying apart with a haste that showed they were doing wrong. It was the old story. Love was not running smoothly, and the chief obstacle was no doubt this stalwart female in the man's red berretta who had just entered the caravan-sary.

I drew near, amused as I saw the youth snatch up a water bucket, the girl hurriedly resume her task of shred-

"I love her to distraction," ding cabbages in the pot-a-fen, while the woman—mistress or mother, probably both—called one an idle vagabond and the other a shameless minx.

Then I caught the lad's face and was held instantly spellbound.

It was undoubtedly Prince Stanislas de Medea.

For all his ragged, dusty clothes, his ill kept locks and grimy face, I recognized him beyond all question as the original of the photograph I now held in my hands.

"Surely it is time, prince," I said, accosting him at once in English, "time that this masquerade should end. I come from your father. He fears that you are dead. He almost wishes it, for by some mad folly you have nearly brought an indelible stain upon an ancient name."

He had meant, I saw clearly, to deny his identity, but as I went on his eyes filled with tears, and he stammered out: "I do not understand. I have done nothing very wrong. I love her to distraction."

Then I led him straight out of the inclosure and, much to the surprise of all who met us thus arm in arm, took the princely stable boy to my hotel and heard all he had to tell.

There was nothing very new in his story. He had been wandering up from the coast incognito, meaning to seek adventure in the farthest limits, when he had fallen in with these vagabond traders and had been attracted by the pretty Yvette, who had laughed him to scorn, then dragged him at her apron strings, a hopeless and lovesick youth, prepared to play any part, accept any rough and ignoble work, only to be near her and press his still unrequited suit.

Della Croce must have seen him when passing through Biskra. Prince Stanislas remembered the man, had met him one day in the bazaar and had some difficulty in shaking him off.

Out of this the whole plot had grown. It originated no doubt with Della Croce, but it must have been aided and developed by the notary's clerk.

But my task was not quite ended yet. I had extreme difficulty in weaning Prince Stanislas from his innamorata. He refused at first point blank to leave the van. It was not until I took these good folk—true Bohemians, yet in their way honorable, fair dealing Biscayans—into my confidence that I succeeded in getting him away.

The mother, with her strong, harsh voice, clinched the matter at once.

"He could not marry her. That would not be suitable. Anything else—merci, monsieur; trop d'honneur."

I believe Yvette eventually married a founier (pay sergeant) in the zouaves and was handsomely dowered by Prince Casimir.

As for Prince Stanislas, he went down like a lamb to Algiers, where I left him to bear witness against the rogues who had tried to ruin him, and I returned home.

THE END.

THE SMOKING LAMP.

A Time Honored Institution of the British and American Navies.

One of the time honored institutions of the American and British navies is the smoking lamp. Without the smoking lamp the modern sailorman would be like a fish out of water. He would mutiny. A failure by the galley cook to light the smoking lamp without the loss of a second's time after the word has been given arouses Jack's temper, and whatever limited stock of inventives he is possessed of is made public with promptitude and emphasis.

To landmen the mention of a smoking lamp has no more significance than a mention of the Jack-of-the-Dust. But both are a necessary part of the equipment of any warship, be she first rate or fourth rate. Upon the smoking lamp the crew, including that mysterious adjunct of the paymaster's department, Jack-of-the-Dust, depend for a light for their pipes. Jack-of-the-Dust dives down into the depths of the hold and brings up the navy plug, which, being cut into bits and crumbled between the hands, is put into a pipe and fired at the smoking lamp.

The need for the smoking lamp arises from the necessity of guarding the ship to the utmost from danger of fire. Precautions which seem ridiculous and unnecessary to a landsman have been found by sad experience to be absolutely necessary on board a ship of war. The naval regulations provide severe punishment for any seaman caught with matches on his person. Could it have been proved by the Spanish board of inquiry that the sailors of the Maine had been guilty of carrying matches about with them they would have been justified by naval experts the world over in declaring that the destruction of the Maine was due to the carelessness and lack of discipline on board.

Such was not the case, however. No sailor on the Maine carried matches. He lit his pipe at the smoking lamp, and he only smoked during those times that the smoking lamp was lit. He never dared to go below decks with a lighted pipe. If he had, Jimmy Legs would have had him at the stick, and the executive officer would have deprived him of shore leave for a month at least.

The smoking lamp is constructed upon the same lines as a lantern, but the globe is made of sheet iron instead of glass. In the side there is a small round hole through which Jack may stick his pipe in order to catch the flame. It is the duty of the ship's cook or one of his assistants to light the lamp when the word is given by the proper officer, who is generally the chief boatswain's mate. He in turn gets his orders from the officer of the deck.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

When Leap Years End.

In 1582, in the arrangement of the Julian calendar, ten days were dropped so as to get things running on the then new but the present basis of calculating time. So as to keep things running right it was determined that a year ending a century should not be bisextile, except every fourth century. Thus there was no leap year in 1700, 1800 or 1900. It is, or at least was, rather rough on the ladies, who have special advantages in leap year. The ladies get left again in 1900; but, though there will not be many of those who see 1900 who will see 3000, the latter year ending a fourth century, will be a leap year. In this way three days are retrenched in four centuries, and the remaining seven days will be made up in a little over 800 years. After that calendar years will be like solar years, and future errors in the calculation of time will occur no more.

The loss of leap year will in thousands of years affect the seasons, but I suppose the mathematicians of the centuries hence will be so busy in handling figures and making calculations that they will have no difficulty in keeping things going correctly.—Washington Star.

Under No Obligations.

"Shave yourself, sir, don't you?" said a barber who was trimming the hair of a customer.

"Yes," replied the customer. "How did you know?"
"Well," rejoined the barber, "I know I have never shaved you, and I do sometimes trim your hair. Besides that I think a barber would do a little better job than you seem to do."
"Very likely."

"We'd have pretty hard work making a living if every man was like you," pursued the barber after clipping and snipping a few moments in silence.

"Perhaps."
"You're in business, ain't you?"
"Yes."
"Well, s'pose no barbers ever bought anything of you, how would you like that?"

"I don't think it would make much difference," rejoined the customer. "My business is selling pipe organs."
And the barber finished the job in silence.—Youth's Companion.

An Interrupted Flirtation.

A nearsighted, bashful youth, whose father is a well known commission merchant in Cincinnati, while walking along Fourth street dimly discerned a young lady across the street whose face he could not distinguish, but whose figure was so striking that for a moment his bashfulness vanished. He determined to indulge in a mild flirtation. With mincing step he followed, and when nearly up to her, fortunately for his plans, she dropped her parasol. In a jiffy he picked it up and, raising his hat, was about to present it with a stammering speech, when the young lady exclaimed:

"Why, George, is that you?"
"Yes, Susie. Won't you have some soda?"

She accepted, and this was the first time in many a day George had shown himself so gallant to his sister.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Penny For a Priceless Book.

A workman purchased for a penny an aged looking volume bearing date of 1540. The man tried to read it, but threw up the attempt apparently in disgust, and the volume was relegated to the cupboard. A friend of his happened to see the book and took it to the British Museum authorities, who promptly made an offer of £90, the highest sum the librarian is allowed to expend without a special vote of the trustees. Had the man known what he was about he would have stood out for more, as the authorities would have paid almost any price rather than allow the volume to slip through their fingers. It was, in fact, the first book printed by Gutenberg and was therefore almost priceless.—London Tit-Bits.

dent that the citizens generally proposed
to take a hand in municipal nominations.
No one candidate had a sure majority of delegates, as most of them are uninstructed, but the votes are divided between ex-Mayor Bothfeld, ex-Alderman E. B.
Wilson of West Newton, and Alderman
Thomas White.

It now looks as though Mr. Bothfeld had a clear majority in the convention, after the usual complimentary votes for other candidates are given, as he has friends on about every ward delegation. Mr. White does not seriously consider himself as a candidate, it is said, and Mr. Wilson has been defeated so many times that it would hardly be good policy to nominate him, as his chances of election would be more than doubtful.

The city needs at this time, more than anything else, an economical administration, where all city expenses would be cut down to a business basis, and all extrava-gancies cut off. For this reason it would not be wise to take a candidate from the region about City Hall, who is more or less identified with the influences there that work against economy, and this was the objection urged against Mr. Wilson when he was a candidate at a former period.

Mr. Bothfeld, on the other hand, is not handicapped by any such influences, and his record in the city government was always marked by considerations for economy, and keeping city expenses down to the lowest limit, consistent with a proper regard for the interests of the city.
He pushed through the long talked of Washington street widening, but he is on record as having urged upon his fellow members the necessity of economy in all directions, if such necessary and expensive improvements were to be made, and his election now would mean a reduction of the tax-rate next year. He knows city business thoroughly, and so could know what expenses were necessary and where money could be saved, without any harm
to public interests. We have been spending money at such an extravagant rate,
that it is high time now to introduce a different policy.

MR. GARDINER'S LETTER.

We give elsewhere an explanation from
Mr. Gardiner, in regard to his connection with the "non-partisan" movement, which we are very glad to publish, as it gives Mr.
Gardiner an opportunity to put himself right with Newton people, and to set at rest the numerous rumors that were in circulation. When Mr. Gardiner retired from the ward and city committee, his fellow members, out of gratitude for his services in behalf of the party, elected him
an honorary member, and he has only been connected with it since in an advisory capacity. It is no secret that his advice is often sought, especially as his wide acquaintance with prominent men in the state
gives him great influence when important matters come up, such as post office locations, for instance. But that is not at all to his discredit, but rather the reverse, although it has given him the reputation of being one of the leading, if not the leading Republican in the city, and he is therefore credited with much that he probably never heard of, as will be inferred from his letter.

Personally Mr. Gardiner is a man of the highest character, as all who know him will gladly concede, nor have his personal motives ever been questioned, except that he has been such a thorough believer in Republican principles that he has aroused
autogonism among those of opposite faith,
or those who do not take their politics as seriously as he has done.

As to the "non-partisan" movement we are quite ready to concede that it did not turn out as those who conceived it intended. It was really intended to be what its name implied, but unfortunately it took another direction, others beside the signers to the call took a hand in it, and it seemed simply a movement to head off the nomination of Mr. Bothfeld. That was the impression received by the friends of that gentleman who attended. A strenuous effort was made to find some other candidate, and when the second candidate was selected at the second meeting, and most of those present refused to pledge themselves
to support him, the whole thing fell through and became ridiculous. The signers to the call could hardly escape responsibility for what was done unless they had publicly withdrawn, which would have been a wise course to have taken, as the thing turned out.

The GRAPHIC has always held that the politics of any candidate for city office had nothing to do with the case and never

ought to be brought into the discussion, and so we have generally supported the Citizen's party candidate, while Mr. Gardiner has, as far as we have known, been a very active supporter of the straight party nominations in city elections. We are glad that he now has come to the conviction that a candidate's politics are not material
when a city office is concerned. The Republican party has at times made non-partisan nominations, and these were some of the best it has ever made, but it has often refused to make them, from the claim that the party organization must be kept up, as if the state election was not enough
for that kind of discipline.

OUR CAUCUS LAWS.

The curiosities of our caucus laws was illustrated at the meeting, Wednesday night in G. A. R. hall. It was desired to revive the old and powerful Citizen's party,
and a mass caucus was called which brought out a very large number of citizens from all parts of Newton.

But it was discovered that the holding of such a caucus was illegal, as the Citizen's party has lost its organization. Evidently the law was framed to prevent any such popular movements of the people, and to protect the regular party organizations from any rivals. If the object was to make it as difficult as possible for the people to carry out their wishes in regard to nominations, then the laws are admirably adapted for such a purpose, and the political managers who drew them up succeeded in their purpose.

We are blessed in Massachusetts with annual sessions of the legislature, and every year a great mass of crude and ill-digested laws are ground out. No ordinary man can keep track of these. It would take several lawyers to keep track of all
the intricacies of our involved caucus laws.
The great need of the time is a return to the old time simplicity of other days, and to have legislatures for the next few years refrain from passing new laws, and devote themselves to repealing and simplifying the great mass of laws we already have.

The only remedy in the present crisis is nomination papers, and we should be thankful that our rulers have left us that.
The old town caucus was the ideal way of choosing local officers, but cities have apparently lost that, and have to fall back on the clumsy method of circulating a nomination paper for signatures.

THERE seems to be a question of veracity between Mayor Cobb and President White of the board of aldermen, in regard to the salary of the street commissioner, although President White does not seem to be absolutely sure in making his denial. People acquainted with both men would assume that Mayor Cobb was more apt to be correct in his statements, as that is his habit in treating of matters of fact, while facts do not make so vivid an impression upon President White's memory, as is natural with men who take a humorous view of most questions that come up. The latter might easily be mistaken in recalling the events
of a meeting several months in the past, especially one in which he had but little responsibility, while from the nature of the case the event would make a greater impression upon Mayor Cobb. There is also a further reason for believing that President White is mistaken, because a day or two after the meeting referred to by Mayor Cobb, he was talking with a reporter and repeated to him just what President
White had said in regard to the question,
and which he now has apparently forgotten. The Mayor's recent statement of President White's words is exactly the same as he quoted it to the reporter, a day or two after President White said it. This would seem to settle the matter beyond question, even if Mayor Cobb's statement
had not already done so.

It is rather curious that the interest in the coming city election should be confined almost entirely to the selection of a mayor,
and little or nothing has been said about
the aldermen, although a good board of aldermen is fully as important as a good mayor. In spite of the new charter, a mayor, however capable, would find himself badly handicapped with a board of aldermen not up to the mark. If he had men in the board whose only desire was
to play politics, to put some one in a hole,
to pay off old grudges, or in short actuated
by motives other than the good of the city,
the mayor would have a very uncomfortable time, even if he succeeded in giving a good business-like administration. The hap-pazard way in which aldermen are selected, the giving of a nomination to any man who wants it, is not always productive
of good results, even in Newton.

It is to be regretted that Alderman Forknall was thrown down in the Ward One Republican caucus, but he was notified some days ago by Alderman Ivy that he need not expect a renomination, because he had not followed that alderman's lead. Alderman Briston was also left out, but he probably saw of an election, as he will get the Democratic and Citizens' nominations.
Mr. Briston has made a good record in the board, and all the better for his not being a talking member. The moral motto, given him last inauguration day by his friends,
was "Say nothing and Saw Wood," and this he has followed, and his votes have generally been on the right side. He represents a large class of our citizens, who ought as a simple matter of fairness, to have at least one representative in the city government.

It is unfortunate for public men when they lack a sense of humor. President McKinley evidently is too solemnly self-appreciative to have this sense, and so we find him now promising to press vigorously
in his coming message to Congress, the necessity of a stringent immigration restriction law, while he favors taking in some 10,000,000 Malay savages, to say nothing of the coolie labor importation for the Hawaiian sugar planters, and the ignorant colored population of Cuba and Porto Rico. It is supposed that the proposed antiimmigration law will make the labor vote
solid for the party, and hence is solemnly favored, while of course the labor vote is too ignorant to see any danger from the Philippine and other annexation.

It is a result of the influence of Imperialism that the government takes no interest in the slaughter of colored people in the Carolinas, and the murder of colored laborers in Illinois? Possibly all these murders are regarded as simply the work of "Destiny," against which it is useless to fight, or possibly no wealthy syndicates see any money to be made in protecting the life of the humble colored brother. But is this a sample of the civilization and Christianity the Imperialists are so anxious to carry to the savages of the Philippine islands.

THE Jefferson Club has endorsed Hon.
J. Wesley Kimball for mayor, it is reported. It is not known whether Mr. Kimball would accept a nomination on such an endorsement, but he never did like to lead a forlorn hope, and his re-entry into Newton politics under such auspices would certainly be rather curious. He has hitherto been content to rest on his laurels, as a candidate who had never been defeated at the polls, and it is hardly probable that he would be willing to change such a record.

THE interesting statement is made that the Davis and anti-Davis factions in Ward Three have finally kissed and made up, and are now combined in favor of E. B. Wilson for mayor. The rumor is certainly worth chronicling.

Mr. Fiske Declines.

To the Editor of the GRAPHIC:—
As my name has been mentioned in connection with the mayoralty of Newton, and subsequently withdrawn, I deem it proper to say:

First, my friends must be exonerated
from the charge of using my name without my knowledge or consent, for they had both. At the time of the state election nothing was farther from my thoughts or desires than a nomination for the mayoralty. Within a few days of that time gentlemen from different sections of the city spoke to me upon the subject, and I finally said that if there should be a strong call from the people of Newton, I would consent, but did not wish to be pushed forward as a candidate, and under no circumstances would I enter any contest.
At that time the non-partisan movement
was on foot and I called to mind the fact that some ten years ago (being pardon for mentioning it) there came to me a call from both the Republican and Citizens'
parties, to which I could not respond on account of business interests. It was presented to me in the form of a letter, but my thought was that if such a call came again
I could now respond. I do not believe in partnership in city affairs. It may be necessary to have different organizations
and even to call them by party names, but
the chief executive of the city should know
no Republican or Democrat as such, nor be biased to any party. Again, every good citizen today, without regard to party affiliation, is desirous for a clean, economic administration, and for any one party to take up the "anti-ring" cry or that of "Municipal Reform" as political capital
against another party is both mischievous
and absurd, as these are in no sense party
questions in Newton.

With sincere thanks to my friends for the honor they have done me in even mentioning my name in connection with the mayoralty, I remain

Yours very truly,
Geo. M. FISKE.

Auburndale, Nov. 23rd, 1898.

An Explanation From Mr. Gardiner.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 22, 1898.

To the Editor of the GRAPHIC:—

I shall be obliged to you if you will allow me to correct certain statements in your editorial of Friday, Nov. 18th, entitled
"That Non-Partisan Movement." I am entirely willing to leave my reputation in the hands of those citizens of Newton who have known me for the ten or fifteen years
in which I have been active in Newton politics, and I am sure that it is no undue confidence in myself which leads me to think that every fair-minded man among the many citizens of Newton who know me will give me credit for integrity, sincerity, purity of motive and absolute disinterestedness. It is, I believe, well known that I have never sought or been willing to accept any office or any advantage to myself, but it is rather discouraging to a man who has at all events intended to do right,
to find, as I do, that his efforts toward the fulfillment of his duties as a citizen have simply given a handle to his opponents, as they have mine, to beat down his reputation and hold him up to the new men who are constantly coming to Newton, as a disreputable and dishonest machine politician.

There is no statement of fact in the editorial referred to regarding me, which is true, nor any statement of opinion which has a reasonable foundation, and I believe the same thing may be said as to each of the other gentlemen whose names you have chosen to mention. I am not, nor have I been for some years, and I believe the same is true of the other gentlemen, a member of the "clean sweep" City Committee.
Whenever a candidate has been brought up for office, I have always asked whether he was honest, competent, and the best man available, and I have never thought that a candidate's politics were material
when the question of a non-partisan office,
like that of a place in the City Government was concerned. The fact that I have not always agreed with you as to the answer to those questions, gives you no right to make insinuations as to my political morality.
Mr. Luitweiler's statement that the meeting referred to was not a partisan meeting,
and was not in the nature of a caucus, is any half dozen men, was absolutely and literally true. Your test of non-partisanship seems to be the support of a Democrat
for Mayor, but you are apparently not aware that the gentleman whom you favor
for the next mayor of Newton joined the Republican Club of Newton when it was organized two years ago. If he has remained with that party, the GRAPHIC, of its own test, can no longer claim to be independent. If he had not, there are few of your readers who would not have thought
he had shown small judgment and less patriotism.

I find it difficult to characterize that part of the editorial referred to which quotes a rumor as to a promise by the leaders of this non-partisan movement to give a prominent Democratic lawyer the position of City Solicitor. It is true that the editorial goes on to say that you do not believe in it, but you only quote it to show how ready some people are to say bad things of
men if they show any signs of independence in politics. Your quoting the rumor is an instance of the truth of what you say about the "clean sweep" City Committee.
I can speak absolutely only for myself, but my confidence in the other gentlemen, whose names you have chosen to mention, is such that I am almost equally ready to speak for them in denouncing the rumor as absolutely unfounded and the grossest fabrication.
Furthermore, in my whole experience in Newton politics, I have never known of any political action among the men with whom I have been associated, to which the utmost publicity might not have been given. I trust that, as you have ingeniously contrived without danger to yourself to give the widest circulation you could to these aspersions upon my character, you will see the justice of giving this denial equal publicity.

Yours truly,
ROBT H. GARDINER.

NEWTON THE WINNER.

THE GREAT FOOTBALL GAME OF THANKS-GIVING DAY—THE SCORE STANDS SIX TO FIVE.

There were fully 600 spectators on the Cedar street grounds, yesterday morning, to see the game between the Newton and Newtowne clubs which played a tie game last year. It was a snappy and aggressive game, and Newton
won by its ability to kick a goal from a touchdown. Newtowne played a fine game, but it failed to hold up against the line—bucking of Newton at critical points.
For Newton, Johnson, Nash, Hawes,
Bruce and Maguire did the best playing.
Johnson was a tower of strength to the line. It was impossible for the New-towne backs to get their distance round
him, and he was down the field under punts as fast as the ball itself. Given a college team in the country, he would "make"
any college team in the country.
Newton's line played better than her backs, and had to stand largely the brunt of the battle, for it was often very poorly backed up.

For Newtowne, Saul, Kerrigan, Gonterman and Le Moyne were by all odds the best men. On both defence and offence
they were in every play, and Saul, especially, is to be praised for the splendid way in which he handled the ball, for his centre
was as wild as a hawk.

The line-up:
NEWTON A. A. NEWTOWNE A. C.
Johnson, I. E. ... F. G. Maguire
Nash, I. E. ... F. G. Higgins
Bruce, Warren, I. G. ... G. Galbraith, Henian
Bartlett, Wheelock, ... G. Harding
Seaver, Bruce, ... I. E. Hazen
Hawes, ... I. E. Le Moyne
Esterbrook, ... I. E. Newell
Maguire, ... I. E. Saul
Erickson, I. H. ... F. H. B. Kerrigan
Sears, ... I. H. B. Gonterman
Bossidy, ... I. H. B. Cobb, Sands
Score—Newton A. A., 6; Newtowne A. C., 5.
Touchdown—Nash. Goal from touchdown—Maguire. Umpire—Dan Leland. Referee—Dudley Dean. Linesman—Kimball Bixby. Time—two thirty-minute halves. Attendance—600.

Mr. Dewson's Position.

Newtonville, Nov. 23, 1898.

To the Editor of the GRAPHIC:—
Will you kindly allow me to explain my connection with the so called "Citizens Caucus" attempted to be held at Newtonville this evening.

I was as I supposed asked to join with other well known citizens in a call for such a meeting, in the hope that a candidate for the office of Mayor might be found who would be acceptable to a majority in the community, without regard to party affiliation. I stated that other engagements would prevent my attendance at such a meeting. To my surprise I found myself announced as Chairman in the poster
through which the meeting was called: an assumption of which I could, under no circumstances be guilty, for such a meeting
should be free to organize under its own conditions, and such an announcement would of itself have been enough to keep me away from the meeting until it had opportunity to organize.

Calling in at a later hour expecting to find a properly organized meeting in conduct of the business for which it had come together, I found instead a condition of confusion and misunderstanding which led me to disown any connection with it, and the assembly soon dissolved.

Mrs. E. Z. Spurr of Evergreen avenue left Wednesday for Bay Ridge, L. I.

Rev. Dr. Adams of Hancock street is reported as much improved in health.

Miss Healey of New Haven, Conn., is a guest of Mr. E. Altman of Prairie avenue.

There was a largely attended union Thanksgiving service at the Methodist Episcopal church, yesterday morning. Rev. W. T. Worth occupied the pulpit, and other pastors of the village participated in the service.

A concert is to be given Tuesday evening, Dec. 13, for the benefit of the Hancock street Congregational church. It will be under the direction of Mr. E. W. Tyler, who has secured for the occasion Mr. Felix Fox, pianist; Miss Priscilla White, soprano, and Miss Ethel de Ver Gratts, violinist.

A vesper service will be held at the Congregational church next Sunday morning at 7.30. A fine program will be rendered by the choir, including Gounod's "Gallia" entire. The soprano solo will be sung by Miss Alena G. Emerson, late a pupil of the famous Vannucci, Florence, Italy. All are cordially invited.

—Mr. Arthur Standish has returned from Lincoln, Me., with two large deer which he shot on a gunning trip.

—Miss Elizabeth McLeod, who has been a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cowdrey of Watertown street, left yesterday for New York. She sails from that place tomorrow on the Lucania for a six month's European tour.

—The vesper service at the Congregational church next Sunday evening will present Gounod's "Gallia" entire. Miss Alena G. Emerson, a student under some of the best European masters, will assist the choir.

—Monday evening's meeting of Riverdale Lodge, N. E. O. P., was held in McVicar's hall on Auburn street. Two new members were admitted and other business of importance transacted. Later refreshments were served.

—On the 30th of November and the 1st of December the ladies of the Methodist church will give, in their church, a sale and supper. A small entrance fee will open the way to a pleasant entertainment, and the sight of a fine array of fancy articles, suitable for holiday gifts. A very toothsome supper will be provided each evening. They desire a generous patronage.

—Louis Barstien and Jacob Greenblatt, who live over 32 on the boulevard near the corner of Ash street about noon, Tuesday, and as a result were brought before Judge Kennedy Wednesday morning. Had their altercation been quietly conducted probably nothing would have been heard of it, but when they commenced fistfighting Patrolman Quilly found it necessary to make an arrest. Both men are peace-pickers and in the heat of the moment began pulling each other's pockets. Clothes and garments of all shapes and sizes were strewn about the street. A large crowd gathered at the spot until the officer had arrested them. They were fined $5 each for disturbing the peace.

The Home Laundry.

To the Editor of the Graphic:—

Will you allow me a little space in your columns to answer some objections to the plan for the establishment of a "Home Laundry" in our city? These objections arise in every case, I think, from a misunderstanding of the plan. If then, I make a plain statement of the plan and explain clearly the purpose for which the laundry is to be established, all the objections will be answered.

There are upon the list of the Associated Charities the names of eighty-seven women who are asking for work. They are washerwomen. A few of them have husbands who are out of work, but many of them are women whose husbands have either died or deserted them, leaving them with children to support. Now there is a very general complaint that much of the work done by the public laundries is far from satisfactory.

The Household Economics Committee of the Newton Federation of Clubs have before them these two facts, namely: 1st, There are eighty-seven washerwomen in our city asking for work; 2nd, the public laundry work now done is to a great extent unsatisfactory. In view of these two facts the committee think that a laundry might be established in our city which would give employment to these washerwomen, and at the same time offer to our housekeepers the kind of laundry work they demand. And what is the kind of work they demand?

First, that the linen should be washed and ironed in clean rooms, the sanitary condition of which should be above suspicion. Second, that the linen when it is drying should be exposed in fair weather to the health giving influences of sunshine and fresh air. Third, that the linen should not be injured by destructive chemical agents; fourth, that the linen should not be torn to pieces and worn out by machinery.

There are few if any of the existing laundries that fulfill all the above requirements. It will be the aim of the "Home Laundry" to do so.

The Newton Federation of Clubs has sent reply postals to many of its members, asking for patronage. It is to be distinctly understood that they do not ask for the patronage of those housekeepers who are already giving their washing to the poor women or poor men in our city. They only ask for the washing of those housekeepers who are not sending it to large laundries outside of Newton. The "Home Laundry" will collect and deliver the linen. The prices will be the same as those asked by first-class laundries for their best hand work. If, however, it is found after the "Home Laundry" is in operation that the prices can be placed at a lower figure and the laundry be self-supporting, this reduction will immediately be made. Then the price for shirts, to which some objection has been made, can be brought down to twelve cents and possibly to ten cents.

It is desirable to ascertain as soon as possible just how much patronage might be expected, accordingly we would ask those of your readers who have received our reply postal cards to be kind enough to give them immediate attention.

Those of your readers who have not received cards and who would like to help on this good work by their patronage, can do so by sending their names to Mrs. F. A. Waterhouse, Newtonville, chairman Household Economics Committee.

Literary Notes.

Mr. Benjamin Kidd, the distinguished English sociologist and publicist, author of "Social Evolutionism" and "The Control of the Tropics," who after more than two months' travel and observation from Boston to San Francisco has just left our shores, devoted the closing day of his visit, in which he greatly heightened his already great American reputation, to putting upon paper his views of the international and colonial responsibilities and duties of the United States, as enforced and modified in his mind by his own personal experience and observations in America. Mr. Kidd's conclusions regarding the control of the tropics and our responsibilities therein will be eagerly awaited and carefully studied by all thoughtful readers, both as coming from so eminent a source—at once critical and friendly—and also as the only written utterance issued by Mr. Kidd during his American tour. This paper appears in the December number of the Atlantic Monthly, through which Mr. Kidd will make this deliberate expression of his judgment regarding "expansion" available to him on the day of his sailing for home.

It is not often that one picks up a new book so clever and so pleasant in tone as "Concerning Isabel Carnaby," by Ellen Thornycroft Fowler, a recent novel which is a gem of the kind. It is a story in fact, and is now published by D. Appleton & Co. of New York in their familiar dollar series of English novels. The author's materials are of the simplest; a clever young author and politician without fortune falls in love with an uncommonly clever young woman, who after a severe struggle with her pride and love of luxury, gives up her prospects of a brilliant match to marry him. But her perverse nature makes her quarrel with her lover, and it is not until the closing chapters that the match is made up. The bare outline does not promise much, but the conversations are uncommonly witty. Too witty, in fact, for it is fatiguing to have the ball kept too constantly on the go. The judicious novelist retreats often to the back line and importance transacted. Later refreshments were served.

Joseph A. Altscheler, who has done creditable work in the field of historical fiction in "A Soldier of Manhatant" and "The Sun of Saratoga," has advanced considerably in his art in "A Legend of the West." (D. Appleton & Co.), which tells with much detail and in a trustworthy manner the story of the war of 1812. The author has evidently read widely and carefully on the subject and the book can be recommended as collateral reading for classes in American history. The hero is a Kentuckian employed as a clerk in the treasury department at Washington. Secret government missions take him to various parts of the country at critical moments, and he sees something of the insolent behavior of British war ships, and is present at the defeat of the British at the Battle of the Clouds. He sees, too, the invasion of Washington by the British, but by compensation is also present at the New Orleans fight. The book is both interesting and instructive.

"The Scourge of God" (D. Appleton & Co.), by John Honnold Barton, is a historical romance dealing with the religious persecutions of the Huguenots in France, and gives a vivid picture, not at all exaggerated, of the sufferings caused by the religious persecutions of the Huguenots. The title of the book is taken from the nickname of a notable warrior in those fierce internecine struggles which did so much to prepare the way for the other misfortunes of France. It is full of adventure, and is likely to be read with interest by any one who has not had a surfeit of the sort of fiction to which it belongs.

A Religious Expansionist's Hymn.

Quite the most astonishing product of a war singularly productive of bad poetry is the preposterous "hymn" sent out by the "national monument fund association" to be sung all over the land next Sunday. "In remembrance of the men who died in the service of the United States, during the Spanish war." First the congregation takes the Almighty into its confidence in regard to the achievements of our gunners:—

There's much blood on our hands, Lord,
But no bloodguiltiness.
There really ought to be a line or two here recommending Dewey and Schley to respectful consideration. Then we are expected to assure the Lord that these Dagos are a bad lot, and that in killing them off we are really living Christ in virtue:—

Spain's blood was of atonement
For us that she had done,
And ours was sacrificial,
As that of Thy Dear Son.

The sentiment is quite worthy of Brownings' "John of the Temple:—

Bountiful Lamb,
I have roasted thee Turks, though men roast me.
In the second stanza the poet seems to be thinking himself that he has been assuming too much martial credit for our temporal arms, and has hastened to assure the Lord that the divine assistance at Manila and Santiago has not been overlooked:—

We came to Thee in arms, Lord,
In panoply of war,
And found Thy battle charges
Yoked to Thy fighting car:
We came to Thee in arms, Lord,
And lo! Thy Seraph's flame-sword
Was made our swift falchion!

Yet even in extending this vote of thanks for services received, we are scarcely less offensively arrogant. The dominant note is self-complacency at having a "pull" with the deity, which leaves no chance for the other fellows who say their prayers in Latin. The whole hymn is vile doggerel, gross in taste, impious and impudent. Let it be recalled in time to save the country from a source of lasting mortification. Has Dewey raised our humbleness to a point where we cannot be modest even in the presence of God?—Springfield Republican.

The usual symphony party on Saturday evening, Miss Kendrick accompanying.

The monthly meeting of the Lasell Missionary Society took place on Sunday afternoon last. The session was one of unusual interest, since it gave "A trip around the World in Forty Minutes." An entertaining feature of this trip was the reading, by various members of the society, of clippings, letters, or poems relating to the points of interest which were in imagination visited during the hour of the meeting.

Bits of personal experience in Mexico, added to the interest. Miss Packard was the conductor of the party on this tour of mission fields. It may be interesting to remark here that the girls of Lasell support by voluntary contributions two or three girls in as many different parts of the world, who are being under the care of missionaries, and receiving their education at mission schools. This is a work worthy of their sympathies.

On Wednesday evening a party of the students went to "Shore Acres."

Thanksgiving took a considerable part of the pupils away from the seminary, but there were enough of those who remained, and the school was able to fill comfortably the beautiful dining hall on the occasion of the royally good feast which was, as always, provided for the day at Lasell. The principal and his family, with their guests, dined with the school, according to custom.

Miss Raymond, pianiste, and Signor Perera, the celebrated mandolinist, will appear at the Lasell gymnasium in concert, Monday evening, Nov. 28th, at 8 o'clock, under the auspices of the Lasell Instrumental Club. A cordial invitation is extended to the public by the Club and Mr. Hills, the director.

At 7.30, on Wednesday evening, Nov. 30, at Lasell seminary, Rev. Helen Van-Anderson of Newtonville will speak upon "Life Principles and their Application." Friends are welcome.

What is Scott's Emulsion?

It is a strengthening food and tonic, remarkable in its flesh-forming properties. It contains Cod-Liver Oil emulsified or partially digested, combined with the well-known and highly prized Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda, so that their potency is materially increased.

What Will It Do?

It will arrest loss of flesh and restore to a normal condition the infant, the child and the adult. It will enrich the blood of the anemic; will stop the cough, heal the irritation of the throat and lungs, and cure incipient consumption. We make this statement because the experience of twenty-five years has proven it in tens of thousands of cases. Be sure you get SCOTT'S Emulsion. 50c. and $1.00, all druggists. —John Wenzel, Esq., the lawyer, who has lately taken a house on Harrison street at Eliot, has been chosen as the librarian and secretary of the Boston Law School.
—At the meeting of the Newton Congregational Church, held on Monday evening at the Central church, Newtonville, there was a large attendance from the Highlands church. Mr. George W. Ball and Mr. W. B. Wood were admitted to membership of the club.
—The Business Men's Class held at the noon hour at the Congregational church, was addressed last Sunday by Mr. W. B. Wood. Next Sunday the class will be addressed by Lawyer Mellen, on School Manners and Morals. These talks are of much interest, and are largely attended.
—The Rev. T. W. Bishop will preach at the Methodist church next Sunday morning and evening. The evening subject will be "The Worth of a Good Name," a sermon for young people. There will be a short praise service in the evening, with solo singing. A cordial welcome to everybody.

—The Methodist Episcopal church here is holding in a notable increase of prosperity. A determined and successful attempt is being made to raise the indebtedness, and the Sunday school and the church attendance are the largest in the history of the church. It is only fair to say that this is largely due to the energetic pastorate of Rev. T. W. Bishop, well known to the people of this city, as this is the third pastorate and the ninth year which he has served in Newton. Rev. Mr. Bishop, being a graduate in high standing of Harvard University and also of Andover Theological Seminary, is of pronounced literary gifts and most scholarly training. His wide travels and acquaintance also render him particularly helpful in his present field. Last Monday evening he was the guest of the Newton Congregational Church, chosen to represent and speak for the Methodist Episcopal churches of Newton.

—The services at All Souls Unitarian church next Sunday will be of unusual interest. At the morning service in High-church hall, at 10.45, Rev. Francis B. Hornbrook of the Channing church, Newton, will preach in exchange with Rev. Wm. Safford Jones. Sunday school at noon. There will be a special evening service at 7.45, Rev. James Ellis of the First church, Boston, successor of Rev. Stopford W. Brooke, will preach. Mr. Ellis was formerly minister of a large Presbyterian church at Englewood, N. J. When he left the Presbyterian body because he could no longer honestly subscribe to the Westminster Confession, The Outlook spoke of him as one of the ablest and most brilliant young ministers in the Presbyterian church. His father was formerly moderator of the general assembly of the Presbyterians, a distinguished clergyman. Mr. Ellis is an eloquent preacher. Special music at the evening service. All cordially invited.

CITIZENS MASS CAUCUS.

THE CALL FOUND TO BE ILLEGAL AND THE MEETING ADJOURNED.

The Citizens' Mass Caucus, called for Wednesday night in Grand Army hall, Newtonville, turned out to be illegal, and after some warm discussions the meeting adjourned. Some 300 citizens from all wards were present, but our involved canons laws created some confusion, and Mr. T. B. Fitzpatrick announced that the meeting could not act as a caucus, as there was no legally organized Citizens' party. The printed call was therefore illegal, and nothing definite could be done by those present.

Dr. Stearns said that he authorized the printing of the posters, but he had since found that the call for the caucus was illegal. He urged those present, however, to remain and discuss the business that had brought them together.

Mr. Fitzpatrick thought there was nothing to be gained from such a proceeding, and he moved to adjourn.

Capt. J. Albert Scott asked Mr. Fitzpatrick what right he had to assume the duties of chairman, but the latter replied that he was not assuming such duties.

Mr. F. A. Dawson, whose name was signed to the call, here entered the hall, and declared that the meeting was illegal, and therefore he could have nothing to do with it.

Mr. Fitzpatrick then criticized the calling of such a meeting, when Capt. Scott attempted to reply by asking if Mr. Fitzpatrick had attended the Woodland Park Hotel meeting. Mr. Fitzpatrick asked, "Who are you?"

Mr. Scott replied, "I am Captain J. Albert Scott."

Mr. Fitzpatrick said, "You are Scott! I refuse to have any discussion with you."

This closed that part of the proceedings, and Mr. John Flood, representing the Grand Army, asked all present to disperse, and the room was soon cleared.

YOUNG QUEEN WILHELMINA.

Her Coronation Called Out Many Pleasant Comments and Good Wishes.

The coronation of eighteen-year-old Queen Wilhelmina of Holland has called out many pleasant comments and good wishes for the young sovereign. This is natural; for, according to all accounts, Wilhelmina is a good and intelligent girl, as well as a charming one. Even newspapers strongly opposed to suffrage for American women are warm in their congratulations of the wise Dutch maiden.

This shows how completely the opposition to political rights for women is a matter of habit and prejudice. Every argument used against allowing a woman to vote applies with double force against allowing a woman to be a queen. Is it said that contact with public affairs must be destructive to womanhood? Then Wilhelmina should be pitied instead of congratulated. Is it said that political rights involve too much publicity? What amount of publicity is incurred by the average American voter, in comparison with "That fierce light that beats upon a throne?"

Is it said that political duties would take so much time as to compel a woman to neglect her family? Wilhelmina during her whole life will have to give more time to political duties than ninety-nine voters out of a hundred. Yet the very persons who object to equal suffrage for fear some woman might occasionally be elected to office are ready to congratulate Wilhelmina on her being placed for life in the highest office in her country.

Nearly forty years ago, Henry Ward Beecher called attention to this inconsistency. He said: "For ages, woman has been advanced to honor, influence, and the highest public trusts. If she will accept them in aristocratic forms, she may be an abbess, a countess, a queen. It is only woman without a title that must have no privileges. With a crown on her brow, she may enter parliaments, and govern empires. With only her own simple personal virtues, she may not lift up her hand to cast a vote. Now, as a Christian democrat, I assert for her every right and every privilege that aristocracy accords her. That which is good enough for a queen is not too good for my wife. That which is noble in a duchess is honorable in my daughter."

Good and bright as young Queen Wilhelmina doubtless is, yet there are thousands of American girls just as good and bright as she. Why should they be debarred as unfit from all share in political rights and responsibilities? Thoughtful men are more and more coming to say, with a late distinguished Senator, "If women are fit to rule in monarchies, it is difficult to see why they are not qualified to vote in a republic." Alice Stone Blackwell.

A Woman's Help in Need.

At Savannah, Ga., Mrs. W. W. Gordon, wife of General Gordon of the Seventh Army Corps, arrived late one evening from Jacksonville. Just as the train was about to leave Jacksonville a Ferdinandina train arrived, and some sick soldiers were crowded into the Pullman cars. There was no surgeon with the soldiers, and no nurses had been sent along. If nourishment had been provided, it had been exhausted. The men were weak, and some of them nearly famished. Mrs. Gordon obtained from the buffet the entire supply of milk, brandy and ice, and set about to revive the prostrated soldiers. One man died soon after the train started. Another was delirious from fever, and a third, in the last stages of typhoid fever, developed severe hemorrhages. A physician on the train was summoned, and civilian passengers gave up their places in the sleeping cars to the soldiers. Mrs. Gordon continued her work, supplying the invalids with milk punch and iced milk, and many of them revived. The man belonged to Co. C, 15th Ind. Inf., and was in charge of Capt. D. Salisbury, who did everything in his power to aid them. But while the medical department of the army fails to provide for our suffering soldiers, American women like Mrs. Gordon come to their rescue. Does not such a woman deserve a vote?

Hon. John D. Long on Suffrage.

Hon. John D. Long, Secretary of the Navy, says:

"Human ingenuity cannot suggest a single distinction between the sexes, so far as the right of voting is concerned. I can understand well enough why one man should be afraid of ignorant suffrage and desire additional educational qualifications; but while that test would exclude many men who vote, it would include women who do not. I can understand why another might demand the test of property, or loyalty, or age; but every such test would still be without distinction of sex."

"Right! Of course it is the denial of a right, and everybody knows it. It is idle to mystify this matter with refinements about natural and artificial right. Somebody even has suggested that women are not particularly in the Declaration of Independence or the Constitution. Neither are slaves. Even as to them, some used to argue that freedom is not a natural right; that children are not free; that offenders against the law and insane persons are not free; and that freedom is a matter of expedient discrimination. As a matter of common sense, you and I know that we contribute out of our property to a common fund, if we are taxed for a common purpose, if our rights, our liberties, our persons, our children, are affected by certain laws, we ought to have a voice in the arrangement; and if you doubt this, try the experiment with a lady of men and see what will come of it."

BUYING CANARIES.

The Change That Came Over a Young Diplomat's Fancy.

One of our Washington bird merchants tells a good story to illustrate the wavering course of young love's fickle fever. Something over a year ago a swell young diplomat, wearing a trim little white topcoat over his dress suit, came rushing into the store one night and asked to see the canaries.

"I wish you would be so verra kind to show me ze canary—ze verra finest" you lad."

A number of the little wooden cages were set out before him, and he looked at bird after bird, but did not seem to find what he wanted.

"I will tell you why I want ze canary," he said at length. "I haf met a verra lolly young lady. She ees beautiful. She ees verra fine. I will gif her ze canary—ze verra finest" you haf. How much ees zat canary?"

"The price of zat canary," said the bird store man, "is $5."

"Oh, zat ees not enough! I want ze verra finest canary you haf."

The dealer went again to the shelf where he kept his stock of yellow songsters and brought out a bird the price of which on ordinary occasions was the same as that of the rest. He would have been glad any time to get a $5 bill for him.

"There," he said, "is an exceptionally good singer. That is a trained bird. The price is $15."

"Oh, zat ees ze bird! Now ze cage."

He bought a $10 cage, and, leaving directions where the bird and the cage were to be sent, rushed out as fast as he could, evidently thoroughly satisfied with his purchase.

A few days ago the same young man came into the store and again asked for a canary.

The dealer's eyes snapped. He saw another chance to sell a $15 bird in a $10 cage.

He briskly set out the finest canaries he had and gave stiff prices on them. But the diplomat didn't warm up a bit. He shrugged his shoulders and kept saying: "Too much! Too much!"

Finally he threw up his hands and expostulated: "Ze price ees too high. Haf you a cheaper bird? Ze canary ees not for a beautiful young lady. I am married now, and a $3 bird will do."

The dealer made the best of the situation and sold him a $3 bird and a $2 cage, and he trotted off seemingly as happy as he was a year ago after paying five times as much for the same thing.—Washington Star.

Didn't Appreciate the Joke.

One of the great practical jokers of the British navy was one Jack Hathorn. He was officer of the watch in the day when it was customary for the guard to present arms to the officer commanding the vessel whenever he left or boarded the ship. One day Captain Burdett remarked, as they were going through this ceremony before he went ashore: "Mr. Hathorn, I am tired of this guard. Don't call it again when I come back."

Hathorn did not, but he managed to surprise the captain quite as thoroughly as if he had. When that dignitary came over the side on his return, he found the old fashion had proved so tiresome a reception by cavalry might prove welcome.

Hathorn was dismissed the service for this bit of pleasantry.—San Francisco Argonaut.

Rats on Ironclads.

Confronted with the difficulties which modern builders and householders put in the way of rats in drains, floors and skirting, the black rat would probably be baffled, while the sagacious gray rat still remains more or less master of the situation. The case of the rat is typical of the value of brain power. Routine, which is the usual condition of animal existence, does not exist for them. They have to face "reconstructions" of their common surroundings at any given moment, and their resources and adaptability have seldom been found wanting.

Ship rats have survived the era of steam and steel and only recently thrived so successfully in a big ironclad that they made the navy's ship Colossus almost uninhabitable. House rats have learned how to cope with gas fittings, lead pipes, brick drains and cement floors. "Sewer rats" have made themselves a name coeval with modern urban sanitation, and others are now learning to live in "cold stores" and eat chilled meat and game in an atmosphere where breath turns into snow.—London Spectator.

Women and Tips.

Women don't give tips as readily as men, don't subscribe as liberally to miscellaneous objects, like bargain counters better than men, do more alert in saving small sums, cheapening domestic service and household supplies and such matters. Why? Not because they are poorer than men, but because they have less money and more time.

The average man who earns money and has it to spend is an economist of time. Minutes are of more value to him than dimes or "nickels." He pays readily for prompt service, does not consider small differences of price, but expedites his progress through the day by any minor disbursements that seem expedient. If he is a hardworked man, he likes to save time and thought and bother as well as time, and would often rather pay than think. He is apt to consider, not always wisely, that his time and thought are more profitably spent in earning money than in saving it by dribbles.—Harper's Bazar.

Scarcely Complimentary.

The incumbent of a country vicarage had long a thorn in his side in the shape of a crusty old farmer, who delighted in opposing and annoying the vicar in every possible way. The parson, having been offered another living, accepted it, mainly to escape his tormentor. Taking leave of the parish, he called upon the farmer and was surprised and even touched by the man's evident regret and sorrow for his departure.

"Why, I thought you would be glad to get rid of me," exclaimed the vicar. The farmer shook his head solemnly. "Nay, nay!" he said in a broken voice. "You see, sir, I've lived here for nigh on 40 years, and my experience of our parson is that there's never a bad un goes but a wuss un comes."—Pegson's Weekly.

"Why don't you get out of debt?" "I haven't time. It keeps me busy getting in."—Baltimore Jewish Comment.
